WANT TO COME HOME.

VOLUNTEER SOLDIER'S ANXIOUS TO BE MUSTERED OUT.

Those Who Failed to Get a Chance to Fight Have No Desire to Do Garrison Duty—Last Letter to the Tribune from the Chickamauga Camp.

Chickamauga, Ga., August 29, 1898.

EDITOR TRIBUNE.—This will be my last letter to you from this place, as we break camp here tonight for Knoxville, Tennessee. The soldiers are all glad to get away from this camp, for no one knows better than themselves how they have suffered from dust, thirst, heat and hunger, and all will remember the 103 days we spent here. Nevertheless I do think and know that most of the boys will have some recollections of this big camp, for in our three months' stay here we have had some varied experiences—experiences that have caused many a hearty laugh, and, again, experiences that have taught the volunteers many a lesson they will never forget.

It has at least taught most of the men how to be economical. On the $15.00 per month paid by the government, and the very small amount of rations served, with the exorbitant prices charged by the sutlers, men had to be so to live in comfort.

The sickness of our camp has been something awful, and the citizens and press of Chattanooga have taken the credit in their own hands and went for the medical officers in charge. The proofs they hold are such as will make the citizens of this country hold up their hands in holy horror when they learn the whole truth.

The neglect of the sick has been criminal. I, being an enlisted man, I have nothing further to say on this point, but those who have been discharged will, when they reach their homes, tell the people of their districts what they have seen in Chickamauga, and if the people of this country won't make the heads of some departments suffer then I am no judge of the American people.

There are a great number of the officers (commissioned) who have lost the respect of their men by their actions in the past few weeks by wiring to Washington to have their regiments do garrison duty in Cuba, telling the authorities that this was the wish of the men. That is not so, for 90 per cent of the volunteer army that was in Chickamauga park when peace was declared want to be mustered out and don't want to do garrison duty in our new conquests under the present officials.

The officers of the First Penn'a want to do as the men wish them and that is to go home. No regiment was more anxious to go to the front and tried harder than the First Penn'a, but now we think we should be mustered out of the service. Should we, however, be sent to do garrison duty, I think the First will give as good account of itself there as we did in camp.

The privates of all the regiments have requested to be mustered out, but volunteer officers think the privates are no better than the mules of the regiment and should have no say; when, in fact, the privates are far superior human beings than the political pets who command them. Our regiment was lucky in having good officers to command them and they have no kick coming from that source or any other where their own officers are concerned, but I speak of other regiments here which have had trouble with their officers.

There is no better officer in the army than J. Lewis Good, our colonel. He has been very kind to his men and did lots for the boys that no other colonel did. He and Major Allen have been like fathers to us more than officers. Major Allen is today the most popular officer in the army and he can get more from a body of men in the line of duty than any other who was here. His associates have been the privates, and when he wanted a detail to work every man wanted to go with him. Our own captain, C. F. Hess, is the most popular man in the regiment and the company

LOCAL WAR NOTES.

The sixteenth member of the Ninth Penn'a to die was Thomas P. Ryder, a newspaper man, who has been with the regiment as war correspondent. He expired on Friday in the Protestant Infirmary at Lexington, Ky., of typhoid fever. When the Ninth was ordered to Mt. Gretna, Mr. Ryder accompanied it as correspondent of the Record, and about two weeks after he went into camp at Chickamauga he accepted the position of regimental clerk, tendered him by Colonel Dougherty, and so well did he perform the duties that he was promoted to the position of brigade clerk, which he occupied until taken sick a few days ago. He was one of the most versatile newspaper men in this part of the state, and was a vice president of the International League of Press Clubs. His body will be brought home for interment.

James McKintley, of New York City, who is visiting his parents here for a few days, spent part of last week at Camp Wikoff, Montauk Point, with his brother John, who is in the Fourth artillery. Mr. McKintley reports that the suffering and hardships in this camp are beyond description. His brother, however, continues in perfect health, but is anxious to be sent elsewhere, away from the misery and disease.

Fortress Monroe will not be a dull place after the arrival of J. W. Slattery, who departed on Saturday morning. "Jack" is the possessor of original wit and humor, and trouble will find no welcome where he is stationed.

George Rhodes, of Company E, Ninth Penn'a, died in the City hospital, Wilkes-Barre, on Thursday. He was brought up from Chickamauga last week. His home is in Parsons.

Major John Harding, of the Ninth Penn'a, has resigned his commission and the same has been accepted.

PERSONALITIES.

Father Delurey, of Villa Nova college, who has been visiting in town for some time past, received a dispatch on Saturday that the college barn was destroyed by fire and eight horses burned to death. Two of these animals were owned by Father Delurey, and he returned home immediately.

Hugh Malloy left on Saturday to attend the funeral of his cousin, Bernard Malloy, who is dead at Dayton, Ohio. The deceased is a brother of Mrs. Thos. Pengelast, of Upper Lehigh, and visited Freeland a few years ago.

E. J. Gaffney, Thomas McCole and William Lawlor leave tomorrow to resume their studies at Holy Cross college, Worcester, Mass. They will be accompanied by Daniel and Peter Timony, Jr., who will enter the school.

Mr. and Mrs. James Reed, of Scranton, are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Condy Boyle, Ridge street.

Miss Laura Koons has returned to Delaware county, where she will teach school the coming term.

Misses Mary and Nellie Cleary, of Mahanoy City, were the guests of Miss Maggie Gill last week.

Bernard J. Carr, of Eckley, who spent several months in the West, arrived home on Saturday.

Mrs. Daniel O. Krommes is visiting relatives in the Wyoming valley.

FOR HONEST GOVERNMENT.

The rally of the honest government party held on Thursday evening at the corner of Centre and South streets was well attended. The meeting was opened by the prohibition candidate for sheriff, Alex. Marshall, of Jeunesville, who introduced the candidate of that party for the legislature, D. M. Evans. Mr. Evans gave several incidents of his experience while a member of the Pennsylvania house of representatives and asked that those present weigh well the questions of the day before casting their votes.

He then introduced the speaker of the evening, M. J. Flanning, of Baltimore. The latter gave an interesting talk on the misdeeds of the politicians of this state, particularly M. S. Quay et al., accusing the senator with having named the Republican ticket between drinks at a seaside resort in New Jersey one month before it was ratified by the convention of the party in Harrisburg. He urged those present to vote for Dr. Swallow and turn Matt Quay down.

He also paid some attention to the Democratic party of the state, claiming it is under Quay influence and is used by the boss whenever the latter wishes to further his ends. The speaker was listened to with respectful attention and may have made an impression upon some voters, but no enthusiasm marked the rally.

BRIEF ITEMS OF NEWS.

Ladies, don't fail to see those fancy 25c skirts at A. Oswald's. He sells lots of them and they are dandies.

Henry Scheidt, one of the best known residents of Butler valley, died Friday. He served as postmaster of St. Johns some years ago. He was aged 55 years and is survived by a wife and one daughter. The funeral will take place tomorrow.

St. Ann's parochial school will open Tuesday, September 6. Besides the ordinary common branches taught in the schools, the Sisters are prepared to give lessons in Book-keeping, Stenography, Typewriting, Latin, Painting and Music.

The strike at Coleraine has been settled and the miners will resume work tomorrow. The discharged workman has been reinstated by the company and his wages increased from $1.15 to $1.36 per day. The union men are proud of their victory.

At a special conference in Chicago on Friday of the representatives of the Adams, American and United States Express Companies it was decided that the companies would bear the expense of the war tax instead of requiring the public to stamp consignments.

The coal trust is giving signs of weakening. The Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Company has made a cut of 25 cents per ton at tidewater, and others are preparing to meet the reduction. The collapse of the combination at this time would mean steady work for several months, as at the reduced prices considerable more anthracite would be bought.

DEATHS.

Special Meeting of School Board.

A special meeting of the borough school board for the purpose of reconsidering the date of opening the schools was held Thursday evening. It was decided to open the schools tomorrow morning instead of today. The board decided to purchase thirty-two window shades and four drinking cups for the Daniel Cox school and necessary stovepipes for South Heberton school. The building committee was authorized to have water closets repaired. A communication from L. A. Sunnmacher, of Drifton, asking permission of the board to have his son attend the borough school, was granted. The board granted permission to the text book committee to have 100 manuals printed.

Sensible Business Views.

Last Sunday the Lehigh Valley Railroad tried the experiment of cheap excursions from New York City to the "Switzerland." The fare was $1 for the round trip. The result was that the excursion numbered about 3,000 persons, with an additional thousand refused for lack of transportation facilities. This illustrates a very familiar business principle—the cheaper the article the greater the demand. If we assume the actual expenses of coal consumed and employees' time to be $250 when a net benefit to the railroad company of $2,750 for the day, outside of any other earnings, it's a wonder that the management has not seen this before.

No Bounties on Wild Animals.

The act of the legislature passed on July 9, 1897, entitled, an act for the destruction of wild cats, foxes and minks of this commonwealth and providing for the payment of bounties for the same, officers' fees and fixing a penalty for violation of the same has been declared unconstitutional. The court in this case holds that the act is unconstitutional in that its subject is not clearly expressed in the title. There is no clear expression of the purpose of the act which is to require the several counties to pay the bounties provided by the act. The commissioners have felt constrained by reason of this opinion to not pay any further bounties upon wild animals such as are named in the act.
