Fine Oration Delivered by Hon. John Field, of Philadelphia--A Number Prizes Awarded.

Prizes Awarded.

At the Grand opera house on Wednesday evening the annual closing exercises of the Mining and Mechanical Institute took place before a large audience. Hon. George D. McCreary, of Philadelphia, acted in his usual cheerful manner as chairman and several selections were rendered by St. Ann's band.

The features of the evening were the address of Hon. John Field, the valedictory of Patrick Dever and the awarding of the prizes by Prof. E. F. Hanlon.

Mr. Field's Founder's Day address was as good a half-hour's talk as the people of town have had the pleasure of hearing for some time. His references to the late Eckley B. Coxe were well received.

to the late Eckley B. Coxe were well received.

Mr. Dever, in his valedictory, did exceptionally well, and merited the generous applause accorded him.

The several pupils who took part in the program were up to the usual standard which the public has come to expect from M. & M. pupils, this being especially true of the very young boys who participated. Among these Edward McHugh deserves particular mention.

Prof. Hanlon, just before the close, awarded the following cash prizes on behalf of the directors:
Condy Gallagher, $20; Arthur Lewis, $10; James Gallagher, $20; Master Edward McHugh, $10; James Boner, $15; ward McHugh, $10; James Boner, $15; John Ondeck, $15; Charles Yoch, $15; Patrick Dever, $20.

Status of Miners' Bills.

The legislative committee of anthra-ite coal miners, who have been urging the passage of several bills in their nerest through the legislature, have nade a final effort to get the senate committee on mines and mining to report to the senate the three mining bills that are still in that committee.

This effort was made in the shape of a letter to each senator asking that the committee be discharged from further consideration of the bills. In order to make their position stronger, the legislative committee of the miners has re-
