PLEASURE CALENDAR.

June 15.—Trolley excursion of Manhattan Base Ball Club to Hazle park. Round trip tickets, 25 cents.

Pawnee Bill's Exhibition.

Pawnee Bill's Wild West show, which exhibited here on Friday afternoon and evening, attracted a large number of people to town in the morning to view the street parade, which was one of the finest seen in Freeland for a number of years. At the afternoon performance an audience of over 2,200 was present, and in the evening the paid admissions passed the 5,000 mark.

The acting was all of the sensational order and abounded with many daring feats which depicted frontier life in true style. The different scenes were very interesting throughout the whole performance and attracted the close attention of the audience.

The attaches of the circus were a courteous and obliging set of men, especially must that of Frank Frost, the press agent. Should Pawnee Bill play a return date in town he would surely be greeted with a large audience, as everybody who witnessed the performance went home well satisfied.

The show travels in its own cars, filling eighteen in all. Considerable labor was required to haul the equipment to and from the grounds on the Hill. The show had barely space enough to accommodate the several tents and side affairs which it carries.

Pension for Agnes Ryder.

Through the efforts of Congressman Davenport, little Agnes Ryder stands in a fair way of receiving a pension. The first vote in committee was adverse to the application, but Mr. Davenport succeeded in having the matter reconsidered by a vote of 5 to 3 and a bill granting the little orphan a pension of $12 per month was reported favorably to the house.

Agnes Ryder is the twelve-year-old daughter of the late Thomas P. Ryder, of Wilkes-Barre. When the Spanish-American war broke out he went with the Ninth regiment as correspondent of the Record, and later resigned his position to become a regimental clerk. While serving in the latter capacity he was attacked with typhoid fever and died. His little daughter, Agnes, is the only survivor and is left without any means of support. The pension will be used to educate her.

Stevenson Case Ended.

The long-drawn out case of Joseph Stevenson against the Ebervale Coal Company for $100,000 damages was closed Friday afternoon, and given to the jury. Stevenson asked for damages for the polluting of Nescopee creek by the coal company and the ruin of his woolen mill by culm and coal dirt.

The case was bitterly fought on both sides and the legal talent engaged comprised all the prominent attorneys of the county.

The jury reached a verdict, but its nature was not known until court opened this morning. It is believed to be in Stevenson's favor.

Upper Lehigh Boy Gone.

The White Haven Journal's Upper Lehigh correspondent says: "Considerable anxiety and unrest is the lot of the Wilson Mowery family at present, owing to the untimely absconding of their son, Martin. One morning last week he got it into his cranium to depart from this beautiful town of his nativity and left rather unceremoniously, by saying that he was going to a Hazleton dentist to have a tooth extracted, but has failed to return, and as he is possessed with wandering proclivities information regarding his whereabouts is utterly unobtainable."

Closing Exercises of Institute.

The closing exercises of the Mining and Mechanical Institute were held at the Grand opera house Friday evening. Hon. George D. McCreary, of Philadelphia, as in former years, performed the duties of chairman. The address of the evening was delivered by Joseph Huston, of the same city. The orations of the students were well received by the audience. Several of the students were awarded prizes.

Two of the Arabs connected with Pawnee Bill's Wild West disagreed at supper Friday evening and blows were exchanged. An arrest followed, but a settlement was made later before Squire Shovlin, the aggrieved son of the desert receiving a golden balm to sooth his wounded feelings.

Census Enumerators Owens and Alden found it almost impossible to gather statistics on their first day of labor. They were up against the circus and few Freeland people had time to give Uncle Sam's representatives the information asked.

Mrs. Mary Woodring died at her home at St. John's on Wednesday, after an illness of six months, aged 57 years. Deceased was born in Butler township and lived there all her life. She is survived by a husband, two sons and one daughter.

The project to connect Laurytown almshouse with telephone has fallen through. The directors justly feel that the district is not financially able to stand the exorbitant price demanded.

Old newspapers for sale.

Gunner's Mate Keaton at Home.

William Keaton, who served as gunner's mate on the St. Paul during the Spanish-American war, spent last week at his home in Jeddo, returning today to Brooklyn to resume his work in the navy yard, where he is employed mounting gun batteries on the ships at that port. Mr. Keaton was recently elected fleet commander of the United States Veteran Navy, an organization of 18,000 men, and, as the position is second in command, the honor conferred upon him is pleasing to his many friends here. The Veteran Navy is composed of men who saw actual service in the several branches of the American navy during the Spanish war, embracing the enlisted men of the navy, the marine corps, revenue service and naval militia. They are enlisted again in the service, but are not subject to duty unless called upon by the government in time of war.

During Mr. Keaton's stay here the matter of organizing a squadron of the Veteran Navy here was considered, and Mr. Keaton promised to use his influence to obtain the necessary permission, if seven men who have honorable discharges and saw actual service can be found in Freeland, Hazleton and vicinity. So far as is known the only qualified person in Freeland to join is Eugene Riley, of North Centre street, who was with Mr. Keaton on the St. Paul. If the required number to organize a squadron can be found in the region further particulars and information can be had by addressing Mr. Keaton at his residence, 194 Sands street, Brooklyn, or Admiral Charles Lineback, 73 Carlton avenue, of the same city.

Addition to Laurytown Asylum.

Mrs. E. B. Cox, of Drifton, has asked permission from the poor directors to erect an addition to the insane department at the Laurytown almshouse, also to build a chapel on the grounds. The inadequate accommodations for the insane at the asylum has long been a matter of serious difficulty for the directors. They have advocated the erection of an independent asylum, which they assert could be supported on the money now being paid to the Danville asylum for the care of insane from this district and that from the state.

The overcrowded condition of the Danville institution made matters worse, because many patients who should be sent there could find no room and had to be accommodated some how. It was this condition of affairs that prompted Mrs. Cox to take a trip to Danville recently, accompanied by the asylum nurse, Miss Mary Moulder, and the poor district physician, Dr. Long, of Weatherly. The reported overcrowding of the Danville asylum she found only too true. Her request to the directors noted above is the sequel to that trip.

Chasing Up a Huge Fraud.

Arrests are expected daily of men in the lower end of the county, along the Schuylkill county line, who have been selling fraudulent naturalization papers. This illegal citizen mill has been working for a couple of years among the foreigners, chiefly among the Italians, and, it is said, has issued hundreds of papers.

So bold were the men at the head of the scheme that when the investigation first commenced, a couple of months ago, a naturalization docket was stolen from the courthouse. This would have been of material aid in prosecuting the frauds, and the stealing of it hampered the men at work on the case considerably.

Now, it is said, Secret Service men who have been conducting the investigations have enough evidence to convict, and arrests are expected soon. The guilty parties have been sending out of the county all the men to whom they sold bogus papers whom they could get to go.

Attempt to Murder His Wife.

Pittston comes to the front with what will result in another wife murder. John Periskki, of that city, is in jail, it being charged that during a quarrel with his wife on Friday he battered her skull with an ax. The physicians say she cannot recover. It seems that Periskki desired to send one of his children on an errand, when his wife interfered. A quarrel arose, and Periskki became so enraged that he ran out of the house, picked up an ax that was lying in the yard and, rushing back into the house again, it is alleged, dealt his wife a blow with it on the head.

A terrible gash was inflicted, and as the woman lay on the floor in an unconscious condition blood flowed profusely from the wound. Periskki evidently thought that he had killed his wife, for he made no attempt to strike her a second blow, and dropped the ax to the floor.

51c to Mahanoy City and Return.

Via the Lehigh Valley Railroad, June 14, 1900. On account of parade day of the A. O. H. and Ladies' Auxiliary meeting, to be held at Mahanoy City, June 14, this company will sell tickets on that date at the low fare quoted above, good for return passage to June 15 inclusive, and will be honored on any train, except the Black Diamond express.

ADVISED TO STAY AWAY.

MINERS NOT WANTED IN THE BITUMINOUS COAL FIELDS.

President John Fahey, of the United Mine Workers Union, Cautions Anthracite Workers Against the Folly of Seeking Work in Soft Coal Regions.

President John Fahey, of the anthracite district of the United Mine Workers of America, in an interview last week on the exodus of miners from this section to the soft coal fields and the Northwest, said:

"The majority of anthracite coal workers now taking part in the mad scramble to go to the bituminous are non-union men, and whether they know it or not, they are more responsible than any one else for the causes, which are now driving them West. Bituminous union miners are now receiving the highest rate of wages paid in thirty years, and their union, the United Mine Workers of America, is the cause of them enjoying these benefits.

"In striking contrast with this is the condition in the anthracite fields, where the coal workers have no such strong organization as bituminous miners have. We find that the anthracite coal workers received no advance of 23 per cent in 1898 and no eight-hour work day, and that conditions governing employment were not made better than in preceding years, and we find, too, that they received no extra advance of 23 per cent in wages in 1900, as the bituminous men did, and that they are not and have not been receiving their comparative share of that prosperity so much spoken of and so heartily welcomed, so that there is much discontent and unhappiness among them.

"This exists to such an extent that many hundreds of coal workers are leaving the anthracite and going to the bituminous regions. Some, not having money to pay their railroad fare, beg the persons looking for men to take them along and keep the fare out of the first money they earn, so anxious are they to go to the soft coal fields, and share, without deserving it, the benefits brought about by union men through their organization.

"True to his practices, the non-union coal worker, who at home evidences his lack of nerve and common sense by refusing to join his craft organization, expects to go among union men and share the benefits brought about by their union, and this, too, without the former turning a finger to deserve it. Such men will have their eyes opened when they go to the soft coal fields, and will find that they cannot be parasites, but must be union men, and pay dearly, but fairly for the privilege.

"It is right that union men should protect themselves in the benefits they have worked so hard to secure, and in doing so I suggest that they double their already very high initiation fee in particular for anthracite non-union men. This will not only show them the benefit of a union, but will make them pay for what they get, and may cause the anthracite coal workers to organize as solidly as their bituminous brethren. There is every good reason why they should so organize.

"If the union in the bituminous regions is a good thing for the coal worker, as well as for the employer and for the coal trade, why will not the same union be a good thing in the anthracite regions? For their own welfare, I advise anthracite coal workers to stay away from the bituminous regions, and to the non-union men in particular I address this advice."

LOCAL LABOR NOTES.

The strike of the section men and gravel-train employes on the main line of the Lehigh Valley Railroad shows signs of collapsing. Gangs of men are returning to work along the part of the line affected by the strike. The strikers are not organized.

The second vein of coal has been struck in the shaft of the Wyoming and Pond Creek Coal Company and is a good paying vein. They intend to drive further down and expect to find a third vein about twenty or thirty feet lower.

The trouble which nearly disrupted the Cross Axle Manufacturing Company, of Wilkes-Barre, has been satisfactorily adjusted, and a factory for the manufacture of R. R. Cross' patents will be built.

In order to avoid a strike, Manager Goldsmith, of the Wilkes-Barre silk mill, discharged a non-union loom fixer. The union men objected to him and said if he remained they would strike.

Schuylkill miners will receive 1 per cent below the $2.50 basis for the latter half of May and the first half of June. This is an increase of 1 per cent over the rate paid last month.

The lease of Kemmerer & Co. for the old Harleigh workings expired on Friday and G. B. Markle & Co. are now in full control. The collieries will be reopened in a few months.

An infant son of Mr. and Mrs. August Brehm, of Upper Lehigh, was buried in the cemetery in that place Thursday evening.

There Not Exaggerated.

R. T. Lyuz, of St. Michael's, Alaska, is at present stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria, and when seen there said:

"No; Nome is not a figment of the imagination, nor are the reports from there exaggerated. Last year the beach sands yielded $1,500,000, and the creek mines $2,500,000. I and my partners own the Eskimo claim on the beach in front of Nome City, and have just received the report of the assayer at San Francisco, to whom I sent some of the sand for analysis. The report shows the presence of 3.02 ounces of gold and 0.98 ounces of silver, worth $62.99 to the ton. This is, of course, exceptionally rich. The sand is covered over with tundra, a species of moss.

"While so far the creek claims have yielded the greater quantity, within five years I believe the beach claims will produce the most gold, for the reason that, while it is not nearly as rich ground to work, there is a great deal more of it. In some places the beach sands are very richly impregnated with gold. Indeed, I have known it to run as high as $100 a rocker, and the 2,000 men who were at work on the beach last year certainly averaged $20 a day each. Cape Nome lies on the peninsula that terminates in Oonaska, and for hundreds of miles the lay of the land there is the same. We do not as yet know how much of this great coast line is gold bearing, but personally I think a large part of it is. The prospector will let us know next year.

"I see Wright, who is Postmaster at Nome City, has stated that the lawless element was so much in evidence there that the peaceably inclined needed governmental protection. That is all right. There is, of course, as in every new mining camp, a lot of scoundrels who occasionally make trouble, but the majority of the population are miners who are strictly honest.

"Last year lumber sold at Cape Nome as high as $200 a thousand feet, which had originally cost not over $15 a thousand, so you can see that money is to be made there in other ways than by mining."—N. Y. Tribune.

The Good Wills defeated the Drifton Jokers yesterday by a score of 12 to 8.
