The primary cause of the horrible disaster to the steamship La Bourgogne was the fact that it was moving at a high rate of speed in a heavy fog. Very likely this had been the usual custom of La Bourgogne on previous voyages. On every such occasion, however, a risk was taken which no steamship owner has a right to take with the lives of passengers. Times without number the risk has been taken without being attended with the disaster that always threatens the steamer moving rapidly in a fog. It was inevitable, however, that the continual coquetting with danger must finally prove disastrous. La Bourgogne disregarded the precaution once too often, and the vessel went to the bottom, carrying most of its passengers with it. The making of rapid speed in foggy weather is a crime not peculiar to La Bourgogne. Nearly all the ocean liners are guilty of the dangerous practice, which they should be forced to discontinue. The saving of time is not of so great importance that lives must be sacrificed in order to effect that end. Safety must be the first condition of ocean travel.

An Opinion on Club Women. That club women are not all like some that we read about may be seen from the following extract, taken from a Denver (Col.) paper at the time of the recent biennial convention held in that city, when over two thousand delegates were there:

Never did Denver entertain a body of persons of which she has greater reason to be proud. Instead of the "strong-minded," "masculine" women of whom we have heard so much as being the typical club women, we find them modest, conservative, pleasant daughters of a land that is attempting to right the wrongs that they have endured for years. It is a body of women that will at once command respect. They are businesslike, lady-like, and therefore womanlike. There is none of the flashy dress or "radical" untimely utterance sometimes attributed wrongfully to the women who are attempting to rise to their real level. When not interested in the affairs of the meetings they throw off all seriousness and enjoy chats and telling stories of their experiences just the same as the liege lords of creation do, except that they are more choice of their subjects. So far their impressions of the city are most flattering when described in their own glowing language, and it is evident that they propose to see and to enjoy all the good things to be seen and enjoyed.

CONSULTING A WOMAN.

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Inspires Confidence and Hope.

Examination by a male physician is a hard trial to a delicately organized woman. She puts it off as long as she dare, and is only driven to it by fear of cancer, polypus, or some dreadful ailment. Most frequently such a woman leaves a physician's office where she has undergone a critical examination with an impression, more or less, of discouragement.

This condition of the mind destroys the effect of advice; and she grows worse rather than better. In consulting Mrs. Pinkham no hesitation need be felt, the story is told to a woman and is wholly confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., she offers sick women her advice without charge.

Her intimate knowledge of women's troubles makes her letter of advice a wellspring of hope, and her wide experience and skill point the way to health. "I suffered with ovarian trouble for seven years, and no doctor knew what was the matter with me. I had spells which would last for two days or more. I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken seven bottles of it, and am entirely cured."—MRS. JOHN FOREMAN, 26 N. Woodberry Ave., Baltimore, Md.

The above letter from Mrs. Foreman is only one of thousands.

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

The Pretty Neapolitan Hat.

The black Neapolitan is still in evidence and is one of the favorite hats for real service. It is trimmed with flowers, plumes or lace, or a mixture of the three. Stiff, heavy quills are not appropriate for such thin foundation and are rarely used. Fans of lace, soft flowers and light plumes are much more suitable. Silk flowers are the favorites for the moment and are used with a lavishness that seems prodigal. They are, however, so pretty that one can scarcely object to the quantities.

Latest Fancy for the Hair.

The latest fancy in hair dressing is to part the hair over the middle of the head, brush it to either side, crimp it in deep waves and leave an infantile fringe over the forehead. This is a revival of a style that has probably been favored for more years than any other ever introduced. It is the most natural, simple and becoming, and, unless one's own tresses are exceedingly obstinate, the easiest to manage. Of course the hair dresser will have to supply something in the way of a front with a parting. This has been found the most difficult of undertakings, and the troublesomeness of arranging it has had much to do with keeping the pompadour, bang and similar styles in general use.

Children's Overalls.

The scientific mother is very much interested in overalls at present. These overalls would delight the heart of the dress reformer, and are worn by the small and energetic maiden who has a primitive love of climbing trees, scaling fences, playing leap-frog and making mud pies. They are made of strong, dark-colored denim, and reach from the ankles up to the armpits. Turkey-red suspenders, pearl buttons and scarlet stitching add to the ornamentation of these useful trousers, and a big pocket, with room enough for all those treasures in the way of white pebbles, shells, bird's eggs, bits of colored glass, fish hooks and pennies, that small girls as well as small boys hoard up and gloat over, strongly recommend them to the favor of the short-skirted tomboy. The overalls are made wide enough to accommodate the dress skirts and petticoats, so they may be slipped on at any time without any special dressing or undressing. Young women under ten years old are supposed to wear these comfortable pantaloons, but one would suppose that the poultry-rearing, bee-keeping and vegetable-raising young women of to-day might adopt them during working hours, especially as they have before them many distinguished examples.

Fashion Notes.

Sleeves are now finished at the wrists with full frills of lace or chiffon. Satin is the most favored for foundations for lace or other gossamer effects for skirts and waists.

The leather belt with plain military clasp or buckle is favorite with those who like to be well gowned.

Goods with crepon ground and large, distinct leaf patterns, or designs in cording are popular.

For wear with the white pique waists are white leather belts. These have to be pipe-cuffed quite often, but they are very chic.

A dainty cream muslin, scattered with flowers in shades of rose and blue, and made up over deep yellow, has a belt of orange watered ribbon.

Pale apple green and softest primrose yellow is a favored color combination this season, also lovely tints in pinks, with sage green or apricot.

Tinted horse-chestnut blossoms are very prettily worn on beige-colored beach hats of Milan braid trimmed with ficelle lace and brown satin ribbon.

Flounces put on straight all around are equally as fashionable as those arranged to curve upwards, as they are carried toward the back of the skirt.

In the item of shoulder capes, fluffiness and an enormous amount of thin material divide favor with cloth trimmed with embroidery and passementerie.

In ordering lace gowns, white or ecru, it should be remembered that watered silk as a foundation is thought by French ateliers to greatly enhance the beauty of all lace patterns, either in net or flouncing.

Short bolero effects are very popular, and one pretty gown of pale blue taffeta has a bolero which shapes down from the shoulders and up at the bottom to a point directly in front, where it fastens with a rosette bow of black velvet ribbon.

Very dainty hats to wear with thin gowns are made of black tulle shirred into tufts, and turned back from the face, with black ostrich tips and a rhinestone buckle for trimming. Tulle rosettes in any fancied color, tucked in at the back, enhance the effect.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

Covering For Flower Pots.

The daintiest and most inexpensive coverings for flower pots are made from the ordinary crimped tissue paper. Fold around the pot and fasten neatly with a ribbon leaving a ruffle at the top and sort of a flaring mat at the bottom, all from the same piece of paper.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Preserving Color in Carpets.

If the colors of a carpet have slightly faded, rubbing them with strong salt and water will restore their brightness to a great extent, and this anyone can do at home. Care has to be taken not to wet the carpet too much; that is, not to let the water soak through, but to clean a square patch at a time, rubbing it dry with a clean towel.

The Family Towel.

It is the opinion of one housekeeper that for common family use small-sized towels are preferable. It of course increases the weekly laundering, but it is also her experience, she asserts, that any laundress which she has ever had prefers to do up a great many small towels to a less number of the very large ones. When it comes to Turkish towels, however, they can hardly be too large for the bath. There is no doubt that for both purposes the large towel is the more useful. As the bath towels need no ironing, they are counted in liberally by the laundress and will be found an appreciated comfort when on a trip away from home.

Dressing the Dinner-Table.

The dinner-table is best when not over-decorated. All the beautiful ribbons, all the lace serviettes and all the favors in the world never made up for a badly cooked or badly served repast. A simple arrangement of flowers standing on a mirror centrepiece is more appreciated than all the millinery in the world if the dinner consists of a few simple dishes well cooked and properly served. The housekeeper who cannot make many changes in her table decoration finds that her mirror centrepiece is a background that multiplies the beauty of her flowers, fruits, leaves or whatever may constitute the decoration. Women living in the city who insist upon the marketman or the fruiterer giving them a certain amount of foliage whenever any fruit is bought may, by arranging it here and there among the fruit, achieve artistic effects.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Pretty Lamp-Stand.

This is how the Boston Budget would make it: Procure about a quarter of a yard of very thick cloth or druggat, and cut it exactly square. Then get a yard of wide Brussels carpeting of only two colors, as, for this purpose, a variety of colors causes a confused and indistinct effect and always looks badly. The best tints for a lamp-stand are shaded greens, varied only with shaded browns. These colors will give the effect of rich moss.

Cut the carpeting into strips about three inches broad. Mark out on the cloth or druggat the space you intend to leave vacant for the foot of the lamp. You can make the marks by tacking a white thread along, so as to form a square. Round the outer edge of this square the strips of carpeting are to be sewed.

Prepare for the corners, some bits of carpeting, which are to be very small near the white line, and are gradually to increase in size as they advance toward the outer extremity of the druggat. Begin by sewing on these bits so as to fill the corners with them. Then sew on all the strips, extending them from corner to corner. Each strip (as well as the corner pieces) must be doubled or folded in the middle, and stitched down on the right side.

When the strips are all sewed on, they must be raveled or fringed, so as to look like long plush or velvet. Afterward go over the whole surface with a pair of very large scissors, and shear it as even as possible.

Recipes. Soy—Crush two quarts each of stemmed currants and raspberries, add three cups of vinegar, two cups of sugar, a teaspoonful each of ground mace, allspice, cloves and pepper; boil one hour, then bottle and seal.

Tomato Salad—Take six or eight medium sized tomatoes, according to the number in family, and peel them; one large onion and about half a green pepper; chop all together fine and then season well with salt, pepper and vinegar to taste. This makes an excellent salad.

Mushroom With Eggs—Cut the mushrooms in halves, stew ten minutes in a little butter, seasoned with pepper and salt and a very little water; drain, put the mushrooms in a pie-dish, break enough eggs to cover them over the top, pepper, salt and scatter bits of butter over them; stew with breadcrumbs and bake until the eggs are set. Serve in the dish.

Lamb Chops a la Princesse—Broil the chops in the usual manner, and when partially cold dip each one separately in some strong allemande sauce, flavored with mushrooms. Place each chop flat on a baking dish and set on the ice until the sauce is firm; then dip them in egg and bread crumbs and fry them in hot lard. Garnish them with some boiled asparagus and cover with a good gravy.

Currant Mousse—One pint fresh currant juice, one pint sugar. Soak one heaping tablespoon gelatine in one tablespoon water. Chill a pint of cream—the quality for beating. Pack the can in freezer, minus the beater, in ice and salt. Now dissolve gelatine in tablespoon boiling water, add to sugar and juice, set in ice water, stir until it begins to thicken; then add the whipped cream. Mix well, pour in mould, cover well; let stand three hours.

Told by the Sergeant.

From The Democrat, Grand Rapids, Mich. At the Michigan Soldiers' Home, in Grand Rapids, lives Sergeant Richard Dunn, hale and hearty, although he carries the scars of several wounds sustained in some of the battles of the Civil War. In recounting his experience to a reporter, Mr. Dunn said: "About a year and a half ago I began to have trouble with my stomach. My suffering was so intense that I tried different medicines and doctored with several physicians, but without permanent relief.

"I read an account of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People having cured a case much like mine and I decided to give them a trial, which I did.

"After taking five boxes I was cured. I never felt better than I do now, even in my young days. I am naturally a robust man, but that stomach trouble, together with rheumatism, which afterward set in, wore making fast inroads upon my health, and I am satisfied that it would have been but a short time before my comrades would have been conducting the regulation funeral ceremonies over my remains, had I not chanced to read of and taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"There are several others in the home who are taking these pills and are receiving great benefit."

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 1st day of Nov., 1897.

HENRY GIBSON, Notary Public.

Sergeant Dunn is perfectly willing that anyone should write him in reference to his case, provided stamp is enclosed for the reply.

All the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves are contained in a condensed form in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they cure cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature.

Rise of the English Language.

We all know, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, that the English language has been growing at a remarkable rate during this century, and that it has been spreading over the whole globe. But few, however, really comprehend how rapid this growth has been.

At the opening of the century French was spoken by 31,000,000 people, German by 30,000,000, Russian by 30,000,000, Spanish by 27,000,000, English by 21,000,000, and Italian by 16,000,000. To-day English is the language of 130,000,000, French of 45,000,000, German of 70,000,000, Russian of 75,000,000, Spanish of 35,000,000, and Italian of 35,000,000. In other words, during the present century English has not only risen from the fifth place to the first, but has gained enormously on the rest in relative magnitude, expanding from about 13 per cent. of the total to over 30 per cent. With this increase of the English speaking people the language itself has kept pace. Concurrent with this growth of the language there has been an equal, if not greater, increase in knowledge. Three hundred years ago one man could know all there was to be known. To-day one man can know thoroughly only one small branch of one science. This increase of knowledge has been most rapid during the last part of the present century. More than any other cause, the progress of modern invention and science has brought about an enormous extension of the language. Thousands of technical words and expressions now in common use would never have been coined but for the innumerable parts of the never ending list of new inventions in mechanics and discoveries in science.

In no better way can this rapid increase in knowledge, and thereby in the number of words used, be realized than by a comparison of the first reference works with those of the present day.

Women Criminals Outnumber Men. Russia's penal statistics show that in the dominion of the Czar the women criminals outnumber the men by nearly 50 per cent. just the contrary being the case in other countries. Most of the women criminals are unmarried, and the majority come from the laboring classes in the cities.

The Mother Was Not Deceived.

He was a tired looking young man as he leaned up against a shade tree on Miami avenue, and the patrolman who came along and halted to look him over finally queried: "Well, what are you doing here?" "More or less t-t-tight," was the answer.

"What's that paper you have in your hand?" "Bank check, eh?" said the officer as he scanned it under the light. "Have you been trying to work a confidence game?" "Oh, no," replied the young man as he yawned sleepily. "That was a little racket on my own account."

"How do you mean?" "Why, I'm going with a girl who loves me for myself alone, but her mother looks at the cash side of the question."

"And you filled out this check to deceive her?" "That's what I did. I showed her that I had $3,000 in the bank, but what did she do but post right down there and find out that I didn't have a hair pin on deposit."

"And what?" "Why, that's how I came to get tight. She showed me the door and I knew from the way she closed it behind me that the syndicate was busted, and so I went to run at the nearest saloon!"—Detroit Free Press.

He Was There.

Some visitors in Virginia hired an old Negro on a plantation to drive them to see the Natural Bridge. So says the Toronto Saturday Night.

On nearing the bridge they asked the colored man its height and width, and if he really thought it such a wonder, after all. His replies were so vague that one of them said: "Now, Sam, confess; you have never been so near the bridge before."

"Lord, sah!" he replied, "I member coming here to help de day dey lay de corner-ston; but I aint teck notice 'bout how high de bridge was built, nor how far 'cross 'twuz. Of co'se, I aint' come heah much sense; but dis nigger never gint to forgit dat day."
