WITH THE LAW-MAKERS.

NOTES AND COMMENTS FROM THE PENNSYLVANIA CAPITAL.

What the Result May Be if the Legislature Fails to Elect a Senator—First Bill Passed—Want Blue Laws Changed. Hard on Oleo Sellers.

Harrisburg, Pa., February 24, 1899.

In the event that the legislature should adjourn without electing a senator, what steps would be taken to fill the vacancy, is giving rise to considerable speculation at present. It looks, at this period, as if no election could be made, for each one of the three contending forces are just as determined today as they were when the first ballot was taken, and this determination will hardly be changed by any subsequent event that may transpire. Some seem to think that if such a thing should happen Governor Stone would be able to fill the vacancy by appointing Senator Quay as his successor.

This is rather doubtful, however, as the United States senate has on three separate occasions refused to admit claimants to seats thus appointed, the last being in the case of Judge Corbett, of Oregon, a year ago. The power of appointment only applies when a vacancy happens by resignation or otherwise during the recess of the legislature. Such appointment only holds good until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancy. The law does not specifically say what action shall be taken in the event the legislature fails to elect, and it looks very much as Pennsylvania would be with but one senator for the next two years.

THE FIRST BILL.

The first bill to be passed by this session, nearly seven weeks after its opening, was the constable's fee bill. This measure pertains to the regulating of fees of constables while in attendance at elections and courts. The bill has been signed by the governor and takes effect at once.

The Magee juror's bill, which is similar to the McCarroll bill, has gotten through the senate and has been reported from the judiciary general committee in the house. While, however, in the committee, it was amended making it contain the main features of the New York juror act. The bill will take its regular course through the house and should be hurried by its friends it may meet the fate of the McCarroll bill.

TO CHANGE BLUE LAWS.

A bill that will meet with strong opposition by the church people of the state, wants to amend the Sunday law of 1795, to extend the time for selling milk on Sunday from 9 to 11 o'clock; to permit the sale of ice but not delivery wagon or other vehicle; the printing and sale of newspapers, but not by public outcry; shaving until 11 a. m., and the carrying on of bath house business and the running of street cars, all of which are done every Sunday without permission of the law.

A bill has been offered by Representative Allen, of Philadelphia, to repeal the act which authorizes the principals and teachers of schools to exclude pupils who have not been vaccinated or have not had smallpox. Mr. Allen is president of a school board in Philadelphia and believes the present bill is unnecessary. This is the law which occasioned a number of law suits and much unpleasantness in several parts of the state during the past few years wherever there was a smallpox scare.

AN APPORTIONMENT BILL.

A new apportionment bill has made its appearance in the house. It provides that until the next decennial United States census the house shall consist of 202 members, two less than now. Philadelphia's representation remains the same, Alleghany gets four new members; Blair, Cambria, Clearfield, Jefferson, Luzerne and Lackawanna each get one additional member, while Adams, Bedford, Bradford, Chester, Clarion, Columbia, Crawford, Huntingdon, Lawrence, Mercer, Northumberland, Somerset and Wayne each lose one.

A bill which is intended to kill the oleomargarine and imitation butter business in original packages has been presented. It provides that no person, corporation or firm shall expose for sale any imitation of butter, except it be in a form that will not deceive the public, and the person, corporation or firm having oleomargarine or butterine for sale must pay an annual license fee of $1,000 if a manufacturer, $500 if a wholesaler, and $100 if a retailer. The bill also provides that each package of imitative butter must be labelled in large letters. Restaurants which use oleomargarine or butterine must pay a license of $50 a year and boarding houses $25. All licenses are accompanied by signs, issued by the dairy and food commissioners, setting forth that oleomargarine or butterine is sold or used on the premises, and these signs must be displayed in a conspicuous place. Any person, firm or corporation violating any provisions of the act shall be subject to a fine of from $100 to $500.

The banking department of the state is in need of some special legislation and several bills to that end have been offered in the senate. One bill calls for a deputy banking commissioner; another limits the amount of loans to officers and directors of banks, trust companies and savings institutions to 10 per cent of the capital stock actually paid in and surplus, and in making loans to firms or houses in which they may be interested, directly or indirectly, to 25 per cent of the capital stock paid in and surplus.

NEW BANKING BILLS.

The third bill wants directors of banks, trust companies and other financial institutions, in declaring a quarterly or semi-annual dividend, shall pay the dividend not later than fifteen days after it is declared, and if the directors or trustees shall make dividends impairing their capital they shall be jointly and severally held liable. The fourth provides for the submission to the commissioner of banking for his approval the charters of financial institutions and requiring building and loan associations chartered by the state to register in the banking department therein when such associations close their business.

Representative Fow, of Philadelphia, on invitation of his colleagues delivered an address on "George Washington" in the hall of the house on Wednesday afternoon.

ELECTION ECHOES.

The famous Cork Lane district of Pittston township had its annual traces on Tuesday evening. The closing of the poll was the signal for a general disturbance and in the melee that followed the ballot box was battered and damaged, and emerged from the row with its contents unharmed. One faction of the board captured the box, but was unable to find a place where the votes could be counted, and in desperation parted it off to the court house, twelve miles distant. The other faction followed up the sacred tin-can, but could not wrest it from its protectors, and it was finally landed in Prothonotary Dasch's office. Fearing an attempt might be made to steal it, Clerk Mulligan and a friend were given Winchester rifles and guarded it Wednesday night. Next morning it was carried into court, and Judge Woodward placed the box and election board under a strong guard and had the vote counted without further trouble.

There was a hot election over in old Buck Mountain (Lausanne township) last week. The Democratic school directors received 20, 18 and 17 votes against 16, 16 and 14 cast for the Republicans, electing John McTague, M. McMonigal and Charles Bashline. J. Valitzky and S. Gladkosky won for supervisors, receiving 18 and 17 votes respectively against their Democratic opponents' 16 and 15. A Democratic auditor was elected by a majority of 1, and Schwartz and Lieb tied for poor director at 17.

Jacob Kull, judge of election, and John Murry, one of the inspectors in Norwegian township, Schuylkill county, are under $500 bail each for refusing to accept the vote of Michael Connors. When Connors sought to cast his ballot he was challenged. Connors conducts a business in Pottsville, but claims residence in the township. The board refused to accept his ballot.

The vote of the poor district will be officially counted tomorrow. The figures at present show the following results: Leib, 5,029; Schwartz, 4,627; Leib's majority, 399. In Carbondale Lieb had a majority of 507, while Schwartz carried Luzerne by 108. Rosenstock has 1,283 more votes than McGill for poor auditor.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

$3,615 SUBSCRIBED.

A Partial Canvass of the Town Shows Good Prospects for Iron Works.

The members of the committee on subscription of the Board of Trade met on Friday evening at the council room for the purpose of comparing lists and ascertaining what progress is being made in the subscriptions for the proposed iron works of Messrs. Salmon and Cross.

All reported having been well received. None have yet exhausted the territory assigned them. The subscriptions so far received were secured by comparatively easy work on the part of the solicitors.

The amounts so far reported are as follows: W. E. Oberender and Patrick Meehan, $325.

John Shigo and J. P. McDonald, $900. George Christian and H. C. Koons, $200.

George Vanauker and Hugh Malloy, $120. A. Oswald and George Brown, Esq., $480.

A. Rudewick and Dr. N. Maley, $1,580. Total, $3,615.

The committee feels confident that the $10,000 can be raised with ease and the solicitors were instructed to push the work along and meet again on March 3, by which time it is expected the full amount will be secured.

PERSONALITIES.

Jacob Knecht, of the First regular artillery, is home on a furlough from New Orleans, where his battery is stationed at present. Jake was one of the first in this region to offer his services when the late war began. "Life in the artillery service does not agree with him and he is anxious to try the infantry."

Guy Sensenbach, a popular young man of town, will be married next month to Miss Carrie Smith, of Bethlehem.

John Mathers has resumed his position in Drifton store after an illness of six weeks.

Mrs. Gilbert Smith is lying seriously ill at her home on North Washington street.

Mrs. H. C. Koons and daughter visited friends in the Wyoming valley last week. James B. Ferry attended to business in Scranton on Friday and Saturday.

Matt McGettrick, of Priceburg, is visiting his sister, Mrs. C. O. Boyle.

Miss Josephine Rudewick is slowly recovering from a severe illness.

Arrested for Stealing Mules.

Four youths of Yorktown became imbued on Saturday evening with the idea that they should attend the fair in Freeland, and not wishing to pay the excessive fares charged on the trolley road they proceeded to the mule stable of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company.

There each boy mounted a mule, and an hour later they galloped up Ridge street with as much noise as a troop of Cuban cavalry.

Shortly after their departure from Yorktown the mules were missed and a search was immediately begun by the coal company officials. The services of the coal and iron police of the region were called for, and all had to turn out to pursue the youths.

A telephone message from Drifton notified the searchers that the mules had passed through that town, headed for Freeland, and Stable Boss Crane arrived here about 12 o'clock. By that time the young man had started homeward, Crane missing them on the road somewhere.

At Harleigh, however, the riders ran into a bunch of officers, and one of the boys, John Conway, was captured. The other three, John Harman, James McShea and Francis Dougherty, were rounded up in Hazleton, and all four were placed under arrest.

They will be given a hearing at Audenried today. The boys drive the mules in the mines and claim they thought it was no harm to take a ride on them after working hours.

A Jeddo Wedding.

At Jeddo on Saturday evening Reuben, a son of Solomon Bittner, and Miss Bertha, a daughter of John Tyson, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Snyder pastor of Jeddo Methodist church, and was witnessed by the relatives of the contracting parties.

Yesterday morning the young couple left for Hazleton, where they boarded a train for New York and will spend a week sight-seeing in the large cities. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Bittner will begin housekeeping at Jeddo.

Both the groom and bride have been residents of Jeddo since their childhood and they have the best wishes of a host of friends.

Gored to Death by a Bull.

From the White Haven Journal. William Sommer, a farmer 62 years old, living in Denison township near White Haven, was gored by a bull last Tuesday and sustained injuries that resulted in his death Thursday afternoon.

The bull was tied in the yard and Mr. Sommers, who was electioneering, had on his good clothes when he went to let the bull loose. The bull thinking he was a stranger made a plunge, striking him in the abdomen.

Mr. Sommer was unable to rise without assistance. He was taken to the house and physicians called who did everything to relieve him. Inflammation set in however and he died after suffering for two days.

Anthrax Coal Trade.

The anthracite coal trade shows a firmer tone, the result of an increased demand and a restricted output, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. The situation indicates, however, that stocks in the East in consumers' hands, as well as in dealers' yards, are greatly reduced, and this points to a good movement later in the year, when the season begins. The control of the trade seems to rest entirely in the hands of the managers of the producing interest, and if they keep the tonnage down, as now seems likely, the trade in the summer ought to be good.

Large Funeral Yesterday.

The funeral of the late John McCabill took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of his father-in-law, James Gallagher, Drifton. Notwithstanding the inclement weather overhead, and the dangerous walking, the funeral was one of the largest that has left Drifton for some time. St. Ann's Parish band proceeded the cortege, rendering a funeral dirge, which added to the solemnity of the occasion. Many floral offerings from friends, relatives and fellow-workers were carried.

Former Resident Killed.

Thomas Simmons, who some years ago was a resident of Highland, was killed on Thursday in the mines at Buck Mountain, Schuylkill county, by a fall of coal. The deceased was also a resident of Audenried for several years, and had a large acquaintance throughout the Lehigh region.

The remains arrived here on Saturday afternoon and were interred in Freeland cemetery. He was 52 years of age.
