This is only a half truth. If wise men had held their tongues, we should know nothing about the circulation of the blood. If I were not for this advertisement you might never know that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood medicine.

THE FLAIL. Its Sound Has Departed from Nearly All the Farms.

The sound of the flail has departed from nearly all the farmsteads and the calling of the thrasher has gone with it, says Notes and Queries. Yet for some time after harvest was over there was no more familiar sound in the country places than the "thud thud" of the flails as they fell upon and beat out the grain on the barn-threshing floors. There remain, however, some sayings in which "like the thrasher" occurs, but the use of these grow less and less. A short time ago some friends were in a country place where a part of the thrashing is done with the flail. A couple of the implements were hanging on the barn wall and a heap of straw was on the floor. The use of the flail was explained and demonstrated for the benefit of those who had never seen this "weapon" of husbandry. Incidentally it may be mentioned that the sayings, "Sings like a thrasher" and "Works like a thrasher," came from that occupation, and are "as old as Adam." "It looks easy enough; that can't be very hard work," said one of the company, a remark which led to the flail being put into his hands for a try at the "easy work." One swing was enough for the amateur, for "other end" caught him "a friendly whack" which probably he will remember to the end. It also doubtless impressed upon his memory that "working like a thrasher" as he had done had not led to "singing like a thrasher." "You'll get a good flailing," Has any reader seen the flail employed as an effective weapon? When used by an old hand there is no standing against it.

Slaughter of Birds. One million five hundred and thirty-eight thousand seven hundred and thirty-eight is the precise number of birds estimated by the British consul in Venezuela to have been killed last year to provide cigarettes for ladies' hats.

"I GAVE little thought to my health," writes Mrs. Wm. V. BELL, 230 N. Walnut St., Canton, O., to Mrs. Pinkham. "until I found myself unable to attend to my household duties. "I had had my days of not feeling well and my monthly suffering, and a good deal of backache, but I thought all women had these things and did not complain. "I had doctored for some time, but no medicine seemed to help me, and my physician thought it best for me to go to the hospital for local treatment. I had read and heard so much of your THOUGHT-LESS WOMEN Vegetable Compound that I made up my mind to try it. I was troubled with falling of the womb, had sharp pains in ovaries, leucorrhoea and painful menses. I was so weak and dizzy that I would often have severe fainting spells. I took in all several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier and used the Sanative Wash, and am now in good health. I wish others to know of the wonderful good it has done me, and have many friends taking it now. Will always give your medicine the highest praise." Mrs. A. TOLLE, 1945 Hilston St., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I was very thin and my friends thought I was in consumption. Had continual headaches, backache and falling of womb, and my eyes were affected. Every one noticed how poorly I looked and I was advised to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. One bottle relieved me, and after taking eight bottles am now a healthy woman; have gained in weight 95 pounds to 140 pounds, and everyone asks what makes me so stout."

An Unfair Advantage. Mrs. Blank found herself in a rather embarrassing situation one day when she was dining for the first time at the home of a minister. Opposite her sat the minister's little boy, a sharp-eyed little fellow of 4 years. While his father was asking a somewhat lengthy blessing the lady elevated her eyelids slightly and caught the eye of the little fellow opposite her. The instant his father said "Amen" the boy pointed an accusing finger toward Mrs. Blank, and cried out, shrilly, "She peeked, papa! She peeked!"—Harper's Bazar.

JULIUS HINES & SON, BALTIMORE, MD., U.S.A. Dept. 313

The use of track tanks by which locomotives of high speed passenger trains may take water without stopping is almost universal on the larger Eastern roads, where fast expresses are the rule. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has a number between Washington and Philadelphia and intends to equip the entire Main Line in the future. This decision was recently arrived at through the use of passenger locomotives, equipped with water scoops, on fast freight trains. It was found that much time was saved, danger from stopping being reduced to a minimum and cost of running lessened. The Transportation Officials made some calculations and the figures showed a saving of no small sum, if track tanks are used for slow freights on the divisions where business is very heavy. The extra stops for water take much time and the wear and tear on equipment is no small matter, and if five stops on each train can be eliminated between Cumberland and Baltimore, where trains are the thickest, the saving will be quite large. If the experiment on this part of the road proves successful, track tanks will be installed on every division between Baltimore and Chicago. As a starter, the 50 new Vaucain Compound Engines recently ordered will be fitted with water scoops.

More Magnificent Than Niagara. A correspondent writing in The Spectator says the Gersoppa falls, on the Sharavatti river, in South Kanara, India, are larger and more magnificent than Niagara. He says: "The river is 250 yards wide; the clear fall is 830 feet. The Gersoppa falls in the rainy season are incomparably finer than Niagara in every respect. The roar of the falling waters is simply terrific; the whole earth shakes, and the thunder is so great that it completely drowns the human voice. When I visited Niagara and told my American friends about Gersoppa they replied with polite incredulity, 'We never heard of Gersoppa.' I replied, 'Make your minds easy; the people at Gersoppa have never heard of Niagara.' If Niagara could see Gersoppa she would wrap her head in a mist."

The New Styles in Millinery. The hats and bonnets for the season are very picturesque, and while some are not very different from those of a year ago the slight changes make for beauty and "becomingness." The velvet toque of immense size is among the new styles for the season, but its tendency is to dip over the eyes, while the chief charm of last season's toque was that it was a frame for the face and displayed the pompadour to its last fluffing hair. A rather pretty new style in toques has a low crown, a rolling brim, and while coming further over the forehead than last year's variety is dented directly in the centre of the front, making place for a big bow of panne or satin, or for a breast of grebe and a soft osprey. A great WOMAN'S WORLD. SOME WOMEN'S POT BOILERS. Unusual Occupations Which Mean a Good Living, and Sometimes a Fortune. A former society woman of New York City whose fortune is now gone finds in house decorating a means of support. She takes orders for interior decorations, including walls, woodwork and furnishings. She not only makes the purchases, but superintends the workmen. Her friends, admiring the taste shown in the furnishing of her own home, suggested that she give the world the benefit of her talent.

In a Western city a large home delicacy association, which supplies tearooms, clubs and railway cafes, is controlled by a woman. It began in a small way, the originator being asked to bake things for a luncheon room. Her first contribution was gingerbread. This was homemade gingerbread, and evoked enthusiasm. Then there was a demand for cakes, rolls, salads, pickles and jellies. The demand continued, and the association was the outcome of her experiment.

One woman who on account of poor health was obliged to give up teaching bought up a lot of bob and mash land in a little New Jersey town, and fencing it with wire started a frog farm, sending the legs to the market. She found a frog crop easy to raise, and it is said that she has made from $3000 to $5000 a year out of this unusual enterprise.

A young French woman whose home was the joy and envy of her friends was asked one day by one of them if she would out of pity arrange the petitioner's home, for in spite of many pretty and costly things it had "that stiff look." The success she made in the rearranging of her friend's home was so great that the question was suggested "why not make some pin money" by putting homes in order? So she advertised to do dusting and artistic arranging "by the hour." Her first customers were so well pleased that they recommended her to their friends, and now she has more than she can do.

A Southern girl has found a unique way of earning her living and is, indeed, making a fortune. She raises mocking birds and sells and rents them. She gets the birds when they are fledglings—sometimes from the nest just before they have to fly or when in attempting to fly they fall helpless to the ground and are rescued; or sometimes, when they break a wing, which does not hinder their singing and makes them content in a cage. This young woman will never sell her birds to a Northerner, for she knows they will die when brought to the North, and she loves them too well for that. She rents them to visitors at the hotels and cottages who go to the South for the winter.

How to Stick in Your Hat Pins. With the hair dressed low an elastic can be substituted; but in the case of a coil worn high up two pins must be used. Let them be of moderate length, and take the trouble to run them in among the trimming of feathers, so that a bare bit of straw is not damaged and left exposed to view another time. The point should pass through the hair on the top of the head and just penetrate the opposite side of the hat, so that it is fixed firmly, though the pins remain invisible. When the hat or bonnet is lavishly trimmed this course is easier, naturally, but a sailor hat with its plain band can be treated in the same way, the pin going across just above the ribbon.

Wash For an Oily Skin. For an oily skin with large pores an authority advises washing every night with hot water and pure castile soap; then, with gentle massage, apply a good quality of cold cream. Glycerine is beneficial to some skins, but injurious to others, so every individual must note the effect upon her own. In the morning put about a teaspoonful of tincture of benzoin in a quart of cold water, and wash the face and hands well in it.

The Winter Colors. Light neutral colors will be in vogue for the winter. Fashion Fads and Fancies. Smooth cloth gowns will be much in vogue. Handsome stiff silver bracelets are out in a heavy rope pattern. Red and pink have taken very many of the foremost seats in fashion's court this season. The demi-long coats in white caoutchouc or waterproof, in a thin and supple quality, are very stylish. The rage for jewels is on the increase, and they will undoubtedly be used more than ever this season. Elbow sleeves are almost universal worn, sometimes with long gloves and sometimes with no gloves at all. The pullback and the princess are really revived. The fewer seams and the fewer darts the more fashionable a woman appears. A legion of women will undoubtedly hail with undisguised delight the announcement that cotton shirt waists are to be worn entirely through the winter season. The new supple weaves of taffeta silk are in great use this season, both for gowns and accessories, to say nothing of the pretty dotted and striped patterns and the weaves barred with satin in contrasting colors for fancy waists. Gauzy materials, like the heavier materials, are much in vogue when pierced and buttonholed. Many of the fichus, plastrons and yokes made of this pierced stuff are laced with bright-colored comet ribbon, which gives a striking effect.

Household Affairs. Flower Instead of Initial. The newest method of marking handkerchiefs and linen is dainty and artistic enough to become popular in a short time. Instead of the initial or monogram, the owner's favorite flower is embroidered in one corner of the mouchoir or tablecloth, or engraved on the stationery. The Way to Make an Ice Poultice. An ice poultice is made by mixing cracked ice with sawdust, putting the mixture into a flannel bag and wrapping this in oiled silk or thin India rubber cloth. It is sometimes used to reduce the temperature in children in cases of fever when the head is hot, but its application requires great care.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Mattresses Need Cleaning. When the autumn housecleaning comes around the up to date housekeeper sends her mattresses to be cleaned as regularly as her carpets. If the abomination of feather beds be used as is still the case in some benighted households, the annual cleaning is an absolute necessity of hygiene. Whether mattress or feather bed be used, it should have an outside cover of strong cotton, to be removed frequently and washed.

A Good Fire Kindler. On one of our outings to the mountains we secured a quantity of very rich pitch pine which made such good kindling wood that when it was gone the old way of whittling shavings seemed very unsatisfactory, and we set out to find something better. Pouring kerosene on makes the fire start quickly, but we have a prejudice against being burned alive. After various experiments we hit upon the following which is safe and cheap and good. Take a flat ten-pound lard pail. Break corn cobs in two and stand the halves on end in the pail until the bottom is filled. Then pour kerosene enough over them to wet the cobs and leave a little in the bottom of the pail, so that half an inch or less of the ends of the cobs will stand in the oil. One of these pieces of cob laid in the grate will light readily from a match and burn strongly enough to start quite coarse kindling, and prove a great help on cold winter mornings.—L. Mentor, in Farm, Field and Fireside.

A New Table For Photographs. A new table is being shown in the swell furniture stores which could easily be duplicated in less expensive materials and placed in more than one room in the house. We all know how photographs accumulate and how hard it is to keep them from dust and also from fading. This table is designed especially for photographs and will fill a long felt want. It is about as large as the old fashioned work table and, like it, has a top which opens, disclosing a box inside which is divided into compartments of different sizes for the reception of photographs. The top is of pleated satin brocade, so arranged that pictures can be poked in here and there, and when opened the top forms quite an ornamental background for the faces of our friends. The imported model is very beautifully and expensively upholstered in heavy Pompadour brocade of an ecru color, powdered with small flowers. In copying this pretty invention for the preservation of photographs cheaper wood can be used, and the covering may be of some inexpensive silk, cretonne or plush.—New York Herald.

Fruit at Dinner. When bananas are served at dinner the skin should be removed with a fruit knife, the banana held in the hand, and small pieces broken or cut off and eaten from the fingers. Some very particular people put the banana on the plate after it has been peeled and cut, and eat it from a fork, but this is not the usual custom. Oranges are seldom served at dinner unless they are specially prepared—that is, with the skin taken off of them, the sections divided and made tasteful by some dressing or sweetening, and the seeds removed, in which case the fruit is eaten from a fork, as if it were a pudding, ice or fruit salad. When apples are served they are usually part of a fruit centerpiece, and should be pared, cut into small pieces and eaten from the fingers or fork as fancied. Fruit stones may be removed from the mouth by the assistance of the fork, but it is in better taste to use one's napkin to conceal this act. Fish bones are taken from the mouth with the fingers. Care, however, is usually taken to leave as few bones as possible in the fish, since the general use of the silver knife with the silver fork has made it easy to separate the bones from the meat.

Recipes. Breakfast—Two eggs, two cupfuls of sweet milk, two cupfuls of melted butter, a little salt, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, one teaspoonful of soda, four cupfuls of flour. This must be well beaten. Baked Fish Roll—Mix together one cupful of cold baked fish, one cupful of mashed potatoes, a half cupful of milk, one well beaten egg and pepper and salt to taste. Form into a roll, put into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with bread crumbs, add bits of butter and bake until a nice brown. Turnip Sauce—Have boiling a pint of salted water, in which drop two medium-sized white onions and two white turnips the size of a teacup; boil until tender and mash fine; do not use the liquid, but add to the pulp one cupful of milk, one-half cupful of cream, adding a teaspoonful each of flour and butter rubbed smooth together, half a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of pepper; stir until smooth and hot and serve in a boat; delicious with roast duck.

YOUTH The idea of an exhibit of American products and manufactures in St. Petersburg in 1901 is favorably received and commented on in manufacturing circles. Russia is the most inviting field for American trade extension now in sight. That great empire is in the early stages of prodigious development, and a grand market is being created there for the innumerable devices and appliances for multiplying production and decreasing its cost, as well as for developing the splendid resources of the nation. An exhibit such as indicated will give the Russian an opportunity of seeing and of inquiring into the utility of American machinery and of the American wares of all sorts. In the natural order of things America will be feeling for a broader market for her products within the next two years, and Russia will be an important outlet for the surplus manufactures of the republic. Organized steps will soon be taken to promote the St. Petersburg project for American trade extension, and congress will be asked to help it along with a substantial appropriation. If the exhibit should lead to practical results in the way desired, similar exhibits can be made in South America and in other parts of the world where the people have need of the things which the United States can furnish.—New York Letter.

Women of the Orient. A recent visitor to the Philippines says that some of the women of the island are remarkably pretty, having big, languishing eyes and an abundance of long hair. They fasten up with a big gold pin and then adorn with flowers. They do not wear hats, but use sunshades, and do so very quietly; they wear very dainty shoes, but do not wear stockings. They are distinguished by grace of figure and movement, though according to our ideas not especially by refinement of habits, for both women and children smoke huge cigars and indulge in betel chewing. It is their custom to keep the thumb nail of the right hand very long, as this assists them in playing their favorite instrument, the guitar. The use of the fan originated in China and sprang from the following incident: A royal princess, very beautiful, was assisting at the feast of lanterns, her face covered with a mask, as usual. The excessive heat compelled her to remove it, and in order to guard her features from the common gaze she moved it quickly to and fro in front of her face, thus simultaneously hiding her charms and cooling her brow. The idea was at once adopted throughout the kingdom. A few years ago there were as many as 33 vegetarian restaurants in London. To-day there exists only about six.
