The Havana newspaper La Lucha is now printed partly in English, and it is having a struggle to set it up. There appears to be no "w" in Its cases, and the expedient is adopted of puting two "v's" in its place. The effect of this is rather pleturesque, as, for instance, when we find the name of the Father of his Country spelled Vashington. La Lucha advises the American soldiers not to pay the paper, that being the regular price. USED BAMBOO ARTILLERY. taarkable Field Guns Improvised by the Filipinos.

Resarkable Field Guns Improvised by the Fillpinos. In some parts of the island of Luzon the natives surprised the Spaniards by bringing artillery to bear upon them, so that in several instances de-tachments of well-atmed Spanish troops were absolutely panic-stricken, not knowing what they kad to face, writes Joseph L. Stickney, in the Chicago Record. The field guns im-provised by these ignorant Filipinos were among the most interesting curiosities of the island. They were made of bamboo, wound with wire, when it was to be had, otherwise with bamboo fber. I saw one of these guns and tried hard to buy it, but could not induce the natives to parts with it even for a sum that seemed to them enormous. It was nearly as difficult to buy one of their machetes, nutil they saw that they were going to have a plentiful supply of breech-load-ing rifles, and then I got one or two excellent specimes.

have a plentiful supply of breech-load-ing rifles, and then I got one or two excellent specimens. The cane artillery was generally of a caliber to take one of the Spanish eight-contineter projectiles, as many of these shells could be picked up un-exploded after the Spaniards had been engaged in firing at one of the native camps. It was a common trick of the insurgents, I was told, to pretend to be at work on intrenchments within sight of the coast, so that one of the Spanish gunboats would come along and throw shells at them. Every shell that did not explode was "marked down," as one would watch the lighting of a prairie chicken after it had taken flight. Then these shells would have the powder that was in them for use in their bamboo guns. The shell itself would be available, only it would not contain any bursting charge. I also saw a stand of grape intended for use in this same kind of gun. I know that one of these guns was tombstone, so he made an iron handle for the old hammer and fastened it with a metal peg to the top of the anvil. He also attached three links to the handle of the hammer, which is supposed to indicate that he is an Odd Fellow. He then sent the anvil and its attachment to the Whiting firm to galvanize, in order that it might not be rusted away by exposure to the weather over his grave. It was a diffi-cult task, and it had to be dipped in a mass of sevently tons of molten zinc before it was successfully accomplish-ed. He wrote to the firm not to spare any expense to make a good job of it, but they will make no charge for their work. Angelo is still working every fay for two shipyards at Pocomoke City and is as hale as the youngest of the men about the yards. change. I have saw a scalar of grape intended for use in this same kind of gun. I know that one of these guns was effective on at least one occasion, when a yoong Spanish officer was brought in with his arm shotoff at the wrist. As I knew that a rifle bullet could not have caused such an injury, and as I did not believe the rebels where I then was had any aritiletry, I sought an explanation and was shown the bamboo gun. It had been placed in ambush and the Spaniards had marched right up to its muzzle almost before it had been discharged. The breech of the bamboo gun was filled with a chunk of iron, which was kept in place by much tighter winding or wrapping back of it than in front. Sometimes, I was told, the ping in the breech varied the monotony of the rebel camp by blowing out, doing there and the source the men behind the the breech varied the monotony of the rebel camp by blowing out, doing more damage to the men behind the piece than to the enemy in front of it. The vent of the bamboo gnu was on the side, with a little bamboo lip pro-jecting from it to hold the priming powder. When it was to be fired it was only necessary to touch it off with a cigarette.

There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of illness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact that it is the only remedy which promises internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is, therefore, all-important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.
