A Klondike Newspaper.

The Klondike Nugget, one of the two papers published at Dawson, is having a great deal of trouble finding its town subscribers, who pay $24 a year for the privilege of getting a semi-weekly edition. A paragraph in a recent issue explains the difficulty by saying that it is very hard to find some of the houses according to the addresses left at the office. Among those mentioned were "the cabin with the screen door," "the slab house facing the river," "the big tent with two stove pipes" and "the cabin three doors south of where all the dogs are."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Primitive Ice-Making.

The most ancient method of making ice appears to be that practiced in India. Holes are made in the ground, dry straw is put at the bottom of these, and on it, at the close of the day, are placed pans of water, which are left until the next morning, when the ice that is found within the pans is collected. The industry is carried on only in districts where the ground is dry, and will readily absorb the vapor given off from the water in the pans. The freezing, of course, is due to the great amount of heat absorbed by the vapor in passing from its liquid to its gaseous form.

TO MRS. PINKHAM

From Mrs. Walter E. Budd, of Pat- chogue, New York.

Mrs. BUDD, in the following letter, tells a familiar story of weakness and suffering, and thanks Mrs. Pinkham for complete relief:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I think it is my duty to write to you and tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I feel like another woman. I had such dreadful headaches through my temples and on top of my head, that I nearly went crazy; was also troubled with chills, was very weak; my left side from my shoulders to my waist pained me terribly. I could not sleep for the pain. Plasters would help for a while, but as soon as taken off, the pain would be just as bad as ever. Doctors prescribed medicine, but it gave me no relief.

"Now I feel so well and strong, have no more headaches, and no pain in side, and it is all owing to your Compound. I cannot praise it enough. It is a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to every woman I know."

PILES

"I suffered the tortures of the damned with protruding piles brought on by constipation with which I was afflicted for twenty years. I ran across your CASCARETS in the town of Newell, Ia., and never found anything to equal them. To-day I am entirely free from piles and feel like a new man."

JUSTICE OF GOMEZ.

BULLETS FOR THE MAN WHO KILLED A NURSE.

A Trial in the Woods, No Mercy, and a Court Martial with but One Judge—Perils of the Wartime Nurse—No Mercy for Outlaws.

General Gomez and several officers of his staff were taking their after-dinner nap, when there was a commotion in the thick chaparral, between them and the narrow, rugged road which runs all the way from the mountains to the western coast of Cuba.

With a rush and a swish a dozen men plunged out of the bushes.

The newcomers had with them a fettered prisoner—a tall man with a dark, stern face, who wore the uniform of a Spanish captain. Gomez looked at him curiously as he listened to a whispered report from Vando.

Then he frowned and his eyes flashed fire.

"Carrajo!" he hissed between his teeth. "A good day's work, Vando. I'll not forget it."

"What can we do for Captain Lopez?" asked General Gomez.

"Release me, restore my weapons and my horse," said the prisoner. "I was on a peaceful mission, visiting a sick friend, when your men ambushed me on the road. They have treated me with great indignity."

"It gives me great pain to refuse your request," replied Gomez, "but we have given you careful consideration for the past six months, and the main object of our recent scouting expeditions was to capture you. You see, captain, you are not an ordinary guerrilla. You have a gang of the worst cut-throats and robbers in all Cuba. All your work is done in the dark. You destroy the homes of peaceful farmers, murder and rob prisoners, assault helpless women, and Captain Vando reports that when you were captured you had on your person the watch and the handkerchief of a Red Cross nurse, a young woman who was outraged and murdered by you and your ruffians two nights ago.

"It is a lie!" shouted the Spaniard. "I found the handkerchief in the road—the watch I bought from a soldier."

"Mistakes will occur in war times," answered Gomez calmly, "and I may be mistaken now, but I am willing to swear to the truthfulness of Vando's report."

"I must go with you, then, and be tried by court martial, I suppose?" said Lopez.

"You will be tried by court martial," responded the general, smilingly. "Your trial is in progress now. This is a court martial.

Two stalwart Cubans dragged the talled for the work stepped forward, and when their rifles rang out the prisoner's head fell back. Every bullet had pierced his heart.

"Shall we bury him?" asked Vando.

"Did he bury the murdered Red Cross nurse?" was the question asked in return by the commander.

"No, general. He left her body to the vultures."

"What a devil!" the other muttered.

HOW A SAILOR'S WAGES GO.

Jack Squanders His Hard Earned Money Sometimes by Proxy.

What do the Jack tars in the navy do with all their money? has often been asked, although most people have answered the question to their own satisfaction beforehand by deciding they spent it the first chance they got. Many of the younger or newer ones do get rid of their cash at the first opportunity, but they spend it themselves, and get their money's worth, or what they think or are made to believe is their money's worth. Those who are really warm in their following seldom take all their wages from the paymaster. They let him keep it during the cruise and draw 4 per cent interest on it until the cruise is over. Then, of course, some spend it all before they get back to the ship. They have a good time all in a lump and are satisfied to wait for extravagant days again until another cruise is over. These are the men who have no one except themselves to care for. While on the man-of-war they need not go short of anything and yet not use their money. Moreover, they will probably attend to their duties better and have a much finer time when the cruise is at an end. Those who have wives or families or relatives to care for usually send their money home regularly and faithfully. Often, however, their confidence is meanly abused. Married men make up this class. They send their wives comfortable incomes, and that is all these wives care for them for. These are the wives who married simply for what there was in marriage in a money way, with the additional advantage or convenience of not having a husband around much. Unluckily for women of this class, not all Jack tars can maintain wives. Only chief petty officers or first-rate petty officers can afford the luxury of marriage, and even they have to watch out pretty keenly not to impair the due to their better halves.

Asbestos Leather.

A German inventor has obtained a British patent for an improved asbestos stuff—asbestos leather—and its mode of manufacture. The asbestos is divided into very fine fibers of the greatest possible length, then immersed into an India rubber solution; the whole is next thoroughly intermixed,

OUR GOOD FRIEND.

Jules Cambon, who petitioned President McKinley to open peace negotiations with Madrid through the Spanish and American ambassadors at Paris, is the most distinguished diplomat in Washington, outranking any of the ambassadors of the great countries of Europe. This is true because France, in making him its ambassador, removed him from the lofty post of governor general of Algeria and conferred upon him the highest diplomatic honor in its gift. That is, it made him honorary governor of the colony. "By this act France established the Washington embassy in a higher rank than the governorship of Algeria. M. Cambon was born in Paris in 1845, and was educated at the Lycee Louis le Grand. He was graduated from the law university in 1866 and was secretary of the debating society in 1869. Having served his country as a soldier in the Franco-Prussian war, he entered the diplomatic service of the republic as an attaché of the governor general of Algeria. On the recommendation of General Chanzy he was made in 1875 the prefect of the department of Constantine. He was largely instrumental in transforming Algeria to a civil from a military colony, and was highly honored by General Chanzy, who regarded him as one of the ablest diplomats in the French service. On his return to Paris he was intrusted with several important missions of state, all of which he filled most acceptably. In 1891 he was sent back to Algeria, the scene of his earlier triumphs, this time as governor general. M. Cambon is a commander of the Legion of Honor.

until every fiber is coated with the solution. The solvent, for instance petroleum benzine, is thereupon evaporated. The asbestos fibers then cohere perfectly, and the mass may be pressed into any desired form or may be rolled. The inventor calls the manufactured product "asbestos leather," and it is said to resemble very closely leather in its peculiarities and structure.—Zeugdrucker Zeitung.

Consecration.

We consecrate a church, and we think that God, in some peculiar and special way is there. We do not consecrate our homes, our offices, in such a way as to think that God just as really is there and that in our business life we are in actual contact with Him.—Rev. M. J. Savage.

GENERAL SHAFTER'S JOKE.

How He Gave an Exhibition of His Unerring Marksmanship.

Colonel Thomas H. Barry, adjutant-general to Major-General Otis, before leaving for Manila told a good story of Major-General Shafter's shooting in the days when he was a colonel on the Mexican border. A day before he took ship for the Philippines Barry, with Brigadier-General Hughes and a Chronicle representative, discussing Shafter's gallantry before Santiago, said:

"I was Shafter's aide three years ago when we both were bronzing under the hottest sun that shines in these states. Shafter was known as the best shot not only in his regiment, but in the whole country about. One day an officer from another regiment, not acquainted with Shafter's ability in this line, visited the post and soon made it apparent to us that he esteemed himself about as expert a marksman as ever pulled a trigger. We secretly laughed at his opinion of himself, and whispered to each other, 'Just wait till Peecos Bill gets after him.'"

"Well, his time came. One morning Shafter and I started out to ride forty miles or more to another post, and the visitor asked to be allowed to accompany us. We trotted along easily until about noon, when we halted to eat our luncheon, which was packed with us. At that time officers carried short carbines on such service, and I had one strapped to my saddle. The conversation drifted from the topography of the country to marksmanship, and the officer—call him Smith—said: 'Say, colonel, have you got any shots in your regiment?'"

"Shafter smiled and replied: 'Have I? Why, I've got some men that can discount the sharpshooter's you read about. Officers, too. I'm not much myself, but when you get back to the fort I'll tell a few of the good ones to show you a thing or two.'

"Just then an antelope sprang up a quarter of a mile away, and all seeing it at the same moment reached for their carbines. Shafter was quickest, and in a second adjusted the sights to 600 feet and blazed away. Down came Mr. Antelope, and when we rode up to where he lay we found a bullet hole over his heart.

"Smith examined the wound, looked over the carbine, and then muttered, half aside, 'Not bad. You say you're not in it with other officers in your regiment, colonel?'"

"No," said Shafter, "I'm ashamed of myself alongside of them."

"A couple of hours later another antelope appeared, but farther away. Smith fidgeted a moment and then said eagerly, 'Colonel, may I go after him?'"

"Pshaw. You wouldn't chase him on horseback at that distance," exclaimed Shafter, seizing the weapon and leveling it as he spoke. "I'll put lead in his head."

"He fired and we saw the animal bound away. Smith was gleeful. 'A little high, colonel,' he shouted as we galloped on. Reaching the place where the game had been, we were on a high rising piece of ground, and, looking down fifty feet, Shafter pointed to a dark object and said quietly, 'I guess I got the head.'

"Sure enough, the antelope was lying dead, with a bullet hole through his left ear. Smith looked as disgusted as any man I ever saw.

"And the officers are better?" he queried.

"Shafter's eyes twinkled. 'Lieut. Smith,' he replied, with assumed sternness, 'I want you to say nothing of this at the post. I ought to have hit him in the eye, and I feel ashamed of my poor aim.'

"Smith, who had no sense of humor, was dumfounded. For years after he spread the fame of Colonel Shafter as a marksman far and wide."—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Railroad's Thoughtfulness.

Commuters on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad in New Jersey are inclined to challenge a new regulation which has just been enforced on the ground that it smacks of paternalism. As each brakeman calls a station, as, for instance, Hackensack, he does it in this fashion: "Hackensack! Don't f-o-r-g-e-t your b-u-n-d-l-e-s." Occasional passengers find these calls very amusing and as each station is announced they grin at the brakeman, who doesn't enjoy the new regulation, and then look around to see the commuters pick up their bundles. Undoubtedly this new regulation was suggested by the number of bundles which commuters left behind them in the cars and then bothered the railroad company to look up for them. "I object to this regulation," said one of the commuters. "If the railroads are going into this business, the first thing we will know the brakeman will call out: 'Hackensack! Have you forgotten to mail your wife's letter?' or perhaps it will be 'Montclair! Remember to stop at the butcher's.' I invited a friend to come out and spend the night with me a short time ago, and he began to laugh when the first station was announced. As station after station was reached and the brakeman sung out monotonously at each: 'Don't forget your bundles,' his merriment increased. He would talk about nothing else at dinner, and when he said good night to us he added: 'Don't forget your bundles.' It's kind of the railroad, of course, but I don't like it."

Vesuvius' Output of Lava.

Lava streams that have flowed out of Vesuvius during the last three years have deposited 105,000,000 cubic meters of lava on the sides of the mountain. A cone of lava 380 feet high has been formed, out of which fresh streams are flowing. The valleys on either side of the observatory peak have been completely filled up.

QUEER WORK FOR AN ARMY.

Experiment in Prussia to Estimate the Skill and Speed of Soldiers.

An interesting experiment has just been made by the Prussian staff department, with a view to discover the speed with which artisans can work in a given time in the ranks of the German army, says the London Telegraph. Twelve hundred bootmakers, selected from the eighteen army corps scattered just over a month ago to Berlin, to go through a course of four weeks' work. Eighteen colonels, lieutenant-colonels and captains, with a corresponding number of non-commissioned officers, were ordered to come to the capital to superintend the men. The men were quartered in the barracks of the 1st field artillery regiment of the Prussian guards and performed their daily work there. About forty locksmiths were told off to repair their machines when necessary. The men worked in two divisions continuously day and night, one division relieving the other. One division worked from 2 p. m. till 2 a. m., whereupon they were relieved by the other party, which in its turn worked from 2 a. m. till 2 p. m. Two pauses of half an hour each were made in each twelve hours' work. The men got their dinner in the barracks—the one section immediately before settling down to work, the other section immediately after their work. The wages given coincided with the wages given in time of war—6s for ten days, including bread money. The 1,200 men made 2,500 pairs of boots per day—that is to say, infantry and cavalry boots and lace shoes.

His End Hastened.

A colleague of mine tells me a story of a Scotch newspaper with which he was connected. A local celebrity was dying by inches. His biography was written, and in the early hours of the morning a printer's devil used to be sent across to ask for the dying man, so that the obituary might be thoroughly up to date. Morning after morning the boy asked the landlady the same question, till he got angry at having to make the fruitless journey. At last one morning he got desperate. "Is that man nearly dead?" he asked. "The paper's gain to press and we canna' wait any longer."—London Sketch.

A Soldier's Escape.

From the Democrat-Messenger, Mt. Sterling, Ill.

When Richmond had fallen and the great commanders had met beneath the historic apple tree at Appomattox, the 83d Pennsylvania Volunteers, prematurely aged, clad in tatters and ragged, brook- ing in body but of dauntless spirit, swung into line for the last "grand review." Most of them quietly marched away to begin life's fray anew amid the hills and valleys of the Keystone State. Among the number Asa Robinson came back to the old home in Mt. Sterling, Ill., back to the friends that he had left at the close of his army career four years previous. He went a way a happy, healthy farmer boy in the first flush of vigorous manhood; he came back a ghost of the self that answered to President Lincoln's call for "300,000 more."

To-day he is an alert, active man and tells the story of his recovery as follows: "I was a great sufferer from sciatic rheumatism almost from the time of my discharge from the army. Most of the time I was limited for manual labor of any kind, and my sufferings were at all times intense. At times I was bent almost double, and got around only with the greatest difficulty. Nothing seemed to give me permanent relief until three years ago, when my attention was called to some of the wonderful cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had not taken more than half a box when I noticed an improvement in my condition, and I kept on improving steadily. I took three boxes of the pills, and at the end of that time was in better condition than at any time since the close of my army service. Since then I have never been bothered with rheumatism. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is the only remedy that ever did me any good, and to them I owe my restoration to comparative health. They are a grand remedy."

MRS. PINKHAM TALKS TO THE FUTURE WOMAN.

Will the New Generation of Women be More Beautiful or Less So? Miss Jessie Eburner's Experience.

A pleasing face and graceful figure! These are equipments that widen the sphere of woman's usefulness. How can a woman have grace of movement when she is suffering from some disorder that gives her those awful bearing-down sensations? How can she retain her beautiful face when she is nervous and racked with pain? Young women, think of your future and provide against ill health. Mothers, think of your growing daughter, and prevent in her as well as in yourself irregularity or suspension of nature's duties.

If puzzled, don't trust your own judgment. Mrs. Pinkham will charge you nothing for her advice; write to her at Lynn, Mass., and she will tell you how to make yourself healthy and strong.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound strengthens the female organs and regulates the menses as nothing else will. Following is a letter from Miss JESSIE EBURNER, 1712 West Jefferson St., Sandusky, Ohio.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to let you know of the great benefit your remedies have been to me. I suffered for over a year with inflammation of the ovaries. I had doctored, but no medicine did me any good. Was at a sanatorium for two weeks. The doctor thought an operation necessary, but I made up my mind to give your medicine a trial before submitting to that. I was also troubled with leucorrhoea, painful menstruation, dizziness, nervousness, and was so weak that I was unable to stand or walk. I have taken in all several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and am now in good health. I will always give your medicine the highest praise."
