The remedies they think best suited to the needs of their patients. When the disease is of a nervous nature, with headache, sick stomach, failing appetite, indigestion, restlessness, loss of sleep and a general run-down condition, a nerve tonic and brain food is an absolute necessity. The best of all remedies for weak, debilitated, exhausted nerves—best for the doctor to prescribe and best for the patient to take—is that incomparable restorative,

"Several years ago I had a very severe attack of nervous prostration. The strain and weakness were so great at times that I thought I should never recover. A good friend of mine, an analytical chemist, induced me to try Dr. Miles' Nervine, which I did. The good results were apparent after the second dose, and I kept on taking the medicine until I was well and sound as ever."

S'SH SLEEP AT LAST
LAXAKOLA DOES IT

NO ONE BUT A MOTHER can appreciate the benefit that sounds refreshing sleep gives to an ailing, teething, feverish, colicky, fretful infant. Almost distracted by its constant crying, and worn out with weary, anxious care and watching, she tries everything possible to obtain even relief for the little sufferer.

With what comfort and delight she sees her little one drop off into a deep peaceful health-giving slumber, after its little clogged bowels are cleared of their poisonous burden by a single dose of Laxakola, the great tonic laxative and mother's remedy.

Laxakola is a pure, gentle and painless liquid laxative, and contains valuable tonic properties which not only act upon the bowels, but tone up the entire system and purify the blood. A few drops can be given with safety to very young babies, which will often relieve colic by expelling the wind and gas that cause it. Great relief is experienced when administered to young children suffering from diarrhoea, accompanied with white or green evacuations, as it neutralizes the acidity of the bowels and carries out the cause of the fermentation. LAXAKOLA will aid digestion, relieve restlessness, assist nature, and induce sleep. For constipation, simple fever, coated tongue, or any infantile troubles arising from a disordered condition of the stomach, it is invaluable.

Laxakola, the great tonic laxative, is not only the most efficient of family remedies, but the most economical, because it combines two medicines, a laxative and tonic, and at one price. No other remedy gives so much for the money. At druggists, 25¢ and 50¢; or sent for free sample to THE LAXAKOLA CO., 432 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 337 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

The prospects are this year favorable for two and perhaps three American crews going to England to compete in the Henley race for eights. There is a project being successfully urged at the University of Pennsylvania to send the first eight to the English Thames. The Dauntless Rowing club of New York is also considering the advisability of sending its senior eight abroad to the Henley races. At a dinner held in New York the chances of raising the necessary funds were talked over and considered very good. The success of the Vesper eight at Paris last year has fired the Dauntless club with a desire for international honors.

CAPTAIN FLICKER OF THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

If the Dauntless club sends a crew, it is probable that the Vesper Boat club of Philadelphia will do likewise. While the Philadelphians are not so sanguine of success as the Dauntless club members, they believe their crew better than that of the Dauntless.

It has been suggested, and many rowing enthusiasts view the idea kindly, that an American race be held between the clubs along the Harlem river to determine which eight is best fitted to represent America in England. This would furnish a great contest, but accomplish little more. It is not proposed to offer as a prize the eight's expenses abroad. If the crew is to be sent, the cost will fall upon private individuals willing to subscribe to the fund for the good of the sport. If there are enough of these in the Dauntless club, the propriety of its sending a crew abroad ought not to be questioned. Coach Ellis Ward of the University of Pennsylvania believes he can send an eight to Henley that will be a factor in the races. The conditions at Pennsylvania favor the sending of a crew this year. There is material enough in the university for three crews. It would be necessary to have all three if the first crew is to go to Henley. A crew must be sent to Poughkeepsie and a "second" crew to Ithaca.

The only drawback to the scheme at Pennsylvania is the cost of sending the crew abroad. It is estimated that $5,000 will be needed. All of this will have to be raised outside the Athletic association. An informal meeting of some of Pennsylvania's old supporters was held recently. The meeting came to the conclusion that the plan of sending the crew abroad is thoroughly feasible.

TOO MUCH ENERGY.

Two Views of What "Economists" Call "Overproduction."

"We have had times in this country as a result of the tremendous energy of our people. This energy must be given a vent some way or other, and one of the results is overproduction."

"If we could get something to keep this industrial energy within bounds, it seems to us it would have a very wholesome effect."

The above is some of the testimony given before the Industrial Commission by Thomas S. Green, vice president of the Audit company of New York. When reading it, I wondered if he knew that the workers who are using all this energy only receive wages sufficient to pay for 10 or 20 per cent of what is charged at retail for what they have produced.

The workers are unable to purchase more goods than they have money to pay for, so we see the spectacle of the rich man who has the white man's burden on his back, having soldiers sent to the Philippines and China to force our products upon the poor heathen while the brothers and sisters of the same soldiers are suffering for the want of the things that our energy has created. Mr. Green thinks that monopoly will solve the problem because monopoly can limit the production, but he does not remember that monopoly at the same time limits the consumption.

Personally I believe that the trusts are solving the problem between capital and labor, though not by any means as Mr. Green thinks it is being accomplished. When all our industries are organized into trusts, as they will be inside of five years, and the whole people work for the lowest wages they can exist upon for the exclusive benefit of a few rich men, then they will conclude it is just as well to own the trusts themselves. When they do come to that conclusion, they will take these trusts. We shall see the wildest Utopian dreams of Bellamy realized. Let me quote some statistics from the United States labor commissioner as published in the thirteenth annual labor report.

The following is the labor time required to produce each article:

Minutes.
1 peck of onions.....	15
15 pounds of rice.....	4
1 barrel of flour.....	6
1 best house broom.....	60
50 pounds soap.....	16
8 day clock, fine brass case.....	80
Finest pair men's shoes.....	180
Finest pair ladies' shoes.....	120
Total.....	466

Or less than eight hours.

Here is what a moderate day's pay for work under the private ownership of industries will buy at present retail prices, taken from the same records. Can you discover where the difference goes?

1 peck of onions.....	$ 40
5 pounds rice.....	50
1 broom (best).....	50
8 bars soap (large).....	21
25 pounds good flour.....	60
Total.....	$2 01

Which is more money than the average wage worker receives, and he is out of work on an average one-third of the time because he has made so much goods. My fellow wage workers, you must look into this.

HOWARD H. CALDWELL.

The Banner Town.

Streator, Ills., is the best organized town in the United States from a trade union standpoint.

The city is so well unionized that at the present time it is impossible for a man or woman to work on any job, skilled or unskilled, without first being admitted to membership in some labor organization.

A striking feature about Streator is the great success of the Federal Labor union. This union numbers about 800 members and includes all wage workers who are not members of any regular national union. It includes day laborers, hodcarriers, teamsters, etc., who have not a sufficiently large number for a separate trade local. The most recent acquisition of the Federal union is that of all of the unskilled labor in the large glass works of Streator.

Following the organization of the Federal union as a branch of the American Federation of Labor the minimum scale for unskilled labor was raised from $1 and $1.25 a day to $1.65 for men. The union has two business agents, who give all of their time to the organization.

Streator is a mining center and has a large union of mine workers. The unions are active in local politics and have already elected members to the municipal board of aldermen who are independent of the regular parties.—Professor John R. Commons.

The Printers' Agreement.

The arbitration plan which has just been indorsed by the American Newspaper Publishers' association is a somewhat radical departure for the employers from previous methods, although the International Typographical union has been pledged to arbitration for years.

Many nonunion newspapers refuse to unionize only because of lack of knowledge of the typographical union, which, to their minds, is synonymous with the word strike. If they can be convinced of the fallacy of this belief, our cause is more than half won. An opportunity to clear up this misunderstanding presents itself in the proposed arbitration plan, and I am confident that if it is indorsed by our referendum many nonunion establishments will be added to the union list.

I realize that the new plan is not perfect, but I believe that as an initial effort it comes nearer perfection than any similar document. Its conditions will become apparent when it is put into operation and can be easily remedied if necessary. It is operative for one year and can then be renewed, both parties agreeing.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR.

"Beautiful scenery here, is it not?" asked the young man of a solitary traveler whom he found pacing along the seashore.

"Well, no," replied the stranger. "I can't agree with you. I think the ocean is too small. It is no such ocean as my mother used to have."

"Your mother's ocean was superior, then?"

"Oh, yes; vastly superior. What tumbling breakers! What a magnificent sweep of view! What amplitude of distance! What fishing there was in my mother's ocean!"

"But the sky is magnificent here, is it not, sir?"

"Too low and too narrow across the top," replied the stranger.

"I haven't noticed it," said the young man.

"Yes," said the stranger; "it is too low, and there isn't air enough in it, either. Besides, it doesn't sit plump over the earth; it is wider from north to south than it is from west to east. I call it a pretty poor sky. It is no such sky as my mother used to have."

"Pardon me, but did your mother have a special sky and ocean of her own?"

"But here an old resident came up and drew the young man aside.

"Don't talk to him," said the old resident. "He is a hopeless lunatic. He is a man who always used to tell his wife about the biscuits my mother used to make, 'my mother's pies,' 'my mother's puddings' and 'my mother's coffee.' The habit grew on him so much that he became a confirmed lunatic."—London Tit-Bits.
