THE OFFICIAL HISTORY OF DECORA-TION DAY OBSERVANCES.

It Is the Outcome of An Unremem-bered German's Suggestion-Gen-eral Logan's General Order for the First Observance in 1868 – An American Service That Is Unique,

American Service In 1805 – Am American Service That Is Unique. Among the thousands who assemble in the various parts of the country on Memorial Day there are doubless many who do not know the origin of the custom, and even in the ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic there are enthusiastic members who are un-informed on that important point. The decoration of soldiers' graves was not the prime object of the Grand Army of the Republic, but it was one of its first results. The favor with which the practice was received in all parts of the country gained for the organization the indorsement of many people who would have been indifferent to it if its object had been only social or fra-ternal. Grand Army historians say that Dr. Benjamin Franklin Stephen-son, who served in the Army as sur-geon of the 14th Illinois Volunteer Regiment, was the first to conceive the idea of an organization in which the son, who set the 14th Illinois Von Regment, was the first to concei-idea of an organization in whit friendships formed amid the peri-privations of duty in the field be preserved and perpetuated.

TLOWKES FOR THE SOLDIER'S GRAVE, The philanthropic plan took form in April, 1866, when Major Stephenson organized Post No. 1 at Decatur, III, with twelve comrades. So well was the movement received that in Novem-ber of the same year Dr. Stephenson as provisional commander-in-chief presided over a National Encampment at Indianapolis, and the Grand Army of the Republic soon became a power-fal organization, cementing in friend-ship those who became its members, caring for those who were helpless and honoring the memory of those who had gone before them. Within two years the membership had grown to 250,000, and the best men from the Army, regardless of rank or station, were brond to wear the G. Ar. B. badge. There are condicting opinions as to who was the first to suggest the decor-ation of the graves, but it is generally believed that the idea came from a former private, who wrote to Colonel N. P. Chipman, a member of General Logan's staff. The writer was Ger-man, who lived in Cincinnati at that time. He spoke of the custom which prevaled in his home of strewing flowers upon the graves of the dead, and thought it would be well to honor the dead comrades in that way. Un-fortunately the name of the man who made the suggestion has not been pre-served, and the beautiful custom re-manns credited to the Grand Army of the Republic and to no individual.

slate. A large body of water had backed up in the old working in the vien which the tunnel was designed to connect. The last shot fired burst open the seams and through these the water suddenly pour-ed upon the tunnel men. The Dodson Coal Company operates the colliery. It may be several days before any of the bodies will be reached.

An Ungrateful Lodger.

An Ungrateful Lodger. From the White Haven Journal. On Friday night a man came to the farm of John Metzgar and applied for lodging. His request was granted. In the morning after Mr. Metzgar had started for town to deliver milk it was found that the lodger had made a tour of the house and appropriated to himself tertain articles. He was cornered up y and found to have on under his own e clothes a suit belonging to John Metz-gar, Jr., who is now a volunteer in the United States army. After the stolen gods were restored he came into town, where he was arrested. At a hearing refore Squire Heimbach he gave his name as Francis G. Moran, of Newark, N. J. He was a middle-aged man, his har being sprinkled with white. Mr. Metzgar, in view of the fact that he had not succeeded in getting away with anything, took pity on him and ded him out of town. Joshua Simpkin's Hig show. served, and the beautiful custom mains credited to the Grand Army the Republic and to no individual. The response to General Logan's der was so general throughout land that there could be no doubt to the sentiment of the people o subject. But to make sure that should be no departure from the tom, the National Encampment, tom, the National Encampment, which was held two years later in Washing-ton, adopted the following, which be-came part of the rules and regulations of the organization: The National Encampment hereby establishes a memorial day to be ob-served by the members of the G. A. R. on the 30th day of May annually, in commemoration of the deeds of our fallon comrades. Whon such charge

Joshua Simpkin's Big Show.

Joshua Simpkin's Big Show. "Joshua Simpkins" will be staged under a big water-proof canvas here on lioyle's lot on Thursday evening. It is said to be a well-written New England comedy drama, with an interesting plot, the story being a happy blending of sun-shine and shadow. The situations are said to be strikingly realistic, with an overflow of fun and amusement. There are seven comedy parts in addition to that of Unel Josh, which character is really a whole show in itself. A sensa-tional novely is introduced in the third act in the shape of a realistic saw mill seene, in which a monster circular saw is used, and which is said to actually saw through real timber. Prices are 25 cents.

on the 30th day of May annually, in commemoration of the deeds of our fallen comrades. When such a day oc-curs on Sunday the succeeding day shall be observed, except when, by le-gal enactment, the preceding day is made a legal holiday, when such day shall be observed. Before the close of the Civil War, Southern women had inaugurated the custom of decorating the graves of their dead soldiers. Each year in early spring they placed flowers on the graves, and from this beginning there grew, by degrees, the custom of a "Memorial Day" which was fully es-tablished by the time the war closed. The day became known at the North an Decoration Day. When it is re-membered that hardly a family, North or South, was wholly exem casualties of war, it may understood how strongly
