SECOND WEEK OF SHOP STRIKE

Men Who Were Working
Induced to Quit.

Both Sides Making Strong
Efforts to Gain Ground.
Strikers Steadily Gaining.
Situation Today.

The strike of the Drifton mechanics entered upon its second week today. The strikers have made many gains the past few days by the addition of those who continued to work. They were met by the strikers and induced to quit. No further breaks from the ranks are expected to occur. The strikers have the sympathy of the people and by their peaceable actions hope to merit it. The men are determined and confident of winning and the efforts of the management to create distrust and disunion among them have proved failures.

Saturday the company posted the following notice at Drifton:

"Notice.—In view of the permanent closing of the Stockton breaker, and the subsequent closing of the mines, and further, the policy of restricting the work at the Drifton shops to the needs of Cox Brothers and Company, Incorporated, only, you are hereby notified that a general re-arrangement of forces will be put in effect at said shops.

To carry out this scheme, it has been decided to permanently close the foundry and pattern shop, to dispense, generally, with the services of apprentices, in all shops; to contract all painting, all moulding work, and all other machine work and blacksmith work, except emergency jobs.

We will, therefore, receive applications for employment of twenty-five (25) machinists and ten (10) machinists helpers, under forty-five years of age; married men preferred, eight (8) blacksmiths and (10) blacksmiths helpers; eighteen (18) car repairers and seven (7) carpenters; (10) boiler-makers and five (5) boiler-makers helpers; and eight (8) apprentices, to be distributed between the different shops.

Painters, moulders, pattern-makers and fancy carpenters not wanted.

Coxe Brothers & Company, Inc." The notice is looked upon as another bluff for which the Drifton company is becoming notorious.

The condition of machinery and other matters at Drifton which required the attention of the strikers when at work is fast becoming dilapidated.

The Coxo residences at Drifton, at which repairs were being made by workmen from Philadelphia when the strike was declared are in an unfinished state. The workmen refused to continue work after the strike was declared and returned to Philadelphia.

It is the opinion of many that the strike cannot last much longer and a move on the part of the company towards a settlement is looked for in a short time.

FREE BRIDGES.

Preamble and Resolution Presented to the Commissioners by Its Advocates.

A large delegation of members of the Free Bridge Association called upon the county commissioners last week to see what they intend doing with reference to the report of the grand jury that the toll bridges of the county shall be freed. The officers of the association were also present and the subject was discussed with the commissioners. The latter stated that they had decided upon no course of procedure and knew not what effect the law would have in case they should refuse to free the bridges. If, however, the law is mandatory, they supposed there would be no other course but to act. The following paper was then presented to the commissioners:

"We herewith present to you the following resolution passed this 18th day of June, 1901, in the orphans' court room in the court house of Luzerne county by the Free Bridge and Free Road Association of said county:

"Whereas, Over 200 citizens and taxpayers of Luzerne County have petitioned to have the river toll bridges over the Susquehanna river in said county appropriated by said county and made free; and

"Whereas, with the exception of those directly interested in said bridges, public sentiment is in favor of having said bridges freed from toll; and

"Whereas, Pursuant to said sentiment, the grand jury of said county, without a dissenting voice, approved the taking of said bridges, as provided by the act of assembly of 1899, P. L. 231; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That it is the duty of the county commissioners to forthwith enter upon and take said bridges, according to the provisions of said act.

The resolutions are signed by Rush Trecott, chairman; G. N. McAlarney, secretary, and many members of the association.
