WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, April 24, 1900. Another ugly scandal has cropped up under the rule of the war department, which cannot fail to add to the wave of public sentiment, daily becoming higher and stronger, that will sweep the Re-unblican party with its record of publican party, with its record of scandals, out of power. This particular scandals, out of power. This particular scandal was uncovered quite by acci-dent and its existence was not denied by Secretary Root, who is responsible for its continuance, although it was originated by Alger. It is to speak plainly, the robbery of the Cubans, for the benefit of officers of the United States army. Hints of extravagant li-ing by American officers in Cuba and of ing by American officers in Cuba, and of large sums paid for their expenses, have large sums paid for their expenses, have been frequent, but it was not until within the last forty-eight hours that it became positively known that officers in the United States army were, in direct violation of law, drawing two salaries, one from the United States and one from the Cuban revenues. 1 t t t t t The ground upon which Secretary Root justifies this robbery is worthy of a shyster lawyer, but not of a member of the United States cabinet—that the of the United States cabinet—that the money drawn from the Cuban revenues by these officers is not a salary from the United States, and consequently their receiving it is not a violation of the law prohibiting two salaries. Mr. Root goes even further than that. He says this robberry was carefully considered goes even further than that. He says this robbery was carefully considered and endorsed by Mr. McKinley and his entire cabinet before it was started, and that he intends to increase the number of officers who are allowed to participate therein. But he won't, un-less prominent Republican senators who have expressed surprise and regret at the scandal, change their minds. Speaking of this deal, Mr. Livingston said: "I know that a conforence of Republican leaders was held, at which discipline, yet it is said that a large it was determined to push the ship bounty scheme at all hazards. By the other plan, the mixture of marl and oil was put into the cart-ridge, which was enclosed in a lead case with a layer of felt between, and the liquid air then poured in until the paste was completely saturated. The cartridges prepared by both meth-ods were safe and readily transporta-ble, and their explosive power tested by firing at the bottom of deep holes bored in rock. The results showed that while liquid air is an efficient ex-plosive, it is far less effective than dynamite, guncotton, explosive gela-tine, or glant powder. The conclusions of the military ex-

On the other hand, the cartridges when freshly prepared are powerful and well adapted to coal and other mining. The net conclusion to be derived from these and preceding experiments in Europe is that, notwithstanding the obvious advantages of liquid air as an explosive for mining purposes, the rapid deterioration of the cartridges and their varying and uncertain strength are obstacles so serious that, until they can be overcome, its value and application to that use will re-main experimental and comparatively limited

Some people spend money only when they have an audience. You are getting good luck in finding four-leaf clovers if you don't find the rheumatism in the search. It is a matter of aurprise when some people die that their acquaintances don't plant their graves in smart-weed. An engaged girl never believes it when her friends tell her she is too good for the man concerned. After marriage, she is open to conviction.
