ers Shall Remain Erect and Exposed -In Continental Arms officers recently have been busy criticising the British battle system which ordains that on the firing line when the men have sought what little shelter the confor-mation of the ground affords the offi-cers shall remain erect and exposed. The European military critics speak of this daring habit of the queen's officers as though the custom were confined wholly to the British army. Many a hard-fought field on the western frontier and the battles in Cuba attes that the American officer is guided on the field by the same feeling and the same rule of conduct that prompts the Englishman to make of himself a conspicuous target for the Boer bullet. To one unacquaint-ed with the field tactics of European armies the worder is how an officer lying prone behind a rock on the missile-swept firing line is able "con-stantly to direct and encourage his men," as reads the "tactical injunc-tio" to the officers of the United States tion to the officers of armies of all English-speaking people. The major-ity of the officers of the United States army of middle age and younger, West Pointers and civilian appointees alike, received their early soldierly suctoarance from Encourt United Place West Pointers and civilian appointees alike, received their early soldierly sustemance from Emory Upton's Blue Book. There was no paragraph in the whole volume, from "the points of a soldier" to the "evolutions of a brigade," that was so thoroughly erammed into the brains of the cadets in the section-rooms at West Point as was that which in terse language said that for the encouragement and heart-ening of his men it was the duty of au officer to expose himself at all times of danger. The same rule is laid down in the United States army drill regulations which have recently drill regulations which have recently succeeded the old tactics of Upton.

Make Excellent Cleaning Material. Every one knows that soft bread crumbs make an excellent cleaning material for soiled wall papers, but it is not so generally known that pic-tures may be cleansed in the same way. Professor Church, of London, to whom has been intrusted the clean-ing of the pictures in the Bouses of to whom has been intrusted the clean-ing of the pictures in the Houses of Parliament, has invented an instru-ment to blow upon the soiled pictures a perfect cloud of bread crumbs. This is said to be the most effective way of removing the soot and dirt.

removing the soot and dirt. Flower Vases for the Table. The day of heavy floral decoration of massed green and ribbon bows has passed, and simplicity is now the de-sirable effect. The flowers which decorate the table are now arranged in tall, slender Bohemian glass vases, extremely effective in shaded green and pink. Two of these vases are placed at either end of the table, and are charmingly filled with long-stemmed pink rosebuds or pink tulips. To complete this arrange-ment, in the centre of the table is a low jardiniere of pink Bohemian glass, made with an adjustable zine lining, filled with moss, and overgrown with made with an adjustable zinc lining, filled with moss, and overgrown with the delicately colored and sweet scented sweet peas, or a waving mass of pink poppies shading to deep red. On one sloop are five young men, who go to a skyscraper building in Nassau street every morning and take out two or three vivacious typewriter girls when work is over to make the board on condition that they would not take her outside the basin, and hired a retired sea cap-tain, who lives near the basin, to look after the boat during the day and to "mess" for them. They find it cheaper than paying board in the city, and ever so much pleasanter. Three families wintered on yachts in the Bay Ridge basin last winter, and they on-type tak of trying it again. The bliz-ard and the rough weather had no terrors for them. One sloop, the Peri, was housed above decks very much like those in the tales we read about Arc-tic expeditions. If we consult the Encyclopedia for information about soap, we find in it this statement:

"The manufacturer of toilet soap generally takes care to present his wares in convenient form and of agreeable appearance and smell; the more weighty duty of having them free from uncombined alkali is in many cases entirely overlooked."

The authority is good, the statement is undoubtedly true, and careful people realize more and more that it is best to buy only an old-established brand like the "Ivory." A brand that they know is pure and harmless. IVORY SOAP-994/100 PER CENT. PURE.
