America's Greatest Medicine

Greatest, because it does what all other medicines fail to do. As an instance of its peculiar and unusual curative power, consider the most insidious disease, and the disease which taints the blood of most people, producing incalculable suffering to many, while in others it is a latent force liable to burst into activity and produce untold misery on the least provocation.

Scrofula is the only ailment to which the above sweeping statement can honestly be made. Now, a medicine that can meet this common enemy of mankind and repeatedly effect the wonderful cures Hood's Sarsaparilla has, clearly has the right to the title of America's Greatest Medicine. Dog with a history.

A dog with an interesting history has just died in France. He was a New foundland named Sultan, and he counted among his exploits the arrest of a thief, the capture of an assassin, the rescue of a child from drowning in the Marne, and of a man who attempted to commit suicide by jumping from the Pont-Neuf into the Seine. For this gallantry the Society for the Protection of Animals presented him with a collar of honor three years ago. Latterly Sultan was owned by the Comtesse Foucher de Carell, who relied on him to protect her castle at Perdy, near Corbeil. Quite recently he prevented the castle from being robbed. The noble dog has paid his devotion to duty with his life, for he was found dead in the park, poisoned by his enemies. —Lloyd's London Weekly.

COULD NOT SLEEP.

Mrs. Finkham Relieved Her of All Her Troubles.

Mrs. MADGE BARCOCK, 176 Second St., Grand Rapids, Mich., had ovarian trouble with its attendant aches and pains, now she is well. Here are her own words: "Your Vegetable Compound has made me feel like a new person. Before I began taking it I was all run down, felt tired and sleepy most of the time, had pains in my back and side, and such terrible headaches all the time, and could not sleep well nights. I also had ovarian trouble. Through the advice of a friend I began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and since taking it all troubles have gone. My monthly sickness used to be so painful, but now I have not had the slightest pain since taking your medicine. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound too much. My husband and friends see such a change in me. I look so much better and have some color in my face."

Mrs. Finkham invites women who are ill to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice, which is freely offered.

BATTLE WITH A SNAKE.

A Florida Story Related by the Chicago Chronicle.

Mrs. Byron Brown, who lives over in the West End settlement, five miles from Ocala, Fla., had an exciting set-to with a huge snake the other day that has made her a great reputation as a brave woman. She has a fine lot of poultry. She never gives a chicken away, kills one or sells one, much to the disgust of her husband, who is a practical man, and wants to see some money come in for the big outlay in getting the fowls.

The other day while Mrs. Brown was in the house cooking some eggs for her husband's dinner she heard a terrible commotion in the hen yard. Running out she saw a huge snake devouring one of her pet chickens. She stood struck dumb with horror and pain—she was from Boston—and then her Yankee blood was roused and she determined that the "sarpint" should pay for his meal. Catching up a big stick, she struck at the snake, but missed, and the next moment the snake flew at her. She nimbly jumped aside and it missed her dress by an inch. Turning tail the reptile sought safety in flight. Gliding down by the fence, it sought a big knot hole and started to get out. As its folds disappeared through the hole Mrs. Brown was seized by a brilliant idea. Jumping forward she seized its tail and began pulling back. The snake thrashed vigorously, but couldn't strike back on account of the boards.

Mrs. Brown was struck by another brilliant idea. With an adroitness peculiar to women she tied the snake's tail in a double bow knot. Then slipping a big wedge of wood right behind it she drove a stake through the loops so the snake couldn't get back. Then going up to the other side she sought to kill the reptile. But his angry hiss and threatening look were too much for her. She ran into the house and came out with the eggs that had been boiling all this time, and was sizzling with heat. Getting the reptile excited she threw an egg. The snake struck at it in anger and madly swallowed it. Two or three more followed in rapid succession, the infuriated reptile swallowing every one as it came along. At the fourth one the snake seemed to think it had had enough of this red-hot kind of food and wildly thrashed about trying to get free. Soon one of the eggs came through its upper side, having burned its way through the snake's body. Then another and another followed until all were on the ground and a dying snake lay there. Mrs. Brown then waxed brave, and getting a pine wood knot, pounded the reptile's head into bits. It measured 9 feet 5/8 inches long and was 10 inches around the middle.

She saved the eggs and her husband remarked that day at dinner that she had "allowed the eggs to get pretty hard," whereas Mrs. Brown smiled.

WISCONSIN'S YOUNG JURIST.

Judge John E. Pannier, of Chippewa Falls, but 23 Years Old.

The youngest judge in Wisconsin, and probably the youngest in the country, is John E. Pannier, elected County Judge at Chippewa Falls, Wis., last spring. He is 23 years old and succeeded Judge Belden, of Racine, who ten years ago, at the time of his election, was the youngest judge on the bench.

Judge Pannier was born in Chippewa Falls and is a product of the public schools, which he attended until he was graduated from the high school in 1892.

French Marmalade—This recipe is very good for seasons when fruit is scarce. Peel six large cooking apples and put them over a slow fire, together with a half-pound of sugar and a wine-glassful of orange juice. When well stewed add two and a half pounds of seeded raisins and just water enough to prevent their burning. Cook slowly until the fruits appear well dissolved, then beat through a strainer and next through a sieve. Mold if desired or put away in small fruit jars and serve out in thin slices with cream.

Nesselrode Padding—Press through a colander a pint of blanched and boiled chestnuts. Pound a pint of blanched sweet almonds. Cut a half-pound of candied fruit into small pieces. Boil a pint of water with a pound of sugar for fifteen minutes, then add the beaten yolks of six eggs to the boiling sirup and stir over the fire until thick, then take off and beat with a spoon until cold. Add the fruit and nuts, a tablespoonful of vanilla and a pint of cream. Mix well, put in freezer and freeze. When hard stand away four or five hours before serving.

JOHN E. PANNIER.

He then spent a year or more making the best of his time and opportunities in studying in the law office of Colonel L. J. Rusk, after which he went to Madison, where he entered the law course and was graduated with honors in 1895. Shortly after he began the practice of his profession. At the time of the spring election he secured the nomination and was elected to the office of County Judge.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Grease Stains in Velvet.

Pour turpentine over the grease stains in velvet and rub with clean flannel until it is dry. Should the spots be not removed by the first application, repeat the process, and when this is done, brush the part rapidly, but gently. Lastly, hang the velvet in the air to evaporate the oil; that of holding a hot iron near the back of the material.

To Clean Papier Mache.

With a sponge apply to the surface lukewarm water and plain white soap. Wash off the suds and wipe the tray dry, then sprinkle with flour. Allow this to stay on for a short while, then rub off with a dry rag, and finally polish the tray with a silk handkerchief. Heat marks on papier mache trays should be treated with an application of sweet oil and spirits of wine, though even this remedy is not infallible when the marks are very bad ones.

Black and Burnt Spiders.

To clean black and burnt spiders or kettles, boil in them a little salt and vinegar, then scour vigorously with an iron dishcloth. Copper and brass may be brightened by a vigorous rubbing with a slice of lemon dipped in salt. Frozen vegetables are less impaired if placed at once in a cold salt-water bath and left in a warm place to thaw. If a teaspoonful of salt is added to a quart of milk it will keep sweet and pure a much longer time. If the cook at any time gets a dish too sweet to suit the taste a pinch of salt is a corrective, and vice versa.

Cooking Meats.

A ham weighing ten pounds requires to boil three hours and a quarter. A small chicken should boil twenty minutes; a large fowl forty-five minutes to one hour; a neck of mutton demands one hour and a half, and a pickled tongue two and a half to three hours.

The loss in weight occasioned by the action of boiling varies with different meats. Pork, hams, beef and mutton experience about twelve per cent. of loss, while poultry diminishes about fourteen and three-fourths per cent. A turkey loses sixteen per cent. upon its original weight.

Folding Linen.

If sheets and tablecloths are so folded that the selvage edges will pass through the wringer first, they will be less likely to curl and will be smoother. Never hang articles singly on a windy day; if doubled or quadrupled even, they will dry, and frayed and otherwise dilapidated corners will be less frequent. Use a small whisk broom to dampen clothes preparatory to ironing. Fold napkins and handkerchiefs once, place one upon another and roll. To prevent the fringe of towels from breaking and wearing off, snap the towels when the fringe is damp.

Recipes.

Peas in Turnip Cups

—Peel ten medium-sized turnips; cut a slice from the bottom, that they may stand upright, and boil in salted water until tender. With a spoon scrape out the inside, leaving a quarter-inch wall of turnip, and filled with creamed peas, using canned instead of fresh peas, and adding a teaspoonful of powdered mint.

Junglet Jelly

—Place one pint of currant jelly, either black or red, in a double boiler and set where it will slowly melt. As it is melting stir in two tablespoonfuls of dry English mustard. As soon as the jelly and mustard are perfectly blended into a paste, pour it into dainty little individual molds, to be turned out when perfectly molded. Best prepared the day before.

Duck-Liver Balls

—Chop fine and rub through a strainer the livers of the ducks to be served for dinner. Add two beaten eggs, one-half teaspoon of salt, a few grains of paprika and two teaspoonfuls of fine chopped parsley. Add soft bread crumbs sufficient to bind the mixture, that it may be formed into tiny balls; drop into hot water or stock and cook five minutes. Serve with clear soup.

Onion Souffle

—Two cups of white sauce, one cup of rolled cracker crumbs soaked in a cup and a half of milk, two cups of chopped, cold, cooked onions and the beaten yolks of five eggs; mix all well together, season with a half-teaspoonful of salt and quarter teaspoonful of white pepper; lastly fold in very lightly the five egg whites beaten to a stiff froth. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake one hour.

French Marmalade

—This recipe is very good for seasons when fruit is scarce. Peel six large cooking apples and put them over a slow fire, together with a half-pound of sugar and a wine-glassful of orange juice. When well stewed add two and a half pounds of seeded raisins and just water enough to prevent their burning. Cook slowly until the fruits appear well dissolved, then beat through a strainer and next through a sieve. Mold if desired or put away in small fruit jars and serve out in thin slices with cream.

Boil a pint of water with a pound of sugar for fifteen minutes, then add the beaten yolks of six eggs to the boiling sirup and stir over the fire until thick, then take off and beat with a spoon until cold. Add the fruit and nuts, a tablespoonful of vanilla and a pint of cream. Mix well, put in freezer and freeze. When hard stand away four or five hours before serving.

What a Man Can't Do.

A man cannot do two things at a time. A woman will broil a steak and see that the coffee does not boil over, and watch that the cat does not steal the remnant of the meat on the kitchen table, and dress the youngest boy, and set the table, and see to the toast, and stir the oatmeal, and give the orders to the butcher, and she can do it all at once, and not half try. Man has done wonders since he came before the public. He has navigated the ocean, he has penetrated the mysteries of the lightning heavens, he has harnessed the starting, and made it light the great cities of the world. But he can't find a reel of thread in his wife's work-basket; he can't discover her pocket in a dress hanging in the closet; he cannot hang out clothes and get them on the line the right end up. He cannot hold clothes' pins in his mouth while he is doing it either. He cannot be polite to somebody he hates. He cannot sew on a button. In short, he cannot do a hundred things that women do almost instinctively.

Smart Advertising.

The proprietor of Beecham's pills, or his agent, did a smart thing at Liverpool. Nelson's old flagship, the Fou-droyant, broke loose, it will be remembered, from its bearing in a storm, and drifted on to the shore. The Blackpool agent for Beecham's pills saw a splendid chance, and proceeded to paint on the side of the stranded vessel the inscription, "England expects every man to do his duty and take Beecham's pills." Mr. Cobb, the owner of the Fou-droyant, has sued the proprietor of the pills for a trespass and damages, with the result that he has been awarded by a jury 40s against the agent, and 45s against the principal. The advertisement will probably not be regarded as very dear.—Lloyd's London Weekly.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness results, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to normal condition, hearing will be destroyed for ever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Monitor

A newspaper published at Menard, Ont., Canada, first discovered this case two years ago, and published it at length, which now seems, owing to the effort, to be a miracle. The facts were so remarkable that many people doubted the truth of them. They said: "It is too remarkable; it cannot possibly be true; the paper is mistaken, and the man, although he may think himself cured, will soon relapse into his former condition," etc., etc. The accuracy of its report, called in question, the Monitor determined to find out definitely whether the facts were as stated and whether the man would really stay cured. They accordingly kept a close watch on the case for two years after the first article appeared, and have just now published another article about it in which the original wide to take solid food. The doctors called the disease spinal sclerosis, and all said he could not live.

For three years, he lingered in this condition. Then by some friends he was advised to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He took them and there was a slight change. The first thing noted was a tendency to sweat freely. This showed there was some life left in his helpless body. Next came a little feeling in his limbs. This extended, followed by prickling sensations, until at last the blood began to course freely, naturally and vigorously through his body, and the helplessness gave way to returning strength, the ability to walk returned, and he was restored to his old-time health.

The above is the substance of the first article published by the Monitor. Now follow some clippings, taken from the same paper two years afterward, and there is not the slightest shadow of a doubt, in view of this testimony, that Mr. Peteh's cure is permanent. Here follows the account:

On being again questioned, Mr. Peteh said: "You see those hands—the skin is now natural and elastic. Once they were hard and without sensation. You could pierce them with a pin and I would not feel it, and what is true of my hands is true of the rest of my body. Perhaps you have observed that I have now even ceased to use a cane, and I can get about my business perfectly well. You may say there is absolutely no doubt as to my cure being perma-

GARRETS AND COOKS.

Delights of Which the Modern Child Knows Nothing.

I do not believe that the modern child knows anything about an attic. The fin-de-siecle attic is a respectable place, where boxes are solemnly piled and where moth camphor sheds its fragrance abroad, says a writer in Lippincott's. There are hardly any old books to be found, for most people send them to the Hebrew merchants on the side streets. Our attic was a long, low room, with mysterious dark corners, into whose depths we did not penetrate. There was an old hair trunk in one corner that held some of grandmother's muslin dresses. It was opened only on rare occasions and I was allowed but a glimpse of the faded beauty within. There was an old spinning wheel where spiders hung fantastic wreaths and there was a guitar with broken, moldered strings.

But the corner where the books were piled was the spot I liked the best. An old-fashioned, tiny-paneled window let an occasional sunbeam stray across the "Ladies' Repositories" and "Saints' Rest." There was a fine old elm tree that tapped against the window and sometimes a robin sent a thrill of song into the dusty corners. Just beneath the window seat I used to sit, a musty crouched form, bending over a musty volume.

But when I wished to read under the most blissful conditions I fortified myself with half a dozen russet apples, whose juice would have given flavor to a treatise on Hebrew grammar. Now, I never see a russet apple without seeing also the dim old attic and an utterly contented child, and I am sure the market women misunderstand my wistful glance, for they draw closer to their baskets and look at me in suspicious fashion. An apple, so some tell us, deprived us of our Eden; but apples were an important feature of my childish paradise. So let us leave them in Pomona's care and look at the intellectual part of the feast.

Never Content.

Some people are never content with anything. They will not find exactly what they want even in heaven, if they know some one is there ahead of them. For instance, some are great sufferers from neuralgia. Friends have told them what is best and certain to cure them. Not content with what is said, they suffer on. Pain ravages and devastates the system, and leaves it a barren waste. St. Jacobs Oil has cured thousands. Just try it.

A Curious Bequest.

The conditions attached to bequests of money are often curious. An interesting illustration of this is afforded by an annual custom which takes place in one of the cemeteries of Newcastle-on-Tyne. Some years ago a gentleman left a sum of money for the relief of the rates on condition that certain members of the corporation should every year place a wreath of flowers on his tomb. So, annually, as the anniversary of his death comes round, the mayor and other members of the corporation attend and hang a wreath on the granite obelisk which marks his resting place. Thus his memory is kept green among his fellow-citizens.—Golden Penny.

Unique Celebration.

A highly-esteemed midwife at Stolfe, in Germany, celebrated lately a singular feast. She had just assisted at the birth of her 6,000th child to whom she had given services, and in honor of that event, she invited all the children whom she had helped to come into the world to her country house to partake of a banquet. Very many big and little children accepted the invitation, passing a pleasant afternoon. When they left in the evening they made a torchlight procession past their benefactor's house, and then took the train to Berlin.—Lloyd's London Weekly.

A Total Disability Claim of $1,650 Paid to a Man who was Afterward Cured.

CANADIAN MUTUAL LIFE ASSOCIATION

Toronto, June 16, 1892.

THE DOMINION BANK,

Pay to Messrs. Wilson & Gross Barretts or order

Five hundred and fifty Dollars in full settlement of disability claim on policy 773 issued to Mr. W. C. Hillman, of Toronto, Ontario.

W. C. Hillman, President

reports are completely verified, the cure is permanent, and they publish a fac simile of the check given by the Canadian Mutual Life Association for $1,650.00 amount of total disability claim paid by them to Mr. Peteh.

The first account stated that the patient (see address below) had been a paralytic for five years, that there was such a total lack of feeling in his limbs and body, that a pin run full length could not be felt; that he could not walk or help himself at all; for two years he was not dressed; furthermore that he was bloated, was for that reason almost unrecognizable, and could not get his clothes on; The paralysis was so complete as to affect the face and prevented him from opening his mouth sufficiently ment. Indeed I am even better health than when I gave you the first interview."

"Do you still attribute your cure to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?" asked the Monitor.

"Unquestionably I do," was the reply. "Doctors had failed, as had also the numerous remedies recommended by my friends. Nothing I took had the slightest effect upon me until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. To this wonderful medicine I owe my release from the living death. I have since recommended these pills to many of my friends, and the verdict is always in their favor. I shall always bless the day I was induced to take them."

Such is the history of one of the most remarkable cases of modern times. Can any one say, in the face of such testimony, that

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not entitled to the careful consideration of any suffering man, woman or child? Is not the case in truth a miracle of modern medicine?

To make the evidence complete we publish above a fac simile out of the check received by Mr. Peteh from the Canadian Mutual Life Association, being the amount due him for total disability. It is unnecessary to add that this life insurance association did not pay this large amount of money to Mr. Peteh, except after the most careful examination of his condition by their medical experts. They must have regarded him as forever incurable.

Mr. Peteh's address is as follows, Barabza Peteh, Griersville, Ont., Canada.
