Hard Pine for Kitchen.
Those who have carefully and experty studied the matter assert that the best arrangement for a kitchen floor is hard pine wood with oak finished border. There should be in addition a large square of linoleum fitting the center of the floor and coming to the edge of sink and table.

VAN BOOZEM'S SCHEME.

It Did Not Pan Out Just As He Anticipated Is Would.

It Did Not Pan Out Just As He Anticlipated Is Would.

Van Boozem had made up his mind to save money. No more quarters for luncheon, he said, and he bit off the words with a snap to his teeth.

Hereafter I shall go in for the free article, then the nickel with which I'll buy something to wash it down will make the meal cost but five cents. Great scheme! Great saving! Nothing like economy."

Whereupon Van Boozem jammed his hat down on his head and stalked out of his office snapping the spring lock of the door behind him.

Across the way, at the corner above, was a clean little place he remembered to have noticed frequently on his way down to the office in the morning. Then he recollected that once he had heard Twiggs remark as they passed it that "an elegant free lunch" was spread inside at noon each day.

That settled it. Van Boozem darted across the street and entered the little saloon. A white-coated attendant stood behind the counter. "What will it be?" he asked.

"Ginger ale, please," Van Boozem answered, and then he looked around. He walked over to the end of the bar and began eating. A sandwich was finished. Then another followed, another, and still another. "Lovely," ejaculated Van Boozem, "lovely," after he had finished the eighth the economical man drank his ginger ale. Reaching down into his pocket he produced a dime and laid it on the bar. The white-coated attendant looked at it, then he looked at Van Boozem. "Seventy-five cents more," he said as he flitted a damp cloth across the polished surface of the counter. "What?" shouted Van Boozem. "Seventy-five cents more, please," repeated the attendant. Those sandwiches are 10 cents apiece. You got away with eight, for I counted 'em. That makes eighty cents. The ginger ale is five cents and here's your dime, so you see there's 75 cents more coming."

Gaping and dazed, Van Boozem drew out a dollar. "I—I Hought," he

A WISE COMMANDER.

Lord Howe's Campaign Against the French and Indfans.

Lord Howe, wh), in 1768, accompanied Gen. Abercombie in the attack on Fort Ticonderora, did not, like the foolish Braddock, i isist on fighting Indians and Frenchin en according to the military rules of European armies. While his army we sencamped at Albany he forbade all display of gold and scarlet in the mar h, and ordered the barrels of the musl ets to be blackened, that the soldiers if ight not be seen at a distance by the gilttering of their arms.

a distance by the glittering of their arms.

He himself set a 1 example by wearing a soldier's cort shorn of its tail, and leggings made of cloth. The hair was, in those days, worn in a bag or queue by the officers. Lord Howe's hair was abundant and fine, yet he cropped it, and ordered th', officers to do the same. The amourt of personal baggage and camp eq tipage then carried by the officers was mormous.

One day the officers were invited to dine with Lord Hove in his tent. When they arrived they vere surprised to see no chairs or tabl's, but bear skins spread on the floor like rugs. Lord Howe sat down on a small log, and the officers followed his example. Presently the servants set down a large dish of pork and peas.

Lord Howe took a sheath out of his pocket, drew from it a knife and fork and began to cut; and divide the pork The officers sat in illence, which he interrupted by askirg if they were not provided with similar portable instruments. Then he d stributed to each a case like his own.

On the march he ordered that each soldier should be provided with powdered ginger, and that it should be mixed with the water with which they filled their canteens.

The simple pre-cription saved the lives of many white are with which they filled their canteens.

Some Ill t Houses.

The Sultan is said to have nearly completed the largest hotel in the world at Mecca. This establishment is to lodge 6,000 pilgrims at once, with, presumably, their camels and other beasts of burden, and promises to be one of the most p'cturesque places to stay at in the world, although, of course, "infidel dogs" are not allowed to anostay at in the world, although, of course, "infidel dogs" are not allowed to approach it. Its vas! size has drawn attention to monster residences. The largest dwelling-house in existence is in Vienna, where there is an apartmenthouse with 1,500 rooms in it, occupied by more than 3,000 people. This building has thirty-two staircases, thirteen interior courts and 850 windows on the street.

Good Things.

Starting with one car, and a funeral car at that, the Pullman Palace Car company in 33 years laid aside a surplus of $24,000,000, which was divided between the stockholders. How curious it all seems. Pullman's hearse on the rail brought him great fortune, yet he disinherited his two sons. It has always been a superstition that hearses brought Ill luck. Another amazing success was Edison Electric, which went begging at 45. A broker bought 20 shares for $900, and sold 10 of them a year later for $30,000. Bell Telephone stock started at a low price, but went to 200, and made many rich, There is no end of these good things.

DECEIVED HERSELF.

"Daisy, did I hear you promise that—that fellow to go with him to the pinic next Tuesday?"

"What fellow?" asked Daisy, leily.

"You know who I mean." Dick was pale with jealousy and wrath. "And you know that there was an understanding that I was to escort you."

"I presume that I can go with whom I choose?" answered Daisy, haughtily.

"So you can, and I want you now to make your choice; but I tell you, once for all, that if you throw me over for that Fenwick you will be done with me for ever."

"My goodness, Dick, what a temper you have!"

"You've driven me to it; you've made me desperate!" he retorted. "This thing must come to an end between us one way or another, for I will bear it no longer."

"What right have you to speak to me in that tone? I am not your slave, and I shall go with Dr. Fenwick to the picnic."

"Yery well," he said, shortly, and turning on his heel walked off in the direction of the barn.

As Dalsy entered the cool dining room, Miss Maria was standing at the window, with her arms akimbo, gazing after Dick.

"That boy," she gaid solemly, "that boy ain't himself. I shouldn't be surprised if he's driven to do something desp'rate," and she looked resentfully at Dalsy.

"You don't eat anything, Dalsy," kindly said uncle Edward, who never saw much of what was not going on right before his eyes. "Maybe you think the weather's too warm for hot rolls and cakes? Well take some leed milk and berries—Why bless me! What's the matter with the child?"

Dalsy had burst into tears. "Please, uncle—aunt—excuse me," she said, and hastily left the room.

She did not go upstairs, but out of doors, where she could relieve her heart by sobbing unseen and unheard. Passing through the garden and thorchard, she followed the little footpath which led to a pretty strip of woodland, where in a cool ravine ran narrow but rather deep stream between mossy banks.

There had been a little rustic bridge leading to the hillside beyond, but this had been lately washed away after a heavy rain and—wasn't that Dick, his arms folde

"Not yet, Daisy. Do you love me above everybody else in the world?"

"Yes—O, yes!"

"And will you marry me, Daisy?"

"Yes, I will, Dick; indeed I will!"

"When?"

"When?" to morrow—now!" said Daisy in desperation, if you will only throw away that dreadful thing and come home with me."

Dick flung the coil of rope into a thicket of laurel on the other side of the stream, and drawing Daisy to him, kissed her solemly. "Remember, you have promised to be my wife, Daisy." 'Yes," she answered meekly. And so, hand in hand, they returned through the orchard and the garden to the house.

Dalsy stopped and looked straight up into Dick's face. "You have deceived me!" she said indignantly.

"No, Dalsy, I haven't. You deceived yourself, dear, and I'm very glad of it, I assure you." yourself, dear, and I'm very glad of it, I assure you."
"Glad?" said Daisy, reproachfully, and with her face all crimson with blushes.

"Because but for that I might never have gotten you to say 'yes;' and we might both have been forever miser-able. But how happy we are going to be for all the rest of our lives!"
"Still, it was a dreadfully mean rick," Daisy muraured, "and if you ever say a word about it to any one, I'l never forgive you—never."

Some Pointed Questions

Does your urine contain any sediment? Is the lower part of your back sore, eak and lame? Does your urine have a whitish, milky color? Is there a narting or scalding sensation in passing it? Does it pain you to hold it? Do at desire to urinate often, especially at night?

It acts at once. There is no long waiting to see if it will help.

"For years I suffered with my Kidneys," writes Thomas Quackennush, of Pittsfield, Mass. "The pain in my back was so severe at times that I was obliged to keep to my bed. I suffered awfully when passing water, which was often discolored with blood. It ried almost everything in the shape of medicine, but nothing seemed to help me. One day I got a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and used it but a little while when it braced me right up. My back became all right, no pain at all; my water cleared up and passed from me without pain, and I grew better in every way, I consider it a great medicine, as it has done wonders for me. My wife uses it for female complaint, and thinks it's the finest medicine in the world."
