Courthouse Injunction.

Proceedings were commenced on Tuesday by J. H. Mahon and others against the county and county commissioners to restrain them from erecting the new courthouse on the site of the present one. The reasons given are that the new courthouse building is public property; that there is no building available that could be used as a courthouse while the new one is being built, that it would be dangerous to remove all the valuable records to temporary quarters, and that a site on the river common, between Union and North streets, is the proper place for a new building.

The Sandy Run Bridge.

From the Hazleton Plain Speaker. County Commissioners Hay, Jones and Guiney, bridge viewers John Kester, of Koonsville; E. H. Kulp, of Wilkesbarre, and E. Tattersall, of White Haven, accompanied by Contractor Michael Murray, of Wilkesbarre, were at Sandy Run to inspect and view a county bridge erected by the latter in 1898, and which had been condemned by E. A. Oberreider, the inspector of Foster township.

They reported that at least two feet should be taken off each side of the arch and the loose filling down to the foundation be replaced under direction of the township inspector; and the paving under the bridge be relaid to comply with the specifications.

Contractor Murray promised to do this and expects to have the bridge completed within two or three weeks. The contract price is $425.

Hazleton Loses the Shops.

Lehigh Valley Railroad officials gave a committee from Hazleton councils positive notice yesterday that the company's shops in that city will be closed. Superintendent Wilbur announces that ship work will be concentrated hereafter, and besides those at Hazleton the shops at Dolano, Perth Amboy and Ithaca will be shut down. Hazleton shops at present employ 150 men.

Reading Mules Have to Go.

The days of the mule, as regards its work in the coal mines, are said to be numbered. The success of compressed air motors attained by the Cross Creek Coal Company at Drifton and G. B. Markle & Co. at Jeddo has stirred up the big Reading Company. This corporation is about to inaugurate a change, and within a short time the mines in the Shenandoah district will no longer bear the neigh of the strong and stubborn mule, nor will the cars show the effects of having come in contact with the rear legs of this animal, as there will be put in use cars operated by compressed air. This change is expected to work considerable saving to the coal company, as there are many hundreds of mules employed in these mines.

The Reading Company has for a long time been experimenting with the various kinds of motive power for the hauling of its mine cars, and while electricity has played a prominent part in these trials it has been deemed advisable at this time to use compressed air. By this system of motive power it has been proven that a larger car can be operated, more speed can be acquired and there will be no delays, which have frequently been the case when a string of mules become balky.

Besides this change the Reading Company will also reduce the number of breakers in the Shenandoah region from six to three. It has been the policy of the company to increase the size of its breakers whenever a new one was required. The breakers now contemplated will be unusually large and will be capable of handling all the coal that the company's mines in that region produce.

Recruits for the Army.

Lieutenant Moses arrived in Hazleton Monday evening and mustered in those who successfully passed the surgeon's examination. They numbered twelve, and they left on Tuesday morning for their various destinations. Rudolph Aartsels, of West Hazleton, and Frank Leslie, of Sandy Run, go to Governor's Island, New York, whence they will be sent to Porto Rico. The former has selected the cavalry branch of the service, while the latter will enter the infantry. The balance went to Camp Meade, near Harrisburg, where they join the Nineteenth infantry, which is encamped there on its way from Porto Rico to the Philippines. They are Thomas P. Brennan, McAdoo; George J. Bream, Jeannette; John J. Warklot, Freeland; Charles C. Eigenbrodt, Dorrance; John Brecker, Mt. Carmel; James F. Anthony, West Hazleton; John H. Blymyer, Thomas Cahill and Peter F. Gallagher, Hazleton.

On Tuesday Daniel Quigley, of Jeddo, who was lately mustered out of the Sixth artillery at Fortress Monroe, was mustered in.

Pushed from a Train.

M. S. Underhill, of Perth Amboy, N. J., is at the Pittston hospital being treated for bruises and cuts, which he received by falling from the Buffalo Bill train as it was running along near that city. He quarreled with some of his comrades and was pushed off.—W.-B. Record.

Underhill was in Freeland on Friday. He arrived on a coal train from Perth Amboy, and after drinking about town for a few hours left in a hurry for Wilkesbarre. Those who made his acquaintance while he was here were not surprised to learn that Buffalo Bill's men pushed him off the train.

Matrimonial Matters.

G. I. Bicking, of Butler township, and Miss Annie Bechtolt, of Sandy Run, were granted a marriage license at Wilkesbarre on Tuesday.

June 7 has been announced as the date set for the marriage of Miss Susie Sweeney, of Freeland, to Martin Mulhearn, of Hazleton.

Benj. Lander, manager of Hazleton opera house, and Miss Mary Gallagher, of that city, were married yesterday at Easton.

George Hoodmacher, of Freeland, and Miss Ellen Hawk, of Sandy Run, will marry on June 2.

A Fine Piece of Work.

J. H. Feeley, agent for the Cartograph Publishing Company's map of Luzerne county, is in town today taking orders for this very fine work. The map is certainly as complete as it is possible to make it, and Mr. Feeley is meeting with great success in soliciting orders. The agent's resemblance to Rev. P. P. McNally, at one time curate at St. Ann's church, is still causing the people of this section to make many mistakes. Mr. Feeley will be in the region all this week to book orders for his maps.

CHURCH CASE IN COURT.

INJUNCTION PROCEEDINGS AGAINST BISHOP TALBOT ARGUED.

Rev. Irvine, of Huntingdon, asks to Restrain the Bishop from Removing Him—Divorce Laws of the Church Caused the Trouble.

The injunction served upon Bishop Talbot and the standing committee of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of central Pennsylvania at the instance of Rev. I. N. W. Irvine, of St. John's church, Huntingdon, to restrain them from removing him from his church, was argued before Judge Woodward at Wilkesbarre on Tuesday.

Attorneys J. B. Woodward, of Wilkesbarre, and H. W. Petriken, of Huntingdon, for Rev. Irvine, asked to have the injunction continued. Attorney H. A. Fuller, for the bishop, argued to have the injunction dissolved, as the matter had been heard by Bishop Talbot and the standing committee in secret session at Wilkesbarre on the evening of May 16, at least twelve hours prior to the granting of the injunction, and they decided to drop the matter and abandon the proceedings against Rev. Irvine under canon IV. of the church law.

Mr. Fuller further claimed that no perpetual injunction should be granted, as his clients do not intend to do what they are charged by the plaintiff with proposing to do.

Judge Woodward took the papers in the case and reserved his decision.

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

It is claimed now that the real cause of the proposed dismissal of Rev. Irvine grew out of the fact that Mr. Irvine refused to serve holy communion to members of the church that had been divorced. These divorced people made a fight over it and threatened to have Mr. Irvine ousted.

It is then alleged that Rev. Irvine produced a letter signed by members of the vestry of his church, asking that he be retained as pastor. This letter, it was claimed, is a forgery, and Mr. Irvine was prosecuted for it, but the charges were not sustained by the courts.

Mr. Irvine claims that he is innocent of the charge and naturally wants to maintain his position in the church and asks the bishop and the standing committee not to become prejudiced against him for his actions, as he carried out the rules of the church as his conscience dictated to him as proper and right, and that was that no divorced people were entitled to take communion in the Episcopal Church, in accordance with the rules and laws governing the church.
