POLITICAL POINTERS.

Ex-Attorney General H. W. Palmer, of Wilkesbarre, who in past years made a brilliant record for himself by his consistent and influential opposition to machine politics and corruption in his own party, is now the laughing stock of the state. Somebody hung up the judgeship bait before him as a temptation to remain loyal to Quay and Stone, and in spite of his grand record as a reformer and as one of the Quay's steadfast enemies, he nibbled and fell an easy victim to ambition. First, is an undelivered speech at Philadelphia on the 15th inst., which by mistake was printed next day, he said some things regarding legislative abuses which gratified harshly upon the nerves of Quayites. For this he was promptly checked, and to redeem himself in the eyes of his new bedfellows he delivered another speech in the same city Friday evening and in it roared berated the Palmer of old, lauded Quay and Stone and all the isms they stand for. He outdid Senator Penrose, who spoke the same night, in his love for the Boss, and then waited for his reward. And "Hank" got it—where all traitors to principle get it. On Tuesday Halsey was made judge.

DRIFTON ITEMS.

After continuous service of a quarter of a century, less one year, John Cunningham, foreman of the machine shops of the Coxie Iron Manufacturing Company, has resigned his position and the same will take effect on the 31st inst. Mr. Cunningham is one of the foremen of the old school, now so few in Drifton, for whom men took a pleasure in working because he treated them as human beings instead of the latter day style of driving them like slaves. Drifton shops, with his departure, lose an able superintendent and the town a citizen esteemed by all classes. Mr. Cunningham, it is said, has offers of three similar positions, and while he has not yet decided it is likely he will go to Boston.
Halsey's appointment to the judgeship of Luzerne county fell like a thunder-bolt on the political clique here. Wheaton had received the unanimous endorsement of what in certain circles is known as the "Drifton gang," and the news that the governor failed to obey their "request" to place their favorite on the bench stunned them. Since Hastings favored the Drifton crowd with the new county veto they have talked very confidently of their "pull" at Harrisburg and acted as though they owned the chief executive of the state, but yesterday's announcement rudely awakened them.
Sulphur fumes from a loeie in No. 1 mine yesterday nearly suffocated Robert Gillespie and Frank Gillespie, an engineer and assistant. Both were prostrated by the deadly vapor and were unconscious several hours. The former is filling the place of the regular engineer, William Baskin, who is recovering from a similar attack. The recovery of the young men was in doubt for awhile. The sulphur is caused by the dirt which the company insists being burned in the loeies instead of providing coal for the purpose.
The illustrated lecture on "Beautiful Pennsylvania," by J. T. Rothrock, state commissioner of forestry, was attended by a large audience at Cross Creek hall on Monday evening. The lecture was entertaining and instructive.
Charged With Larceny.
Fred Horn, of Upper Lehigh, was taken to the county jail on Tuesday by Constable Ludwig to await trial on a charge of larceny, preferred by Councilman M. Schwabe.
On September 10 a set of harness valued at $30 was stolen from M. Schwabe's stable in South Heberton. Since that time he has closely scanned every set of harness he saw and notified the saddlers of the region to keep a lookout for his property. A week ago George Wise reported that the harness had arrived at his Freeland shop for repairs. Mr. Schwabe then began a search for the guilty party.
It was learned that the harness was considered the property of Joe Birkbeck. The latter promptly proved that he purchased the goods from Louis Snyder, of Butler, for $15. Mr. Snyder, in turn, furnished evidence that he had traded the harness for another set with Fred Horn. Mr. Horn alleged that he bought it from a Hungarian in Upper Lehigh swamp on his way home from the Grand Army celebration here.
Falling to produce the Hun, Mr. Horn was asked on Monday evening by Squire Buckley to furnish $300 bail for his appearance at court. This he also failed to do, and the next day he was taken to Wilkesbarre. The councilman proved his ownership to the harness and possession was given him.

HALSEY IS THE JUDGE.

APPOINTED BY GOVERNOR HASTINGS ON TUESDAY.
The White Haven Candidate for the Late Judge Bennett's Seat on the Bench Easily Won Against Attorney Wheaton and a Few Dark Horses—His Career.
Governor Hastings on Tuesday afternoon appointed Gais L. Halsey, of White Haven, as common pleas judge of Luzerne county, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Lyman H. Bennett.
The contest for the appointment was short but a sharp one. During the past week it narrowed down to Attorney Halsey, of White Haven, and Attorney Frank Wheaton, of Wilkesbarre. These two were before the public as candidates, but it is known that others were fondly hoping they would be accepted as compromise candidates if the Halsey-Wheaton struggle continued much longer, and it is asserted in political circles that ex-Attorney General Palmer was not without a promise that the plum might be his.
Both Halsey and Wheaton were strongly supported by their fellow attorneys in the county. Among the business element in the upper end they were equally favored with endorsements. In the lower end Halsey was almost the unanimous choice of these people. With the corporations, however, Wheaton had a tremendous advantage, and their power and influence was exerted in his behalf in a manner which made his appointment seem imminent. His affiliation with the Quay faction of the party, and the report that the governor and the senator had settled the differences, further strengthened the belief that Wheaton would be named.
Nevertheless, the anti-Quayites and anti-corporation citizens of the county continued to battle for Halsey, and on Tuesday the governor announced his decision as above.
Sketch of His Career.
Gais Leonard Halsey was born at Nesquehoning, Carbon county, on July 12, 1845. His ancestors were English, the first of his branch of the Halsey family coming here in 1637. They settled at Lynn, Mass., and later at Southampton, in the same state, where many of them still reside. Others live in New York state, where a village has been named after the family, others drifted to New Jersey and some to Pennsylvania. Mr. Halsey's great-grandfathers were soldiers in the revolutionary war and one was rewarded by the continental congress for bravery. Among the prominent descendants of the Halsey family was Roscoe Conkling, of New York. The father of Attorney Halsey was Dr. Richard Church Halsey, who was married to Miss Anna Sprowl, of Chester county, a member of the Society of Friends. They first located at White Haven, but after a few years there removed to Nesquehoning.
Mr. Halsey was educated at Wilkesbarre academy, Clinton, N. Y., institute and Tuft's college, Medford, Mass. He taught school at Canton, Mass., and at White Haven. In 1866 he went to Washington, where until 1869 he was engaged as a stenographer. In 1870 he was a stenographer for the Legislative Record at Harrisburg and in the following year was assistant sergeant-at-arms in the house of representatives. Later he filled the position of transcribing clerk in the house. He studied law with Lyman Hakes and Charles E. Rice, and was admitted to the bar of Luzerne county, September 9, 1872. Mr. Halsey was married on April 17, 1882, to Sarah Elizabeth Levan, a daughter of John W. Levan, of White Haven. In politics Mr. Halsey is a Republican, but not a partisan. His record as an attorney is clean and commendable, and the same is expected of him while he occupies a seat on the Luzerne county bench.
There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

Weddings of the Week.
George C. Deltz, of Scranton, and Miss Mary A. Barton, of Coxe addition, were married at the bride's home on Sunday by Rev. W. W. Hartman, of the Park M. E. church. Samuel Moyer, of Hazleton, was groomsmen, and Miss Sadie Paul, of Freeland, was bridesmaid.
William Dunkerly, of Jeddo, and Miss Lizzie Robinson, of Drifton, were married yesterday at noon in St. James' Episcopal church in Drifton by Rev. J. P. Burton.
Christian Schoeller and Miss Gertrude Rudolph, and Lorenz Boos and Miss Mary Bechtloff, all of Freeland, will be married today by Rev. J. Kuntz.

Good Wills' First Ball.
The first ball of the Good Wills Athletic Association will be held tomorrow evening at Yannes' opera house, which will be handsomely decorated for the occasion. The young men comprising this organization have made extensive preparations for the affair, and nothing will be found wanting to give pleasure to all who attend. The dancing music will be furnished by St. Patrick's band.

Constable Sues the County.
Rhone Trescott, a constable from Hazleton, has commenced suit against the county of Luzerne to recover $2,715.80, for services rendered in arresting and securing the conviction of the notorious James Passarella and his band of Italians, who infested the lower end of the county about two years ago. The desperadoes are now in the penitentiary.

Church Thanksgiving Decorations.
Striking, artistic and appropriate decorations for churches for Thanksgiving Day observances are shown in a number of pictures in the November Ladies Home Journal. They are made from photographs obtained in competitive contests, and represent the best decorations that were applied to churches on Thanksgiving Day last year. They are filled with suggestions, most of which can be easily utilized by almost any church at the expense of a little effort and the exercise of a little taste.

Don't Accept a Substitute.
Don't accept a substitute for Bartels' beer when you want a drink of pure, wholesome larger. "Just as good" may be told you by those who sell other beers, but "just as good" is not the kind you should drink if you want to preserve your health and equilibrium. Insist upon getting Bartels' beer, porter and ale. All up-to-date saloon men sell it.
