Strikers Return to Work.

The striking boiler-makers at Drifton returned to work this morning. They struck for twelve hours pay when employed at work which compelled them to spend twelve hours in the company's service. They were offered eleven and one-half hours, an increase of one and one-half over the previous time allowed, but did not accept. They have since reconsidered their refusal of the compromise offer, and this morning the men returned in a body to their work.

NEW FISH LAW.

Radical Changes Made in the Statute Relating to Game Fish.

Last week Governor Stone signed a bill passed by the legislature which makes radical changes in the fish law of the state. The act became effective at once, and its provisions are so stringent that all persons who fish will do well to acquaint themselves with the more important sections of this law, else they may unknowingly violate the act and be arrested and heavily fined.

The new law is the result of several years labor on the part of Pennsylvania fishermen, or rather of those who desire to see the game fish of the state fully protected. The members of the Freeland Game and Fish Protective Association are very much pleased with the law, as they have had incorporated into the act many of the suggestions they made to the State Fish Commission.

The act signed by the governor last

It is unlawful to purchase, sell or offer for sale any dead game or food fish, except during the open season and six days thereafter. Fine, $10 for each fish. Explosives are strictly prohibited from use in fishing: nor can they be used in any waters of the state for any but ongineering purposes, and then only with written permission from the authorities. Fine, $100 and six months imprisonment. For planting German carp or using this fish for bait, $100 fine.

The Fish Commission, after stocking a stream, may close the same for three years. Catching fish in such stream costs $10 per fish.

Possession of fishes out of season, or illegal size, or illegal nets, is considered prima facie evidence of guilt.

Arrests for violation of the law may be made at any time within one year after.

One-half of all fines paid by persons

The new law provides a more

The new law provides a more efficient system of enforcement than was furnished by the act it succeeds. The present Fish Commissioners are retained, and they are authorized to appoint and fix the salaries of twelve wardens, the chief warden to reside in Harrisburg. The wardens will be distributed throughout the state, each being assigned to a clearly defined district. The real value of the law as a protection to the game and food fish of the state will be determined by the efficiency and activity of these by the efficiency and activity of these wardens.

The chief defect of the old law war presented this morning to the Drifton company by several of the employes of the shops. The men feel that they should receive as good treatment as is given employes of similars.
