Wanted Citizenship.

County Judge Hurd of Kings county, New York, who is just now devoting part of his time to the work of converting aliens into citizens of the United States, had a trying time of it yesterday in the Brooklyn court house with a number of applicants for citizenship. Biejo Scavall, a Coney Island Italian, presented a fair sample of the degree of intelligence Judge Hurd had to contend with. "What is the name of this country?" asked he. "Ma-keen-lee," replied Biejo, promptly. "Who makes the laws?" "Ma-keen-lee" returned Biejo, confidently. "What state do you live in?" "Ma-keen-lee." "You seem to be impressed with the belief that McKinley is the whole thing over here," remarked the court. "Biejo, I guess you won't do."

THE ills of women overshadow their whole lives. Some women are constantly getting medical treatment and are never well. "A woman best understands women's ills," and the women who consult Mrs. Pinkham find in her counsel practical assistance. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

MRS. MABEL GOOD, Correctionville, Ia., tells how Mrs. Pinkham saved her life. She says:

"I cannot thank you enough for what your medicine has done for me. I can recommend it as one of the best medicines on earth for all women's ills. I suffered for two years with female weakness and at last became bedfast. Three of our best doctors did me no good so I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking a few bottles of your medicine, I was able to do all my household work. I know that your medicine raised me from a bed of sickness and perhaps death, and am very thankful for what it has done for me. I hope that every suffering woman may be persuaded to try your medicine." Get Mrs. Pinkham's advice as soon as you begin to be puzzled. The sick headaches and dragging sensation come from a curable cause. Write for help as soon as they appear.

MRS. DOLE STANLEY, Campbellburg, Ind., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I was troubled with sick headache and was so weak and nervous, I could hardly go. A friend called upon me one evening and recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, saying that she knew that it would cure me. I then sent for your medicine and after taking five bottles of it, I was entirely cured. I cannot praise it enough."

ARMY HORSES HARD TO GET.

Purchasing Department Finds Difficulty in Meeting the Requirements.

The entire northwest is being ransacked by agents of the war department in quest of horses suitable for the cavalry and artillery of the army. The horses procured are for the most part brought to Chicago, where they are inspected, and then distributed wherever there is need of them. Among the requirements are the color of the animal, its weight and its height. The owner must stand the expense of having the two front shoes removed, furnish a halter and have the animal weighed. "It would require the animals to be molded," said a horse trader at the stockyards. "As yet there are few horses that we have received that come up to the requirements of the order, and an owner having a horse that would answer the style that is wanted by the army demands a larger price than the government offers to pay." The local horsemen state that the government will have to make some allowance on the order or it will not get the requisite number from this territory. Horses are being secured that will come up to the requirements in many respects, but it is feared that they will be turned down by the government buyer the same as they were last year. —Chicago Chronicle.

There are many uniformed employees of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad who have spent the better part of their lives with the company, but very few people are aware of their length of service and devotion to duty that has made them valued men. Vice President and General Manager Underwood will shortly issue an order, providing for service stripes for these men, that the public may know of their faithfulness and ability. A gold stripe will mean five years of service, and a silver stripe two years. Some of the Baltimore and Ohio conductors will be entitled to from seven to nine gold stripes. The company will also furnish conductors, brakemen and baggagemen of all classes, with badges, so that they may be easily distinguished by those unfamiliar with the service.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to humanity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and bringing the patient back to his normal constitution and assisting nature in doing his work. The proprietors have so much faith in their curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. Monument for Soldiers of Four Wars. A monument recently placed in a cemetery in Louisville, Ky., bears inscriptions to the memory of James Austin, a soldier of the revolution; James Allen Austin, his son, a soldier of the war of 1812; James Grigsby Austin, his grandson, a soldier of the war with Mexico, and James Richard Gathright, his great-grandson, a confederate soldier, who was killed at Murfreesboro, Tenn., Jan. 1, 1863. All were privates.

A Kruger Story. President Kruger recently refused an interview to a celebrated Englishman, who thereupon sent back word that he must see him; that he was no ordinary person; that, in fact, he was a member of the house of lords. The servant went away and returned with the message: "The president says he cannot see you, and adds that he is a cattle herder."

PRACTICAL HELP FOR SUFFERING WOMEN

Rings set with valuable stones should be taken off when washing the hands. The constant use of soap discolors the gems and loosens the settings. The trying yellow spots so often left by sewing machine oil on white goods may be removed by rubbing the stain with a cloth wet with ammonia before washing with soap. In order to clean bronze the article should be immersed in boiling water, then rubbed with a piece of flannel dipped in yellow soapuds, and dried with a soft cloth and chamois leather. If you want to put away fire irons, or to keep the grates or stoves in a shut-up house from possible rust, make a stiff paste of unslaked lime and water and apply thickly with a brush. The nasturtium sandwiches, which are delicious served with salads, are made of the petals of the flowers or the young leaves placed between slices of thinly buttered bread, the plate being decorated with the blossoms. Alabaster is usually cleaned with a little warm soap and water, and a brush, or with warm water, to which a few grains of carbonate of soda have been added. In either case it is necessary to rinse the alabaster in clean water. A much better polish on lamp chimneys may be obtained by not using water. Rub the chimney first with soft tissue paper until the soot is thoroughly removed, then sprinkle in a little salt, and rub with a dry flannel. Glass treated in this way is beautifully brilliant.

The income of the principal charitable institutions having their headquarters in London amounts to over $35,000,000 per annum.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

The Appetizing Truffle.

Mushrooms and truffles bear about the same relation to each other as milk and cream. In this country at least truffles are never common, though in some States there is a fixed supply. A truffle is as rich, sweet and altogether fascinating in flavor as a perfect walnut. It grows entirely underground, is in shape akin to various varieties of mushrooms, and in appearance sometimes suggests tripe—the tissue forms reduced in size. As milk has more uses than cream, so mushrooms may be more freely indulged in than truffles, because of their relative richness; but a dish of truffles is something to be remembered if properly prepared. —Woman's Home Companion.

The Use of Cooking-Butter.

Every housekeeper knows that the term "cooking-butter" means a grade of butter that is not quite fresh enough for table use, and is therefore only fit to be used in cooking. The trouble is that in some homes butter never seems to become too stale to be utilized in the preparation of various dishes, and it is employed in the interest of economy even after it has acquired a rancid flavor. When table-butter has lost its fresh fragrance of flavor and odor, it is still in perfectly proper condition to use as an ingredient in seasoning; but when it begins to be strong in taste or odor, even in a slight degree, it is ruinous as a seasoning and impairing as an ingredient. It is nothing short of sinful that so many good dishes should be spoiled by an unintelligent economy which, supposedly representing a saving of five or ten dollars a year, in reality is the most wasteful practice common to a kitchen. For butter that has grown strong the soap-fat jar is the only proper destiny. —Woman's Home Companion.

Hints in Case of Fire.

It is well to remember that water poured on burning oil is only fuel to the flame; scatter flour over the oil and the blaze will be speedily extinguished. Salt thrown upon a fire—for instance, if the chimney is burning—will help to deaden the blaze. If chimney flues were lined with vitrified drain pipes, which are quite inexpensive, the chimneys would be absolutely fireproof. An outward covering of some fireproof, rustproof, non-conducting jacket on the hot-air pipes would not only be a very good precautionary measure, but would save heat now radiated from the tin. A silk handkerchief dipped in water is the best thing to wrap about the mouth and nostrils to prevent suffocation from smoke; failing this, a piece of wet flannel or cloth will answer the purpose. Should the smoke fill the room before you can get to the window wrap a blanket or woolen garment about you, with the wet cloth over the face, drop on the hands and knees and crawl to the window. Smoke goes first to the top of the room and to the floor last, so that some time is thus secured. It is well to remember that there is no more danger in getting out of a high window than out of one on a first floor, if there is nerve and a cool determination to hold on to the rope or ladder. Don't try to slide down, but go hand over hand, keeping the body near the wall, and break the slide by scraping the feet along the wall. In removing burned clothing from a person cut everything loose; there must be no dragging or pulling. Do not try to save any of the clothing, but if any part sticks to the body let it remain and be careful not to break any blisters. —Chicago Record.

Hints For the Housewife.

Keep a marble in the kettle to take up the "fur." A very little milk in tepid water is excellent for wiping off painted doors and oilcloths. To prevent kerosene lamps from smearing, as they sometimes will do, even when perfectly clean, put a tablespoonful of salt into the oil. Rings set with valuable stones should be taken off when washing the hands. The constant use of soap discolors the gems and loosens the settings. The trying yellow spots so often left by sewing machine oil on white goods may be removed by rubbing the stain with a cloth wet with ammonia before washing with soap. In order to clean bronze the article should be immersed in boiling water, then rubbed with a piece of flannel dipped in yellow soapuds, and dried with a soft cloth and chamois leather. ### NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

Millinery Store in San Juan.

A Porto Rico woman has opened a millinery store in San Juan. She visited the United States before the war and gained her idea at that time. It is the first store of the kind in Porto Rico, and is said to be doing a flourishing business.

Business Club in Chicago.

The Chicago Business Woman's Club has recently been organized, and until it becomes self-supporting will remain under the auspices of the National Association of Women Stenographers. It has a suite of six apartments in the business portion of the city, with a restaurant and rooms for rest and recreation. A six-course dinner can be obtained for twenty-five cents, or an a la carte luncheon can be procured for less.

New Hair Brooches.

A new fashion, which has the unusual advantage of combining a high degree of usefulness with beauty, probably will popularize the wearing of a brooch in the hair. The hair brooch is usually worn on the back of the head, either slightly to the right or left of the middle. It is used to hold together the stray hairs, which without it are apt to straggle below a woman's coiffure. While this is a reason for the existence of the hair brooch, its use is not confined to the purpose of its creation, but it is freely worn as an ornament. The brooch for use in this way, instead of being provided with an ordinary pin, has a catch of the shape of the outline of the brooch, so arranged that it will firmly hold the hair in position, and itself will remain in its proper place. The designs of hair brooches are numerous. Wreaths seem to be the most popular shape; maple leaves enameled in their natural colors and alternating with pearls or other precious stones are popular. A single leaf enameled is also pretty. Some artistic designs in tortoise shell are also shown.

An Artistic Occupation.

A young woman in North Carolina has entered a novel field of industry, and is making it pay. Miss Jane L. Buchan is the name of this pioneer grape packer, and she has been in the business for several years. As the grape season lasts only a few weeks, in order to make it pay she contracts with different vineyarders, and has a corps of experienced girl workers, trained by herself. The careful selecting of the fruit and the trimming and lining of baskets with paper lace are particularly adapted to the deft fingers of woman, and one has a record of 113 baskets packed in six hours. The picking is done only when the grapes are thoroughly dried from previous showers, as the slightest moisture causes them to mildew on the trip north. Miss Buchan superintends the picking, as well as the packing and shipping. Every imperfect grape is picked from the bunch, and if more than two or three must be removed the entire cluster is discarded. These the packers are allowed to take home with them. The girls enjoy the work, and regard the season as a picnic. Miss Buchan packs peaches and other fruits with equal success.

Mistress and Maid.

Professor Mary Roberts Smith, of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, thinks that it is an "extraordinary inconsistency in a domestic society that the dressmaker, the milliner and the shopwoman may demand respectful treatment, while the waitress and the cook must accept the treatment accorded only to menials." The cause is "the liking of human nature to command its inferiors. Women, especially, do not want intelligent equals to serve them; they want an inferior, a subordinate—a servant, not an employe."

Is not this a condensed expression of the entire domestic-service problem? The terms "mistress" and "maid" imply not service but servitude. Disguise it as we may, that is the real truth. A maid is a luxury. The possession of such a functionary testifies to the respectability of the family. Two maids and we are rising in the world. Three—we have arrived. Four, five, six—we are really among the best people. Such are the distinctions of class, of which the maid is the badge. Service is voluntary, mutual and fraternal. Servitude is born of the "class consciousness," and in spite of democratic pretense will survive, acknowledged or unacknowledged, until the human consciousness establishes that equality so dear to optimistic philosophers. When that blessed day comes mistress and maid will vanish and in their place will appear two sisters, serving each other—but not for money. It is clear from this that the question of "help" is not practical, and sensible persons should not talk about it. Leave it to the professors and philosophers.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

IVORY SOAP PASTE.

In fifteen minutes, with only a cake of Ivory Soap and water, you can make a better cleansing paste than you can buy.

Ivory Soap Paste will take spots from clothing; and will clean carpets, rugs, kid gloves, slippers, patent, enamel, russet leather and canvas shoes, leather belts, painted wood-work and furniture. The special value of Ivory Soap in this form arises from the fact that it can be used with a damp sponge or cloth to cleanse many articles that cannot be washed because they will not stand the free application of water.

DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING.—To one pint of boiling water add one and one-half ounces (one-quarter of the small size cake) of Ivory Soap cut into shavings. Boil five minutes after the soap is thoroughly dissolved. Remove from the fire and cool in convenient dishes (not tin). It will keep well in an air-tight glass jar.
