BRIEF ITEMS.

Mrs. Catherine Fallon, aged 80 years, died at Hazleton yesterday. She was a resident of lower Luzerne for sixty years.

Miss Mary E. O'Donnell has returned to her home after an extended visit to Bayonne, N. J.

John Brennan, of Jersey City, is visiting in town.

Hugh Shovlin is visiting old friends at Lansford.

"Old Si Stebbins," a rural play, after the style of the "Old Homestead," delighted an audience that completely filled the Lyceum last night. The plot is very simple. Old Si does not desire Richard Mason for a son-in-law. Si, like most farmers who have never been buncoed, thinks he is proof against such a game. Mason, knowing this weakness, entices the old man into making a wager that he cannot be buncoed. The old man makes a trip to Boston, and Mason, with the aid of Si's daughter, manages to victimize the old man and wins the wager—the hand of old Si's daughter in marriage. The company is one of the best that has appeared in this city.

There are really two shows, the vaudeville specialties comprising a complete performance themselves. Mr. Darleigh, as "Old Si," is a finished actor, and his characterization of that part is very realistic. Every other person in the cast is worthy of special mention. The Elmore Sisters are delightful young girls, and they had the audience charmed in their specialty, being encored eight times.—Albany, N. Y. Argus, January 16, 1900.

Tissot Paintings at Drifton.

By special arrangement with the Tissot Club Lecture Bureau, of Philadelphia, Prof. Welham Clark, oriental traveler of London, by the aid of the highest class Parisian electrical apparatus, will display on a mammoth scale at Cross Creek hall, Drifton, on Saturday evening, the celebrated Tissot paintings of the life of our Lord. These paintings are reproduced on a scale of twenty feet square, and are identical in color, detail and artistic effect with the originals.

Mr. Tissot spent ten years, much of this time in Palestine, painting these pictures. There are 500 in all, showing the entire story of the Lord's life on earth. The pictures have been viewed by hundreds of people on both continents, and are famed as one of the most remarkable works of art ever produced.

The display at Cross Creek hall will be given free, and those of our people who take an interest in the subject are welcome to attend.

Shot by His Friend.

John Jenkins, of Shenandoah, is dying, the result of being accidentally shot by his friend, David McDonald.

The shooting occurred in Ferguson's theatre cafe, where Jenkins had been called from the theatre to meet a number of Shamokin friends. An exchange of friendly badinage between McDonald and Jenkins followed, ending in the former picking up a revolver from the shelf, presumably loaded with blank cartridges, and firing. Jenkins fell to the floor with a bullet in his skull. McDonald is almost crazed with grief. The wounded man exonerates him from all blame. Jenkins, who is well known in Freeland, has been removed to Ashland hospital.

Hunting With Ferrets.

From the Wilkes-Barre Record.

William Hadsell, of Hunlock township, was given a hearing before Alderman Davison on the charge of hunting rabbits with a ferret. During the hearing the allegation was made that J. P. Brader and Rush Brader, two of the witnesses for the prosecution, had also hunted with the same animal in company with the defendant. At the direction of J. F. O'Neill, attorney for the Luzerne County Sportsmen's Club, warrants were issued for the men named and were served on the spot. All of the defendants were fined $25 each.

The prosecutor was Thomas M. Bonham, the diminutive constable from Hunlock.

Mother's Will to Stand.

The effort of Frank W. Hoyt, of Wilkes-Barre, to break his mother's will and get a big part of the $300,000 estate has failed. Judge Darte has handed down an opinion sustaining the will. The contestant is an only son, and he was cut off with $1,000 and some books, the estate being divided among his uncles and aunts. He contested on the ground that his mother had been unduly influenced by his aunt, Miss H. Florence Miller, of Philadelphia, but the evidence showed the will had been made seven years before her death, and that young Hoyt had received a large share of his father's fortune.

Freeland's Lost Industry.

The stockholders of the Cross Axle Company, of Wilkes-Barre, have chosen a board of directors who have elected the following officers: Major J. K. Roberts, Jr., president; W. F. Coffey, vice president; Colonel G. N. Reichard, treasurer; George Llewellyn, secretary; R. R. Cross, general manager. They decided to place a limited number of shares of capital stock on the market. After taking into consideration the many new carriage manufacturers being established and the older concerns enlarging their plants, the company feels assured of a ready sale for its stock.

Funeral of Mrs. Hannah Campbell.

The funeral of Mrs. Hannah Campbell, wife of Mark Campbell, of Bayonne City, N. J., who died on Wednesday from heart failure, took place on Saturday morning from the residence of her mother, Mrs. John Brennan, Ridge street. Notwithstanding the inclement weather the remains were followed to St. Ann's church by a large number of relatives and friends. A requiem mass was read by Rev. F. J. Mack, who also delivered an eloquent sermon, after which the interment was made in St. Ann's cemetery, under direction of Undertaker Breslin.

COLUMN FOR WORKERS.

VARIETY OF ITEMS GATHERED FROM THE INDUSTRIAL WORLD.

Strikes Again Raging in the Wyoming Region—Lackawanna Men Ignored by Operators—Coroner Jury's Verdict Rendered—Callaway's Body Recovered.

The fear of a general strike among the miners of the Wyoming valley grows more widespread every hour, for the discontent of the workmen is becoming more apparent. On Thursday eighty driver boys and "nippers" employed at the Hollenback mine of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company went on strike because their demand for an increase of wages from 80 cents to $1.25 a day was not granted. Without the services of the boys the mine could not be operated and 300 men were thrown idle. At the Baltimore mine of the Delaware and Hudson Company, near Wilkes-Barre, 150 miners struck for an increase of 13 cents on each car. At Nanticoke 150 breaker boys in the employ of the Susquehanna Coal Company quit work at No. 7 because they claimed the company discriminated against them in favor of new boys hired since the big strike.

In addition to those, 100 breaker boys from No. 5 colliery, Nanticoke, next day joined the boys of No. 7.

The Delaware and Hudson strikers say they expect the men at all the collieries of the company to follow their lead. Friday night the Red Ash Company miners, 1,800 strong, held a mass meeting, and organized a union. Their grievances is the high price of powder, and they will send a demand to the company. There is dissatisfaction among the men at No. 3 and No. 5 Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre collieries also.

While the Lehigh Valley men are awaiting the developments of the Delaware and Hudson strike before asserting themselves, so great is the fear of a strike which would seriously cripple the business interests of the valley that the Board of Trade, of Wilkes-Barre, has taken hold of the matter, and Secretary Garrett Smith requested the newspapers to publish as little about the strikes as they could, and not to encourage the miners, as a favorable turn might precipitate a strike which would be bitterly fought.

The United Mine Workers of the Lackawanna and upper Luzerne districts met again on Thursday in Scranton and waited in vain for a response to their invitation to the operators to confer with them regarding their grievances. One week ago Tuesday, when the first conference was called and no operators put in an appearance a resolution was passed giving the operators one more chance, and declaring that if they again ignored the invitation radical steps would be taken to force the operators to come into a conference.

The remains of Fire Boss William Callaway, of Kaskawilliam, who was entombed in the mines at that place early on December 18, 1899, while making his daily examination of the inside working of the colliery, were recovered shortly after 11 o'clock Wednesday night by the miners who have worked ever since, hoping again hope that the unfortunate fire boss might be recovered alive.

The coroner's jury empanelled by Deputy Coroner Bowman to investigate the death of Daniel Dougherty, of McAdoo, who was killed in No. 5 colliery, Jeddo, by being caught between a mine door and a mine locomotive, on which he was employed as patcher, rendered a verdict "that the speed of the mine locomotive was incompatible with the safe operation of the automatic mine doors."

James MacAlarney, of Ebervale, employed at the Milnesville striping, was struck by a piece of flying rock from a blast on Thursday. He was removed to the Miners' hospital, where he died. He leaves a wife and eight small children.

Peter Valentine's leg was broken by a fall of coal in No. 5 colliery, Jeddo, on Thursday, and three other Austrians were injured at the same place. Valentine was taken to the Miners' hospital for treatment.

Andrew Popolski, of Honey Brook, who was badly squeezed and injured internally in the striping at that place, died at the Miners' hospital Saturday night. He is survived by a wife and family.

W. W. Stevens, of Coxe addition, has returned from Will's Eye hospital, Philadelphia, where he was successfully operated upon for an injury received to his eye last month in Drifton shops.

Alonzo Woodring, of Drifton, has been discharged from the Miners' hospital, where he was treated for a broken leg received by timber falling on it while at work.

During the last year $750,000 was disbursed by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to crippled men and to widows and children of members who had lost their lives.

Wilson Mowrey, of Upper Lehigh, fell on the ice while returning from his work Wednesday evening and fractured a rib.

THIRTY DAYS CHANGE-STOCK SALE.

We are still holding to our well-known policy and rule that goods shall not be carried over their season. We do not conduct any special January sales, selling out sales, half-price sales and so on. But we are conducting our annual Change-Stock Sale, with the object of selling off all goods of this season in order to prepare ourselves for the next climatic change. January invariably brings sales of cheap clothing marked a little cheaper; sales of goodness knows how-old clothing; sales of clothing purposely bought for such sales; sales of clothing of questionable value when offered at any price; bargains in their way, perhaps, but not worthy to be

COMPARED WITH SENIE'S GOODS.

It is needless to announce that any statement made by us is accepted as a fact by the general public. We have steadily advanced in prestige since our coming here, and our name today is a sufficient guarantee to every buyer in our territory of whatever we proclaim. We support our assertion by making this offer to patrons:

If, after buying at our store, you find that you can obtain better values elsewhere, return your purchase to us and we will promptly refund your money.

- $5.00 44 Men's Dress Overcoats; different shades. $7.50 and $8 Values.
- $7.50 21 Fine Imported Kersey Overcoats; serge-lined. Would be a Bargain at Double the Price.
- $8.75 12 Overcoats, Reduced from $13. This is a notable opportunity to Get a First-class Overcoat at Nearly First Cost.
- SUITS For Men, Boys and Children Reduced One-third of Their Actual Serviceable Value.
- TOP COATS For Boys and Children At the Same Remarkable Reductions.

The unfavorable weather of this season left our counters somewhat fuller than a year ago. We need money and room for our Merchant Tailoring Department, which we expect to conduct on an extensive scale next spring. Give us a call now, the prices will do the selling. It pays always to deal at a store where everybody is treated alike and where there is but one price to all. Don't miss this chance to buy where a dollar does double duty.

Hats, Underwear, Shirts and Furnishings Reduced to Nearly One-Half of Former Value.

BIRKBECK BRICK, FREELAND.

An Impostor Exposed.

From the Weatherly Herald.

"Rev. Sovieski and wife" appeared in town last week and purported themselves as "evangelists." The man represented himself to be an ex-priest, who had been rescued from "the errors of Rome," and his wife said she was an ex-nun. They were taken up by some people of town and cared for in the best manner, and we understand still being treated kindly, notwithstanding the warnings given by honest friends.

These impostors, in search of dimes and quarters from those who they can dupe, have pockets full of legal documents and credentials, but they cannot get away from the cold facts as gleaned from different reliable newspapers. We feel sorry for the people being imposed on, but it will be a lesson not to pick up anybody that comes along purporting to be Christians.

Sunday morning he attacked every sect and denomination and was especially vile in his attacks against the Catholic Church. Let us see what his past record is, just going back for a few years.

On July of last year he was arrested at Ogdensburg, N. Y., for passing counterfeit money and placed in jail. On August 1, Rev. F. W. Reeder, of the Free Baptist Church in Depauville, N. Y., wrote to the Ogdensburg police telling them that Rev. Sovieski was one of the "most despicable impostors living. The woman he travels with (if she is now with him) was formerly the wife of a hard working farmer named Smeck, of Custers, Crawford county, Pa."

J. W. Hunter, of Verona, Pa., writes to parties in town that this man Sovieski is an impostor and they should look out for him. He was expelled from the Free Baptist Church in the state of Wisconsin, and from the Baptist Church, of Pittsburg, Pa.

Rev. E. C. Vale, of East Carmel, Ohio, writes that Sovieski was in that town and that he harbored him for some time, but was sorry when he learned the man's true history. The "ex-priest" escaped from a detective at that place.

Sovieski carries ordination papers from the Baptist Church of Wisconsin, says Rev. O. T. True, of Fairwater, Wis., but the ordination was revoked.

By his hypocritical stories he has played upon the sympathies of all denominations and people and took their aims. He is known to have been baptized in the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and other denominations.

It is sad indeed to think that men and women will encourage such a rascal in slandering the Christian church.

Strikes are cropping out in the Schuylkill region. Bondage is becoming irksome.

Jeanesville iron works were damaged by fire Thursday evening to the extent of $1,000.
