Fence Location Causes a Dispute. Street Commissioner John Burton and Street Commissioner John Burton and John W. Davis, of Birvanton, differ in opinion as to the width of West Walnut street, near the Davis property, and on Saturday morning their differences as-sumed violent form, resulting in the street commissioner swearing out a war-rant for the arrest of Mr. Davis. The dispute originated from the location of a fence along the above street. The case will be tried by Squire Shovlin on Wednesday. Both sides have engaged counsel, Attorney Brown to look after the defendant's interest, while Attorney Stroh will care for Mr. Burton.

Color Blindness,

Cotor Blindness, It has been scientifically proved that a woman's color perception much ex-ceeds that of a man, while men, as a rule, have a keener sense of smell. Women's training in the details of dress doubtless accounts for much of this superiority. Men, however, who were almost color blind have yet shown surprisingly good taste in the selection of dress goods for their wo-men folks.

Why He Measured the Distance. A Prospect, Me., correspondent con-tributes this account of the discom-dure of a would-be smart young law-yer, who finally, in a case of assault and buttery, asked an old man of the richnity at what distance fit was from the parties when the assault hap-pened.

to Be Assured.
It begins to look as if the individual coal operators are in earnest about constructing a new line from Scranton to New York. A charter has been granticed and the new line is to be called the New York. A charter has been granticed and the new line is to be called the New York, Wyoming and Western Railroad. The construction of this road was brought about by the high freight rates on anthractice coal, and it is stated that sufficient freight thas been guaranteed by the coal operators, at 60 cents a ton, to pay the interest on the bonds and a dividend on the stock.
The road will start on its way to the seaboard at Scranton, where it will connect with the Wyoming and Lackawanna coal fields. The main line will run to New York, but it will acquire, it is stated, the Lehigh and Hudson Railway, crossing New Jersey to the Poughkeepsie bridge. This will give the road a New England connector.
The road will carry neither passengers nor general freight. All the stock has, it is said, been subscribed by the independent coal operators, and bonds have been negotiated and sold abroad. The onlice cost of the road will, it is estimated, be leas than $10,000,000, and the road will, it is expected, be completed within a year. Surveys have already been made and terminals and the right of way have been secured.
