Frank Frigerio, superintendent of the Freeland silk mill, has tendered his resignation to the company, the same to take effect immediately. Mr. Frigerio take effect immediately. Mr. Frigerio has been superlatendent of the mili since it began operations and is highly esteemed by his employers and the employes. It is stated that he has formed a partnership with Peter Magagna, of town, and will operate the proposed slik mill at White Haven. The new plant will employe over 100 girls, and as Mr. Frigerio understands the silk business thoroughly the mill ought to be a success.

Foreman Gus Henschel has been appointed as successor to Superintendent Frigerio, and Austin McEneary has been promoted to foreman.

picture managers arrived Saturday afternoon, after coming from Lebanon. Arrangements were then made with the Lehigh Traction Company to supply the current, but when it was found that the extra traffic on the road Saturday night would cause a heavy fluctuation in the current it was decided by the several electrical experts who were gathered to find a way out of the dilemma that the exhibition would be most unsatisfactory under the circumstances, and the contract was therefore mutually annulled. The inability to show the pictures was a severe disappointment to many people. The Andrews Opera Company sang the English opera "Martha" to a small audience on Thursday evening. The rendition of this romantic piece was admirable and gave satisfaction to every person who was present. The company is an unusually strong one and has several talented people on its roll. The most was the mother of six children, of the surviving children one is aged 7 years and the other 6 months. The funeral will take place Wedney afternoon. The friends and religious proposed to the musical people of town, as attested by the poor attendance, does not augor well for future attractions of this kind. Hoyt's "A Day and a Night," another attraction that has pleased thousands in all the large cities of the country, was given on Friday evening before an audience considerably smaller than the show deserved. It is played by a good company.

From the Wilkesbarre Record.

A store of the leading politicians from the two factions of the Democracy held a conference yesterday and made the first steps about bringing the two elements of the party into harmonious relation with each other so as to be able to present a united front at the coming election.

There are several nice bethy to be

Pelection. There are several nice berths to be filed this fall and the neutral members of the disrupted organization realize that with the party torn with factional strife they cannot hope to land one candidate safely save jury commissioner, and even this may be lost to the Prohibitionists or the Socialists if the bitter feeling now existing is allowed to continue unchecked. A Moses is needed to lead them, but his appearance has been waited for in vain, so the neutrals are endeavoring to do the next best thing, have the lion and the lamb coo to each other from the roost.

have the lion and the lamb coo to be so other from the roost.

This was the object of yesterday's conference and it was far more successful than was anticipated by its promoters. Farrell, of Nanticoke, and John Hart, of Pittston. After considerable discussion and much vigorous talking of a regular Democratic flavor it was agreed that a ticket composed as follows would be satisfactory to both wings: Congress, S. W. The only trouble about the slate is that there are just double the number of candidates that there are offices and the result will no doubt be the precipitation of the customary faction fight, without which a Democratic convention would not seem natural.

Echo of Dynamite Case.

Echo of Dynamite Case.

The famous Knorr-Wintersteen dynamite case was revived in the Columbia county courts Friday, after having been unaired for over a year. It was in an argument on the petition for a rule to show cause why the receiver of the defunct Bloomsburg Iron Company should not make distribution of certain funds in his hands. It appears that Mrs. Mary Knorr, the mother of one of the defendants in that case, had assigned 201 shares of the stock of that company to her attorneys, James Scarlet and Levi Waller. The receiver is holding $10,000 awaiting the court's decision as to the proper parties to be given the money. Attorneys Scarlet and Waller are now seeking to secure their apportionment of the money.

L. S. Wintersteen, the principal in that celebrated case, filed a sworn statement through his attorney, Colonel John G. Freeze, that Mrs. Knorr never owned the stock, and that she could not assign it, he having the certificates in his possession. Attorney Scarlet contended that the books were the first proof of the ownership of the stock, and added: "We acknowledge that L. S. Winter-
