Child Fatally Burned.

As the result of the exploding of a coal oil lamp, Mamie Milan, 14 years old, is lead at East Mauch Chunk, and the cirl's mother is so badly injured and burned that her death is momentarily expected. The women of the house were sewing and Mrs. Milan knocked the lamp over. She asked her daughter o grasp the lamp, and as the child did ner mother's bidding it exploded, completely covering and saturating herebothes with the oil, which instantly ook fire.

In her fright and terrible agony the girl ran into the yard, where her mother, who followed, caught her and clasped her in her arms. At this moment the flames of the girl's clothing shot up as high as the second-story window of the house.

The body of the daughter was almost burned to a crisp and the mother was so severely injured by the flames that she cannot recover.
