LOCAL WAR NOTES.

A curious coincidence in connection with the funeral of the late Barney Cohen is the fact that the first body brought to Wilkesbarre during the civil war was also that of a young Hebrew. Louis Constine. Both were patriotic young Americans and the concidence above noted shows that the Hebrews are well represented in the country's defense at all times.

James T. Brennan, a young Philadelphian who made many friends here two years ago while visiting his uncle, John Cannon, of South Centre street, is lying wounded in the hospital at Siboney. Cuba. He is a member of Company G. Sixth regular Infantry, and was shot on July 2. The wound is not dangerous.

The funeral of J. A. Schmidt, Hazleton's first victim in the ranks, took placy yesterday. The members of the Grand Army. Sons of Veterans and National Guard attended and buried the Ninth's fifth dead soldier with military honors. Sergeant Benjamin F. Savage, of Company G. Vice President II. C. Koons reported having been speaking to a land owner of Pond Creek who desired that the path go over his land. He will grant the use of his lane for the purpose and place it in first-class condition. The route from Sandy Run not being definitely decided upon yet, two or more desirable courses having been viewed, the committee will investigate and recommend the best. Horseless Carriages on Exhibition.

Horseless Carriages on Exhibition.
From the Hazleton Plain Speaker.
S. B. Price and Alvan Markle received two horseless carriages on Friday and large crowds looked on as they were taken from the trucks of the Pennsylvania depot. The carriages were manufactured in Cleveland, Ohlo, and are run by electricity, a motor operating the vehicle. The wheels are pneumaticitred and to see the carriage on the streets is indeed a strange sight. Mr. Price's carriage was tested on West Diamond avenue and many of his friends were treated to a ride. The carriage ascends hills as casily as a horse would, can be turned around without effort and can be backed just as any other carriage. When Broad street is paved these carriages will prove very popular. The carriages cost $1,400 each and are guaranteed to attain a speed of twenty-five miles an hour.

Chairman Garman Predicts Success.
State Chairman Garman in a interview at Wilkesbarre the other day said he had heard of no effort being made in the Democratic party to deprive him of the management of the campaign now on. "There is no power in the party to supersede or remove me except in accordance with my own wish," he continued. Regarding the probable success of the state ticket Mr. Garman said: "I expect Mr. Janks to have a very large vote. He ought to be elected. If elected he will give his talents and his best thought in the line of good government. If the people do not elect him they must bear the burdens of their own folly."

ACCUSED OF ARSON

Michael Zemany Charged With Burning His Building on July 14.
Councilman Michael Zemany was given a hearing on Saturday evening by Squire H. A. Shovlin on the charge of arson, preferred by Mrs. William Jenkins, and was committed without bail to await the action of the grand jury. Yesterday he was released from custody by going to Wilkesbarre and entering bail in the sum of $1,250, John T. Lenahan, Esq., appearing as his attorney, and Pater Shambora, of Freeland, qualifying as bondsman. He returned to his home at 10.30 o'clock last evening.

Mrs. Jenkins is the owner of the residence which adjoined the property of Mr. Zomany, which was destroyed by fire on July 14. The Jenkins' property was severely damaged and the residents of the block, H. A. Shovlin and family and George Fagan and family, narrowly escaped death at the time. From the first it was suspected that the fire was of incendiary origin, and this belief was strengthened on Friday when it was learned that there was $2,400 insurance on the Zemany property and stock, placed by Hazleton agents in the London and Liverpool Insurance Company. The TRIBUNE, on the day of the fire, published that there was mo insurance carried by any of the victims of the blaze. This statement was made after each of the persons interested had informed representatives of the paper to this effect. Consequently, when it was learned on Friday last that one of the buildings was insured, local sontiment rose against the owner and culminated in his arrest on the charge of arson, the prosecutor being Mrs. Jonkins.

At the hearing the defendant was confronted by Miss Katie Shovlin, daughter of Daniel Shovlin, who lives nearly opposite the burned building. She had occasion to look out the window of her room at 3.15 o'clock the morning of the building that he hearing the defendant was controlled in his arrest on the charge of arson, the prosecutor being Mrs. Jonkins.

At the hearing the defendant was confronted by Miss Katie Shovlin, daughter of Daniel Shovlin, who lives nearly opposite the Illa there was no case made out against the defendant.

Attorney Carr, on behalf of Mrs. Jenkins, reviewed the testimony of the several witnesses and insisted that it was more than sufficient to hold Mr. Zemany upon this charge, that there was no question of identity and that the insurance feature showed a strong motive for the act.

Both lawyers made eloquent pleas and fought hard for their respective sides. The decision of the justice was that Mr. Zemany be committed, the law not permitting him to accept bail. The accused was then placed in the lockup, but was released a few minutes later and at 2 o'clock Sunday morning drove to Wilkesbarre in charge of High Constable Mollik and entered bail as stated above. The arrest has caused much excitement in town. There is a general disposition, on account of the prominence of the accused, to suspend judgment until the case reaches court. The area

At a special meeting of Division 41, A.
O. H., on July 31, 1898, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:
Whereas, Almighty God in His infinite wisdom has been pleased to call from our midst our beleved brother, Daniel J. Kennedy, one of the members of this organization. Therefore, be it Resolved, That in his death our division has lost a worthy member, the community a model citizen, his children a faithful father and his sisters an affectionate brother.
Resolved, That while we deeply deplore the death of our esteemed brother, we bow with Christian submission to the will of the Almighty, "who doeth all things well."
Resolved, That we tender to his children, sisters and other relatives our deep and heartfelt sympathy in this sad hour of their grief, and as a further token of our respect for Brother Kennedy we order that our charter be draped in mourning, that those resolutions be published in the FREELAND TRIBUNE and a copy of the same be presented to the family of the deceased.

MINES AND RAILROADS.

The Anthony Coal Company, of Miners Mills, a shipper over the Jersey Central, has begun suit against the railroad company, alleging that it had failed to perform its duties as a common carrier. It charges that the Central has given nearly all its equipment to its sub-company, the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company, and that these cars stand unloaded at various points. The Wyoming Valley Coal Company has also brought a suit in equity against the Central. The plaintiffs complain that the Central has not furnished a sufficient number of cars to convey its coal from a washing located at Sugar Notch.

The allotments for June and July were 2,500,000 and 3,600,000 tons respectively, so that this month's output will be from 400,000 to 600,000 tons less than that of July.

Death of Daniel J. Kennedy.
Daniel J. Kennedy died at his home on Ridge street shortly before 8 o'clock on Saturday evening. His serious illiness lasted just one week. On July 23 he had to leave his work as pumpman in Dritton mines and take to his bed, and since then he gradually sank lower, until Saturday evening, when he quietly expired. Death was due to heart trouble and kindred diseases. Mr. Kennedy was a man who held the respect and esteem of every one who was an acquaintance of his, and his demise brought forth many expressions of sympathy for his family and relatives.

He was aged 42 years, and is survived by a family of two small children, also by three sisters, Mrs. Peter Amon, of Upper Lehigh; Mrs. James McNelis, of Philadelphia. His wife died about two years ago.

DEATH FROM A SHOCK.

ELECTROCUTION OF A LITTLE BOY ON FRIDAY EVENING.

Eight-Year-Old Johnny Repyof Touched an Electric Light Wire and His Life Went Out in an Instant-First Fatal Accident of Its Kind in Freeland.

Went Out in an Instant—First Fatal Accident of Its Kind in Freeland.

A little boy with the smile of innocent amusement still lingering on his face but distorted from the effects of the deadly electric current, his limbs burned and charred black, his body stiff and lifeless, was the sad burden which was carried into the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Repyof on South Centre street Friday evening.

Johnny Repyof was one of the most active among the little boys in the lower end of town, whose nightly custom as a means of diversion when the big are lights made the night like day, was the climbing of the poles that support the shed in front of Lentz's building. Friday night about 10 o'clock the boys were climbing up and sliding down as usual, little Johnny happening to be on the pole underneath the corner of the shed. Near this point was situated the pole bearing the electric light wires. Two of these wires, one of them having a naked spot, branched out at about on a level with the roof of the shed, to supply the are lights in the stores.

Johnny was a good climber, and after getting up the pole threw himself on the roof. He rested there awhile, then prepared to descend. Lying on his belly he thrust his legs out behind him, and gradually worked himself over the corner. Unfortunately he put his legs out too far, and while in the act of dropping them so as to catch the pole underneath, they fell on the naked wire. Instantly his body quivered, and a blue flame emitted from his burning flesh.

dropping them so as to catch the pole underneath, they fell on the naked wire. Instantly his body quivored, and a blue flame emitted from his burning flesh. He lay there for some time, unable to remove himself, unable even to cry. Many persons were sitting at different points along the street, but not until a passerby noticed the boy on the wire was their attention attracted.

George Shambora climed up the pole and attempted to release the boy, but received a slight shock and came down. He then went inside the building, came out through the upstairs, and pulled the boy off on the shed.

Drs. Cloud and Richards were hastily summoned, but found the boy dead. His legs was burned horribly, and his face and forehead were slightly marked where they came in contact with the iron roof.

The boy was aged 8 years and was iron roof.

The boy was aged 8 years and was buried yesterday in the Greek Catholic cemetery, Birvanton.

This is the first fatal accident in Freeland due to electric—wires, and it is hoped it will act as a warning to those who carelessly handle them while the current is on. It should also bring about frequent and rigid inspections of the wires on the part of electrical companies and result in the prompt repairing of all that may be imperfectly insulated.
