NOTES AND COMMENTS FROM THE PENNSYLVANIA CAPITAL.

Governor Stone's Inauguration Was One of the Most Elaborate Ever Seen in the State—A "Snake" Bill Introduced for Quay's Benefit.

Harrisburg, Pa., January 20.
The senatorial situation has not changed materially since last week. Both sides in the Republican ranks claim victory, and the Democrats, having nominated George A. Jenks as their candidate, leaves the contest in the same field of uncertainty. Tuesday was the day for the holding of the first ballot in each branch of the legislature, and Wednesday for joint ballot. The result was that Quay polled 112 votes on the joint ballot; Jenks 82, and the balance were scattered. With several absentees this left Quay short 13 votes to elect. The anti-Quayites had their forces well in hand notwithstanding the hard work done by Quay.

Senator Magee, on the floor of the senate, last Friday, made a statement in regard to the attitude of himself and Senator Flinn on the senatorial fight. He declared that he and Flinn were close friends, associated together in business and politics, but in the senatorial contest they hold an honest and sincere difference in which each follows the dictates of his own judgment. He also stated that he was not a candidate for senatorial honors, nor would he accept the place secured by what others charge him with—trying to defeat Quay to be elected himself.

Although the inauguration expenses were limited to $7,000, the affair was one of the most elaborate of its kind held in this city in many years. Besides the attraction of witnessing the inaugural parade, the desire to see the new capitol and witness the first ballot for United States senator brought many strangers to the city. Besides a number of congressmen and other prominent men from Washington, there was present the accredited Chinese representative to this country, together with his suite. They took a deep interest in the inaugural events and seemed to be pleased with the way Pennsylvania inducts in office its chief magistrate.

The full strength of the new National Guard, 8,000 men, were here, fully armed and equipped. They made a fine appearance and won frequent applause. There were also present a number of political clubs from Philadelphia and Pittsburg, besides a large number of G. A. R. posts from various parts of the state. To these was added the local fire department, making one of the largest inaugural parades ever seen in this city.

In the evening a public reception was held at the executive mansion, which was attended by about 2,500 people. While the reception was going on there was a display of fire works along the river front, a short distance above the mansion. One of the bills that passed last session, yet was inoperative owing to the want of an appropriation, was the Hamilton road bill. This bill was supported and backed by many rural members, but owing to the low state of finances the people NEVER DERIVED ANY BENEFIT from its passage. This session a vigorous effort will be made to have an appropriation of $1,000,000 passed, so that the bill may be enforced. The country members will renew their fight of the last term, for a tax on bicycles and vehicles, to be applied for the improvement of roads.

Many clerks in the different departments of the capitol building are suffering from diphtheria, and all throat troubles.

FIREMEN'S FAIR OPENED.

First Night Drew a Large Number of People to Yannes' Opera House.

The annual fair of the Citizens' Hose Company opened at Yannes' opera house on Saturday evening. There were over 500 admissions at the door, and the firemen are well pleased at the success attained on the opening night. St. Ann's band was present and rendered a number of selections during the evening. The interior of the opera house is tastefully decorated and the indications are that the fair will prove an attractive place to spend the evenings of this week. The firemen have arranged a program for each evening to interest those who attend.

A beautiful bed-room suit, a handsome lounge, several ornamental lamps and fancy rockers are among the more expensive articles which will be disposed of this week. Hundreds of other articles are on exhibition, all of which can be had at the very lowest figures.

Miss Mary Herron.....50
Miss Mary Furey.....23
Miss Annie Dever.....21

The names of those who received less than twenty votes are not published. Another gold watch contest is in progress, Miss Ida Shaffer and Miss Annie Dever being the candidates.

The program of the special attractions at the fair for the next four evenings is as follows:

Monday evening, grand cake walk.
Tuesday evening, silk umbrella will be awarded to most generous business man.
Wednesday evening, waltz contest.
Prizes, gold necklace for lady and gold tie-pin for gentleman.
Thursday evening, school room contest. The school room receiving the highest vote will be presented with a handsome portrait of Admiral Dewey.
Music will be rendered this evening by the Citizens' band and on Tuesday evening by St. Ann's band.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

The Republicans of Butler township met in caucus on Saturday evening at Drums and nominated the following ticket:

School directors—John Powell, James Daubert.
Supervisors—G. H. Hombbaum, Benj Young.
Township clerk—Charles Brightot.
Constable—Ely Kuntz.
Auditor—Edward Jacobs.

The Democratic borough committee met at the council room on Thursday evening and instructed Chairman Hanlon to issue a call for the delegate elections and conventions. The former will be held between 4 and 7 p. m. Saturday evening. The district, ward and borough conventions will be held at Cottage hall next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Democratic delegates of Foster caucused yesterday, but were unable to arrange a satisfactory ticket. Richards has friends in the party who are trying to procure the nomination of weak men for school directors on the Democratic side. They need watching tonight.

Tonight's convention of Foster Democrats at Woodsie promises to be quite interesting. There is a feeling abroad that the Democrats of the township can win, and as a result there is no scarcity of candidates for the offices.

The dissatisfaction existing among the Foster Republicans continues to increase. There is some talk of nominating an independent ticket if the Democrats fail to name good men tonight.

Hazle township Democrats nominate their ticket tomorrow afternoon at Harleigh. The struggle among the candidates for school director is quite fierce.

Thomas Slattery yesterday announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the Democratic nomination of school director in the South ward.

The Democrats of the poor district will hold their convention at Hazleton this afternoon.

PERSONALITIES.

Miss Annie Timney, of Dorranceton, and Miss Maggie Timney, of Philadelphia, were called on Saturday to the bedside of their mother, who is dangerously ill at her home, corner of Walnut and Washington streets.

Daniel Feiler has returned to town after a residence of several months in Mauch Chunk.

Dr. Geo. S. Wentz, of Drifton, spent a few days with Scranton relatives last week.

DEATH OF JOHN R. WAGNER.

John R. Wagner, of Drifton, died at his home in that town on Saturday morning from pneumonia, aged 38 years. He was ill less than a week. Mr. Wagner is survived by a wife and mother, and on Saturday evening the remains were taken to the home of the latter in Bethlehem, where they will be buried tomorrow.

Mr. Wagner was a native of Bethlehem and graduated at Lehigh university. At the time of his death he was employed as superintendent of motive power on the D. & S. Railroad and superintendent of the Coxie Iron Manufacturing Company. He was also principal of the Mining and Mechanical Institute, of Freeland, and was a member of several scientific associations. His death is sincerely regretted by his business and social friends and by the employes of the corporations which he managed.

Sudden Death on Saturday.

Mrs. Annie Kostermeick, aged 78 years, was instantly killed on Saturday afternoon by falling from a second-story window at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. Zemany. It is not known positively whether the old lady fell or threw herself out of the window, but it is presumed the latter was the case. For some time past her mind had been somewhat unbalanced. The deceased is survived by two daughters, Mrs. M. Zemany and Mrs. M. Wargo, of town. The funeral took place this morning. A requiem mass was read at St. John's Slavonian church, after which the remains were interred in St. Ann's cemetery.

Electric Light in His Stomach.

Delno Fritz, of Ashley, who is traveling with Barnum & Bailey's show for several seasons as a swallower of divers articles, is astonishing all England with his wonderful feats. He is now doing a new act that calls forth columns upon columns of newspaper notices in the British press. He has had a small electric lamp so constructed that he can swallow it without the wire touching his throat and the light may be plainly seen in his stomach, thus forever silencing all who claim that swallowers of swords and similar articles are frauds.
