

"Evil Dispositions Are Early Shown."

Just so evil in the blood comes out in shape of scrofula, pimples, etc., in children and young people. Taken in time it can be eradicated by using Hood's Sarsaparilla. In older people, the aftermath of irregular living shows itself in bilious conditions, a heavy head, a foul mouth, a general bad feeling.

It is the blood, the impure blood, friends, which is the real cause. Purify that with Hood's Sarsaparilla and happiness will reign in your family.

Blood Poison—"I lived in a bed of fire for years owing to blood poisoning that followed small pox. It broke out all over my body, itching intensely. Tried doctors and hospitals in vain. I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla. It helped. I kept at it and was entirely cured. I could go on the housetops and about about it." Mrs. J. T. WILLIAMS, Carbondale, Pa.

Scrofula Sores—"My baby at two months had scrofula sores on cheek and arm. Local applications and physicians' medicine did little or no good. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him permanently. He is now four, with smooth fair skin." Mrs. R. S. WRIGHT, Farming, N. Y.

Pretty Underwear.
The variety of pretty silk and woolen underwear to be had at such reasonable prices, is very tempting to dainty women, yet many refrain from purchasing such on account of their liability to injure in laundering. If the work is perfectly done this trouble may be avoided. When ready to begin fill a tub half full of warm water. In which dissolve a fourth of a bar of Ivory Soap, and wash the articles through it with the hands, rinse in warm water, and squeeze, but do not wring. Hang on the line and press while still damp.
Eliza R. Parker.

Senator Baker, of Kansas, is a continual smoker, and is rarely seen without a cigar or pipe.

Beauty Is Blood Deep.
Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic clean your blood and keep it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the system. They help to banish pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets—beauty for ten cents. All druggists, satisfaction guaranteed, 10c, 25c, 50c.

Why She Refused the Room.
A German lady, arriving for the first time in England, drove to a first-class London hotel, asked for a room, and was shown into a very small, scantily furnished one. She said, in a determined manner, and in very broken English: "I will not have this room." "No, ma'am," said the porter, and brought in the first box. "Ma'am," repeated the lady, emphatically, "I will not have this room!" "No, ma'am," said the porter, and brought in the second box. The lady thought her faulty grammatical construction was the reason for the porter's continued obstinacy, and repeated, with a stern distinctness: "Man, I will this room not have." "No, ma'am," said the porter and brought in the third box, whereupon the lady left the room indignantly, but the porter drew her hurriedly back across the threshold, pulled a rope, and to her intense astonishment, the lift went up.—Tit-Bits.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 27,602]
"Two years ago I was a great sufferer from womb trouble and profuse flowing each month, and tumors would form in the womb. I had four tumors in two years. I went through treatment with doctors, but they did me no good, and I thought I would have to resort to morphine.

"The doctor said that all that could help me was to have an operation and have the womb removed, but I had heard of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine and decided to try it, and wrote for her advice, and after taking her Vegetable Compound the tumors were expelled and I began to get stronger right along, and am as well as ever before. Can truly say that I would never have gotten well had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound."—MARY A. STAHL, WATSON TOWN, PA.

What Mrs. Pinkham's Letter Did.
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—After following the directions given in your kind letter for the treatment of leucorrhoea, I can say that I have been entirely cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies, and will gladly recommend them to my friends.

"Thanking you for your kindness, I am gratefully yours, A. B. DAVIDS, BIRMINGHAM, N. Y."

Mistress Children.
The late Lady Taylor, wife of Sir Henry, gave a child's party, at which the effigy of a man, possibly a Guy Fawkes, was burned. The children went home in great excitement: "Lady Taylor has been so kind. She burned a real man for us!"

Indignant Freaks.
At a meeting of the human curiosities connected with the Barnum & Bailey show, now on exhibition at the Olympia, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted: "Whereas, the press and public of both hemispheres, without just cause, have for many years past gratuitously and voluntarily bestowed the term 'freak' upon all human beings differing in any way from ordinary mortals; and whereas, the term 'freak' is opprobrious, and without any specific meaning in an anatomical sense; and whereas, we feel that the term so unjustly conferred upon us, without our consent, is an indignity; and whereas, because, fortunately or otherwise, we are possessed of more or less limbs, more or less hair, more or less bodies, more or less physical or mental attributes than other people, and which might be taken as additional charms of person or aids to movement, as the case may be; and whereas, because we, differing so from the ordinary or regulation human being in that we have certain marked and distinctive characteristics of mind or body, we hold that to be no reason whatever for being called 'freaks'; therefore, be it resolved, that we, a majority of the living human curiosities in the Barnum & Bailey show, emphatically protest against the application of that word to us, and severely condemn its general assignment to those who, for their benefit or otherwise, were created differently from the human family as the latter exist to-day; and resolved, that, in the opinion of many, some of us are really the development of a higher type, and are superior persons, inasmuch as some of us are gifted with extraordinary attributes, not apparent in ordinary beings."—London Times.

The Kingfisher and the Gold Fish.
A West of England paper states a problem which is at present perplexing the authorities of Morrah Gardens at Penzance:
A bright-hued kingfisher comes and goes with much regularity. His iridescent plumage daily flashes in the sunshine about 1.30 p. m., when he perches in the trees near either of the two ponds. Awaiting quietude and chance he dashes into the water, secures a gold or silver fish, flies up to the elms, and makes a dinner. That digested he finds another opportunity, and has a fish tea. Now, kingfishers are not plentiful, except in Oxfordshire. They are certainly rare about Penzance, and, under ordinary circumstances, the life of the Morrah Gardens' visitant would be spared. But this diet is costly, and the fish in the pond, often fed by the crumbs of admirers, are of more general interest than the bird. Which is it to be—shot bird or fishless pools?

A Cosmopolitan School.
In the Federal Polytechnical School in Zurich there are this year 1234 students, of whom 918 are matriculated in a regular course and 316 are "listeners," so called. Of the "regulars" there are 546 Swiss, 87 Austrians, 66 Germans, 36 Russians, 32 Italians, 23 Rumanians, 20 Americans, 20 Englishmen, 19 Hollanders, 19 Scandinavians, 9 Frenchmen, 8 Luxemburgers, 7 Danes, 5 Greeks, 5 East Indians, 5 Servians, 4 Turks, 3 Bulgarians, 2 Belgians, 1 Portuguese and 1 Spaniard.—Zurich letter in the Chicago Record.

Football and the Seed Market.
An agricultural seed market report is surely the last place in which one would expect to find a discussion on the influence of football. In the last report of the London Agricultural Seed Market, however, the connection is clearly pointed out. There has been a steady decrease in the sale of canary and other seeds, and this has been traced to the fact that huge numbers of people, especially in the North of England, who used formerly to keep cage birds, or devote their leisure to small gardens, now give all their spare time and interest to football.—Westminster Gazette.

SCIENTIFIC AND INDUSTRIAL.

The heaviest metal is osmium, which has, bulk for bulk, very nearly twice the weight of lead. The specific gravity of gold is about 19.4, while that of osmium is almost 22. Osmium is also the most infusible of metals, remaining unaffected by a degree of heat capable of causing platinum to run like water. It even resists the inconceivable temperature of the electric arc.

The idea of making starch from sweet potatoes is being discussed in the South. Professor F. S. Shiver, of Clemson College, South Carolina, assumes that 300 bushels of sweet potatoes can be raised to the acre ordinarily, and sometimes 500. Taking the former figure as his basis, he estimates that the amount of starch per acre is 684 pounds made from wheat, 1283 from corn and 2640 from sweet potatoes.

The St. Petersburg Academy of Science was interested recently by a note from Professor Karpinsky, describing some peculiar hail which fell in Russian Poland. The grains were pear-shaped and contained black granules. Chemical analysis showed that they consisted of iron, nickel and cobalt, and this satisfied Professor Karpinsky that they were of cosmic origin. The iron was magnetic. The grains, probably the debris of meteors that had been burned in the upper air, would have escaped detection had they not been enclosed in the transparent hail pellets, where the contrast of color quickly called attention to them.

Fine dust of coal or of flour mixed with air forms an explosive agent which has been the cause of many a mine and flour-mill disaster. Advantage is taken of this property of combustible dust in a new process of boiler-firing. The fuel reduced to dust is fed by machinery into the furnace in which a fire must constantly be maintained. The instant the dust falls into the furnace chamber it burns with a flash, almost explosively, and the production of smoke is absolutely prevented and the firing becomes economical as regards consumption of fuel. It would seem that it might lead to the utilization of the enormous mountains of coal slack which cover so many square miles of land in the mining districts.

Max Bonchein, Consul at Barmen, Germany, reports a new method for the manufacture of artificial silk invented by Dr. Fremery and Civil Engineer Urpan, in which the use of the injurious nitro-cellulose is omitted. These inventors dissolve cotton waste in copper oxide of ammonia, and pump this solution through fine tubes. The delicate threads are passed through diluted acid, which separates the copper and ammonia, the result being an extremely fine, lustrous fibre, which is employed as an imitation silk. This process, patented in Germany and in all other civilized States, is said to have the following advantages over those of Chardonnet and Lehner: (1) That the manufacture as well as the product is in no way dangerous; (2) that the production is much simpler; (3) as a consequence, that imitation silk can be manufactured by this process at considerably less cost.

A very curious industry, at least to the uninitiated, is that pertaining to whalebone, from its original or crude form to that of its many applications, useful and artistic. Most of this article is landed at San Francisco and shipped eastward to be distributed at the various centres. Before leaving the Pacific coast the bone is split, sorted according to color, and tied up in bundles; after splitting, the pieces are termed "stalks" or "slabs," are from three to twelve feet in length when ready for shipment, and weigh from five to twenty-five pounds each. When received by the manufacturer each slab is fringed with strong, glossy black hair; this has a separate value of its own, and is used for certain furniture manufactures, and is also mixed with horsehair in brushes. On the hair being removed the slabs are scrubbed vigorously and then put to soak in water for about a week; when sufficiently softened they are subjected to the action of steam in strong receptacles of special design, being thus ready to be split into "shell" or "grain" bone, and finally cut into stays, whipstocks, etc.

Weights of Vermont Deer.
I noticed some time ago in your paper comments on the weight of deer, and it occurred to me that you might like some items on this subject from Vermont. I have an impression that our deer in many instances have exceeded the average in weight. In obtaining statistics, most of the reports give the estimated weight of the animals, but in many cases the actual weight was given. A great many of the deer weighed over 200 pounds. In some instances I have written personal letters to the men who captured the deer and ascertained the truth of the original reports, and have received in reply four letters giving the actual weight of the deer killed as 231 pounds, 261 pounds, 316 pounds and 370 pounds.—J. W. Titcomb, in Forest and Stream.

His Gingham Apron.
Perhaps the most unusual presents ever Christmas upon a Brooklyn man who cooks. They were two big blue-and-white checked gingham aprons, long and large, and with ample strings to encircle the masculine waist. The man makes at times a descent to the kitchen when the maids are away and demonstrates how a good steak should be broiled or some other of the numerous things of the preparation of which for the table he considers that he has an expert knowledge. Upon such occasions it has been his custom to borrow the first maid's apron convenient. This good, housewifely tendency to use an apron being known, there came to the man from out of town the two big aprons, which were probably the best appreciated of all his Christmas gifts and were exhibited with the greatest pride.—New York Times.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

Peanut Candy.
Homemade peanut candy might well be labelled "Sure to please." Shell one quart of peanuts; skin and roll fine. This should make just a coffee-cupful. Put a heaping coffee-cupful of granulated sugar in an iron or granite pan; set on a hot fire, and stir constantly until it melts, remembering that it must melt quickly to be a success. Meantime, put the peanuts in the oven to heat, and have the pans buttered and placed on the back of the range, where they will be hot. As soon as the sugar is melted pour the hot peanuts in it, take directly from the fire, and the candy, when cold, can be broken into pieces, and should be thin, crisp and shiny.

A Harmless Shoe Varnish.
Nearly all, if not all, varnishes used on shoes harden the leather. To remedy this, rub the leather with sweet oil, or any good, suitable oil. An excellent homemade shoe polish which will give a good jet-black gloss is made as follows: Mix three ounces of ivory black, two ounces of molasses, one ounce of sulphuric acid and one ounce of gum arabic; dissolve in a little water, just enough to make it a liquid. Add a tablespoonful of sweet oil and a pint of vinegar. This makes a liquid polish. Half a pint of vinegar makes a paste. Put the blacking or liquid in a wide-mouthed bottle, and apply it with a piece of sponge stuck on the end of a heavy wire attached to the cork. Oil shoes well in slushy and rainy times to prevent the dampness penetrating the leather. Calfskin, made with the outside of the leather on the outside of the shoes, if kept well oiled, is nearly as damp-proof as india-rubber. Such shoes, however, should not be worn over carpets, as they wear them out, and leave behind the tracks of mud.

Lamps and Candles.
No more brilliant illuminations and hard white or red lights, drawing one's eyes to their blinding brightness, and leaving a ghastly paleness mixed in with the shadows in out-of-the-way corners. Instead there must be a steady soft-shaded light, which is secured by numerous lamps or candles, or both, so arranged and adjusted that each will be adapted to meet its own particular requirements, and to do its own part in producing the effect which all together are designed to give.
The work of lighting a home with taste and discrimination has become an art in which one's own judgment must do the greater part. The chief effect to be desired is a warm restful glow, and the thing most to be avoided is any central or conspicuous points of light which will attract the eye to the light. Lamps are almost exclusively used, with the assistance of the little waxen tapers, which in pretty candleabra are always acceptable ornaments, either lighted or unlighted. The desired effect is produced by the proper distribution and shading, which can only be decided by experiment, always remembering that no single light is to be taxed to the utmost of its power, and that the suggestion of largeness and hospitality is given by keeping the remote corners, particularly in a room which is longer than its width, a trifle brighter than the centre. At times a peculiarly attractive result is secured by making a secluded nook or cozy corner a veritable bower of brilliancy, though for the most part it is preferred to keep these little recesses mysteriously shadowy by means of heavy draperies and a single small hanging lamp or lantern, giving a dim religious light.—Harper's Bazar.

Emerson on Newspapers.
Many years ago Emerson, in a letter to a college boy, said: "Newspapers have done much to abbreviate expression and so to improve style. They are to occupy during your generation a large share of the attention, and the most studious and engaged man can neglect them only at his cost. But have little to do with them. Learn how to get their best, too, without their getting yours. Do not read when the mind is creative, and do not read them thoroughly, column by column. Remember, they are made for everybody, and don't try to get what isn't meant for you. The miscellany, for instance, should not receive your attention. There is a great secret in knowing what to keep out of the mind as well as what to put in. You can't quote from a newspaper. Like some insects, it died the day it was born."

The story sent out from Chicago that General Passenger Agent Austin, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad had reported rate cutting, on the part of rival lines, to the Receivers, is strenuously denied at B. & O. headquarters. Mr. Austin, in a letter, absolutely denies that any such cases have come under his notice and denounced the report as a "fake," pure and simple.
The recent degree of the Court providing for the foreclosure and sale of the Main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is directly in line with the Reorganization proceedings.
