Pastor Morgan Wins His Suit

Pastor Morgan Wins His Suit.
After months of fighting in the church and in the courts as to the right of the pastor to preach in English, the trouble at the First Welsh Methodist church of Wilkesbarre was settled on Monday by the decision of Judge Woodward, who handed down a lengthy decision in favor of Pastor Morgan. The court says in conclusion that: onclusion that:

"The supreme object of the creatio "The supreme object of the creation of the board of trustees and their first duty is to keep the church in condition to be used by the ministers regularly appointed. Any personal or general dissatisfaction that may exist in the congregation with any preacher regularly appointed will not authorize the board to close the doors are included. Huber School board will not authorize the board to close the doors against him or to interfer with him in any way in the performance of his duties. In a word, the right of the pastor to occupy the house of worship is secured to him by the fundamental law of the church, and if the people cannot hear him with good conscience they can only absent themselves and withhold support, and this at their own risk, until a lawful change is made."

Petrified Head in a Mine

Petrified Head in a Mine.

In the Cameron colliery, Shamokin, George Miller, a miner, found the petrified head of an Indian. The discovery is the most important to date of the many fossil and vegetable curiosities found in anthracite coal beds. The head was pried from a mass of rock and was first thought to be no more than a sulphur ball. Upon close examination sulphur ball. Upon close examination a miner saw the resemblance to a face a miner saw the resemblance to a face.
The rock weighing forty pounds was scraped clean, when the perfect image of the savage was developed.
