

Epilepsy

weakens the body and degrades the mind. It saps the nervous strength that is the source of all health, and perverts the functions of every organ. Because of its stubborn nature, it is often called incurable. This is not true. There is one medicine that never fails to check the nervous spasms and give new strength to the entire system.

"Female trouble brought on spasms and epileptic fits, and in one day, I had many as fourteen fits in one day. I had not slept for a week and was out of my mind when I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, but now I am cured."

Killed in the Philippines.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Major General MacArthur called the adjutant general of the army yesterday from Manila that Second Lieutenant William D. Pasco, Company K, Eighteenth Infantry, had been killed at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of Monday, Oct. 29, near Quatero. "Len" Meador and Addison Eneix, privates in the same company, were killed with Lieutenant Pasco. William D. Pasco was the son of ex-United States Senator Samuel Pasco of Florida, now a member of the isthmian canal commission. He was born in Florida on Dec. 14, 1875, and on July 2, 1898, was appointed a second lieutenant in the Third United States volunteer engineers. He served with this regiment part of the time in Cuba until May 17, 1899. On July 1, 1899, he was appointed a second lieutenant in the regular army.

Columbia Defeats Princeton.

New York, Nov. 7.—Nearly 25,000 people saw the opening of the Princeton-Columbia football game at Columbia field, this city, yesterday afternoon. It was a perfect football day. The weather was clear and cool and the gridiron firm and hard. Both teams appeared in the very finest condition. Columbia was hard and tough, and Princeton, in spite of her hard game with Cornell on Saturday, was quick and ready. Columbia appeared to the advantage in the weight, there being a difference of nearly four pounds per man. The start of the game saw Columbia almost continually in Princeton territory, but toward the latter part of the half Princeton seemed to show slightly the better form. The score stood 6 to 5.

Big Fire in Albany.

Albany, Nov. 7.—Fire started at 6:30 last night in the candy factory of Kreischer & Co., and before the firemen could get water on the blaze the immense building, running through a block, was a mass of flames. Next door, on Beaver street, was the Press-Knickerbocker-Express, the oldest established paper in this section of the state. So rapidly did the flames spread that the employees in the building preparing to set up the election returns for the morning paper had to run for their lives. Not anything of value was saved, the Associated Press operator at his key having to leave without his typewriting machine. At 8 o'clock both buildings on fire were gutted, and the loss is entire.

Convent Postoffice Blown Up.

Berlin, Conn., Nov. 7.—The village postoffice here has been blown up by dynamite. The explosion awakened nearly everybody in the village. Those who first reached their windows after the explosion saw burglars dashing into side streets and disappearing in the darkness.

Cuban Convention Adjourns.

Havana, Nov. 7.—The constitutional convention has adjourned until Monday next, when the committees will report. The question of securing other quarters is under consideration owing to the difficulty of hearing the speakers in so large a hall.

John Sabine Smith Dead.

New York, Nov. 7.—John Sabine Smith has died at his home, 1125 Broadway. Mr. Smith was 58 years of age and an able lawyer. He took a great interest in municipal affairs and was long identified with Republican politics.

SELECTIONS

TRAMPS' FAVORITE JAILS.

Part of the Industry Is to Find Acceptable Winter Quarters.

"It's very funny how the professional tramp will locate good and bad jails, with a view to spending as comfortable a winter as possible," said the sheriff of a neighboring parish who has had an extended experience with the hobo fraternity. "You know how an epileptic in a big city will hunt for quiet, out of the way restaurants and when he finds one that is really excellent how he will hide the discovery from his friends, for fear that popularity will deteriorate the service. Well, it's exactly the same way with tramps. They all calculate on spending the most inclement part of each winter in jail, and during their summer wanderings they endeavor to locate some 'easy' institution where they will be well fed and warmed and not expected to do any work. When such a place is found, the secret is carefully guarded, so the jailer's heart will not be hardened by too many calls on his hospitality.

"Last month I had a typical educated hobo on my hands for a 15 days' sojourn, and he unfolded his winter programme in an amusing fashion. He said he had two jails located as desirable cold weather quarters, one in southern California and the other in a small town in Florida. 'I don't know anything personally about the Florida joint,' he said, 'but the last four tramps I've met from that country all warned me as a friend to give the town a wide berth. I judge from such soliloquy,' he added, 'that the jailer there is dead soft and gives pie at least once a week.' The California lockup was in a small place, as I ascertained, avoided by wayfarers on account of the bad reputation of a former sheriff. 'The bums don't know that he is dead yet,' said my guest, 'and I am doing my best to keep the sad news from reaching their ears. The present incumbent is a peach—no work, three meals a day and plum pudding on Sundays.' The jails that are regarded as especial 'soft snaps' are generally in remote country districts, out of the beaten track of tramps. The hobo who is yearning for winter shelter will get himself arrested by committing some petty misdemeanor or is often treated more as a guest than a prisoner by his kind hearted captors. The location of such a refuge is a valuable trade secret.

"Sometimes, however, the wanderers make painful blunders, as was the case a few years ago when a small army of vagabonds poured into a town in Pennsylvania which had enjoyed a past reputation for extraordinary leniency. During the summer a new vagrancy statute had gone into effect, and every man arrested was given a year at hard labor in the state penitentiary. My educated hobo was one of the victims and shuddered whenever he recalled the experience. He regarded it as a gross violation of the sacred laws of hospitality."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Foiled the Judge, but It Didn't Pay.

Andrew Reichle, who lives in the neighborhood of Ninth and Norris streets, adopted a remarkably diplomatic way of getting a dime for a drink the other day. He went to Magistrate Ackerman and said:

"Judge, I have been on a spree, and I want to break it off. Send me to the house of correction, will you? I can't get my train. I'll stay till I feel like a man again, and then I'll leave and go to work."

The magistrate, moved by the apparent sincerity of the supplicant, made out a commitment paper and gave it to the man, along with 10 cents for car fare to the house of correction. After expressing thanks profusely Reichle departed and made haste for the nearest saloon.

Constable Scheiber followed him and caught him in the act of swallowing a glass of whisky. "Come with me," the constable said, and Reichle tossed off the glass and returned again to the courtroom. He was upbraided there for his duplicity and sentenced to three months in jail.—Philadelphia Record.

Oranges Under Tents in Florida.

One of the latest and certainly the most curious devices adopted by orange growers in Florida is that of a tent which is designed to cover and protect the trees. The tent will be waterproof, so that it can be used from year to year and will admit the sunshine on one side while it keeps out frosty winds on the other. In each tent will be an oil lamp for heating. One of the government's devices to give warning of an approaching cold wave is particularly ingenious. Malls travel slowly in some of the less thickly populated districts, so the engineers of express trains are required to blow their whistles six times in every three miles to give warning of the coming of bad weather.—New York Tribune.

Operation Resulted in Death.

The Brazilian surgeon who performed the operation separating the twins Maria and Rosalina has got himself into trouble. The children were so closely joined that they had one pericardium and two livers grown together. One twin, Maria, died, while Rosalina survives, "although a little lopsided as the result of the operation." The surgeon, although a famous man who acted in strictly good faith, has been indicted for murder. The doctors all sympathize with him, for he performed the operation from motives of philanthropy, but he is charged with not observing the proper precautions, and it is asserted that Maria died from blood poisoning.—Mexico Herald.

As abrupt Proposal.

The reported fashion of the famous Dr. Abernethy's courtship and marriage is very characteristic. It is told that while attending a lady for several weeks he observed these admirable qualifications in her daughter which he truly esteemed to render the married state happy. Accordingly on a Saturday, taking leave of his patient, he addressed her to the following purport:

"You are now so well that I need not see you after Monday next, when I shall come and pay you a farewell visit. But in the meantime I wish you and your daughter to seriously consider the proposal I am about to make. It is abrupt and unceremonious, I am aware, but the excessive occupation of my time by my professional duties affords me no leisure to accomplish what I desire by the more ordinary course of attention and solicitation. My annual receipts amount to £—, and I can settle £— on my wife. My character is generally known to the public, so that you may readily ascertain what it is. I have seen in your daughter a tender and affectionate child, an assiduous and careful nurse and a gentle and ladylike member of a family. Such a person must be all that a husband could covet, and I offer my hand and fortune for her acceptance. On Monday when I call I shall expect your determination, for I really have not time for the routine of courtship."

In this manner the lady was wooed and won, and it may be added the union was felicitous in every respect.

How Li "Worked" Two Machines.

With a seeming innocence that would have done justice to Ah Sin, the Heathen Chinese, Li Hung Chang appeared to display the greatest interest in the sewing machines' at an exhibition in Edinburgh he visited when in Great Britain several years ago.

His excellency's first question was how long it would take for the sewing machine at which he had sat down to do a certain distance—seemingly confusing the mechanical stitchee with a lady's safety at the next stand.

Without waiting for any reply to his query or further ceremony Li started sewing a little seam. Nor did he do it badly, a fact which made him seem delighted as a child. For some time the vicerey continued his hemming and, though got away at length by his attendants, immediately sat down at the next machine and insisted on working it.

"What is the price?" asked Li at length.

"Your excellency shall have it as a gift," was the reply of the exhibitors. "Then I don't want it in that case," observed the simple and bland Li, "because I require two, one for myself and the other for the empress." And he had them.

What the Barber Said.

"To shave a man at home," said a barber, "I charge a quarter, but to shave a dead man half a dollar is the price. About a tenth of my private customers are women."

"I shave at their houses six or seven women every day. I don't know why it is some women have beards. It is very distressing to them, and they shave close and often. It is their only remedy. The electric needle is no good for them, you see, because their beards are so thick that it would take a lifetime for the operator to go over their faces and pluck each hair out separately, as must be done in the electric depilating system."

"Beards only grow on old women. They are one of the feminine disfigurements of age. It is the same trouble, I suppose, as that which affects old men. Old men, you know, have thick growths of hair in their nostrils and ears that must be cut out weekly, and their eyebrows if not regularly trimmed would grow to two or three inches."—Philadelphia Record.

She Was "Founded."

Netta was a little girl who lived in a foundling asylum, a place where homeless children without relatives are cared for.

A visitor who often came to the foundling had taken a great fancy to Netta. It was the birthday of Muriel, the lady's little girl, and permission was asked for Netta to take tea with Muriel.

As it was Muriel's birthday Netta wished to be very nice to her. At the same time Netta felt she had an advantage over Muriel, for it was not every one who lived in a foundling hospital.

"You were born, Muriel?" she asked. Muriel nodded and smiled.

Up went Netta's head a little higher. "It is so common to be born," she said. "I was founded!"—Exchange.

A Village of Lunatics.

Laos, in Cochinchina, is, according to Dr. Lefevre, a village of out and out fools or lunatics. A common form of mania with them is to believe they have a buffalo in the stomach. Hopeless cases of this delusion, or "pipop," as they are called, are thrown into the water and if they save themselves are accounted free from the possession.

The Ladies' Gallery.

It is not perhaps generally known that an order for the withdrawal of strangers from the English house of commons does not extend to the ladies' gallery, which is not supposed to be within the house. Ladies can therefore only be informed of the subject of debate and left to withdraw or not at their own discretion.

Chance For Him at Home.

Psulger (the eminent pugilist, in a high state of indignation)—He offers me $5,000 if I'll lay down in the fit' round! I'll show 'im, by George, I'm a gentleman!

Mrs. Psulger—What's the matter with trying to show me you're a gentleman?—Chicago Tribune.

BREVITIES

PERSONALITIES.

Judge Reuben D. Silliman, second circuit judge in Hawaii, has resigned because of the inadequacy of the salary.

William C. Dodge, the newly appointed assistant superintendent of the public schools of Chicago, is a member of the historical Dodge family of Salem, Mass.

B. L. Winchel, the new president of the Fort Scott and Memphis railway, entered the employ of that company 20 years ago as a clerk in the passenger department.

The late Felix Marchand, the prime minister of the province of Quebec, who died the other day, was colonel of a Canadian regiment which served against the Fenian raiders in 1870.

Prince Henry of Prussia has been studying sculpture and, with the assistance of Professor Wilhelm Haun of Berlin, has designed and modeled the figurehead for the new cruiser Prince Henry.

Major Marchand is to be accorded an honor which is not usually bestowed by France on her great men until after their death. The list of the streets of Paris will include in future a Rue du Commandant Marchand.

William A. Clark, the copper king, recently had himself photographed in the costume of one of the ancient kings of Ulster, from whom he is descended. No copies of the picture have, however, been made public.

The Prince of Wales recently said of President Loubet of France: "I like him much better than I did M. Faure. M. Loubet has the air of being a good citizen, which he ought to be. M. Faure put on the airs of a sovereign, which he was not."

One of the diversions of the late Judge Haskell of the Maine supreme court was the study of mechanics, and in his hours of recreation he constructed several model steam engines in a machine shop which he had fitted up for his own amusement.

Alexander Ramsey, the first territorial governor of Minnesota, the first mayor of St. Paul, ex-senator and former secretary of war, has refused persistently to add to the biographical notes he has already made public, although he has received many flattering offers from magazine editors.

Walter Houston, an old soldier who died recently in Utica, Wis., bequeathed $12,000 to the Veterans' Home at Waupun, Wis. He visited the home some time ago disguised as a tramp soldier, and he was so kindly treated that he determined to remember the institution substantially when he died.

To all parties alike, to Tories, Unionists, Liberals and Nationalists, among the members of the house of commons themselves, except one man, Mr. Chamberlain is invariably known as Joe and is never heard of by his full name. The one man who breaks this rule speaks of the colonial secretary as Joey.

STAGE GLINTS.

Pauline Hall is to be seen all this season in vaudeville.

M. Sardou's income from royalties on his plays is computed to be $150,000 a year.

Karl Goldmark is putting the last touches to his opera "Goetz von Berlichingen."

Glen Macdonough's new play for Miss May Irwin has been named "The Belle of Bridgeport."

Maude Adams will appear in "L'Aiglon" at the Knickerbocker theater, New York, in November.

Mme. Patti's favorite poet is Longfellow, her favorite novelist Dickens, and her favorite pastime entertaining her friends.

Mascagni says that he is composing an opera with Julius Caesar for its hero to a libretto written by Gabriel d'Annunzio.

The custom still prevails in English theaters of charging for a programme. Two or three London theaters are the only exceptions.

Eight horses are used in the chariot race in "Ben-Hur." Two whites and two blacks are driven by Messala and four Arabian bays by Ben-Hur.

A first folio Shakespeare is said to have been discovered recently in an obscure Yorkshire village. It was sold unnoted among other books belonging to an old yeoman family.

Lucky Baldwin is trying at Nome to justify his nickname by retrieving his broken fortune. One of his ventures there is a music hall of the mining town kind, with vaudeville on the stage every night from 9 o'clock till 2, and dancing on the main floor from that time till daylight.

APHORISMS.

Knowledge is the eye of the soul.—T. Watson.

Every man stamps his value on himself.—Schiller.

Gratitude is the music of the heart.—Robert South.

We get out of nature what we carry to her.—Hagar.

No capital earns such interest as personal culture.

Genius is nothing but labor and diligence.—Hogarth.

Cheerfulness is the best promoter of health.—Addison.

Candor looks with equal fairness at both sides of a subject.—Noah Webster.

Demonstrated Facts.

For many reasons you will find this a good store in which to do your trading. Good merchandise rightly bought and honestly priced always finds a ready market. We give a wide berth to jobby, side-tracked, trashy truck. Our buyers will have none of it. This is highly complimentary to your intelligence, and strongly suggests a knowledge of true economy. Newest and best of the season's products here, all priced with absolute fairness.

Seasonable Underwear.

It's high time you bought your heavier underwear. Devoe, the weather prophet, says winter will be here in real earnest by November 8, so be prepared. We've been ready for you for several weeks. Never was our stock so extensive, never was it more reliable, never better in all the requirements in cotton, silk, silk mixtures, wool and merino, the best of them all, made into comfortable, good-looking, long-wearing garments, that ought to command bigger prices than we ask—and generally do command them. We can verify all we say by examination. The stock is complete.
