

The sovereign has never been a popular coin in India. Among the wealthier natives who have not yet learned to trust the yellow metal as currency the idea of turning a sovereign into ornaments, such as earrings and brooches, has recently become a fad.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!
Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich, nutty brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. $\frac{3}{4}$ the price of coffee, 15 and 25c. per package. Sold by all grocers.

The largest landowner in England proper is the Duke of Northumberland, who possesses 150,000 acres, mainly, of course, in the county from which he takes his title, and he is the only one of these twenty-eight great lords who has not an acre either in Scotland or Ireland. The largest landlord in Ireland is Marquis Conyngham, who owns 150,000 acres; in Wales, Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, whose acres amount to 145,000.

There is a Class of People
Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called Grain-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over $\frac{3}{4}$ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15c. and 25c. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Much has lately been written of Edward VII.'s connection with certain leading Jewish families of London. In 1881 he was the first member of an English royal family to attend a Jewish wedding. This was at the Central Synagogue, when Leopold de Rothschild married Miss Marie Perugin. He also witnessed the marriage contract together with Baron Alphonse de Rothschild.

WOMEN MUST SLEEP.

Avoid Nervous Prostration.

If you are dangerously sick what is the first duty of your physician? He quiets the nervous system, he deadens the pain, and you sleep well.

Friends ask, "what is the cause?" and the answer comes in pitying tones, nervous prostration. It came upon you so quietly in the beginning, that you were not alarmed, and when sleep deserted you night after night until your eyes fairly burned in the darkness, then you tossed in nervous agony praying for sleep.

Mrs. A. HARTLEY.
You ought to have known that when you ceased to be regular in your courses, and you grew irritable without cause, that there was serious trouble somewhere.

You ought to know that indigestion, exhaustion, womb displacements, fainting, dizziness, headache, and backache send the nerves wild with affliction, and you cannot sleep.

Mrs. Hartley, of 321 W. Congress St., Chicago, Ill., whose portrait we publish, suffered all these agonies, and was entirely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; her case should be a warning to others, and her cure carry conviction to the minds of every suffering woman of the unfailing efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Glasgow's Tall Chimneys.
Glasgow, Scotland, has the highest chimneys in the world. One of these—the Townsend shaft at Port Dundas—has a total height of 468 feet, with a diameter at the base of 32 feet, and at the top of 13 feet 4 inches. The structure weighs about 8,000 tons. The other stack—that at St. Rollox, Glasgow—has a total height of 445 feet and 6 inches, with a diameter at the base of 50 feet and at the top of 13 feet 6 inches. There is a chimney at Cologne which is 441 feet high, with a diameter at the square base of 39 feet, and at the round top of 11 feet 6 inches. Its weight is about 5,500 tons. Another towering chimney is at the Royal Smelting works, near Freiberg, in Saxony. It is built up to the top of a hill, where it stands isolated, and is 469 feet high. The most costly chimney in the world is in Bradford, Eng., at the famous Manningham mills. The shaft is a remarkable structure, architecturally, and is the most prominent feature in the landscape. It is 256 feet 6 inches high, and 21 feet square. It contains 8,000 tons of material and cost $300,000. A peculiarity of this shaft is that it is as broad at the top as it is at the bottom, but the interior is wider at the summit than at the base, the dimensions being 13 feet and 10 feet, respectively. In addition to possessing the most expensive chimney, Bradford has the gloomy distinction of having experienced the most terrible chimney disaster on record—that of the Newlands mills.

The habit of drinking petroleum is spreading to an alarming extent in many districts in France. It has apparently been prevalent for some considerable time without being recognized, and is quite as persistent a habit as alcoholism. Though petroleum does not make the drinker brutal, but morose, there is no doubt that, so far as the victim of the vice himself is concerned, it is even more deadly than ordinary drunkennes.

A Pleasant Fad.
An attractive fashion among the smart men of New York is the sending of dainty hampers of fruit to their masculine friends on feast days and holidays. The wicker hampers are very pretty and are filled most attractively with luscious fruits which nestle amid the green leaves of soft smilax and other foliage. In addition to sending flowers to the friends who are going to cross the briny deep Dame Fashion dispatches fruit. The flowers fade, but the fruit will last until the journey ends, and even in sickness fruits can be eaten often when nothing else can. So the luscious product of Pomona is packed in dainty baskets and sent to convey sweet messages and kind wishes for bon voyage.

WILES OF PIGEON-THIEVES.

One Way of Increasing the Stock of a Fancier.

Pigeon-raising would seem to the casual observer a business of more or less pastoral nature, and not of a sort to be obviously connected with theft and the police courts; but recent discoveries of certain methods indulged in by some people on the lower East Side have dispelled the belief that they have any great amount of pastoral simplicity. Among the various foreign colonies pigeon-raising has become a favorite pursuit, and many are the large flocks of pigeons which are to be seen settling down to a white cloud on the roofs of the lofty tenements in the lower districts.

The very increase in the business has given rise to a unique, if reprehensible, way of adding to the flocks of birds—that is, by making one's own flock attract the strangers, until they can be caught and caged. The plan of the pigeon-thief is this: He goes to the roof of his apartment-house armed with a long pole, which does not alarm the denizens of his own aviary; when an alien flock appears, he struts up his birds till they fly off in the air.

Here begins the excitement. It is a trial of strength between the two flocks. The battle is to the strong, and if the new flock, which is dipping and turning and hesitating, greeting with friendly pecks and bird-chatter the birds which have been beaten up to meet them, is not of a resisting nature, in a short time their numbers are absorbed by the "runners." The two flocks then attempt to settle down in a friendly way upon the home roof of the first flock.

This the owner does not allow, knowing he could never catch them so. He beats them off with his pole again and again. The poor pigeons fly distractedly about until, out of pure exhaustion, panting and confused, they are ready to fall. Then the captor scatters grain on his roof, and while the weary birds eat, he catches them and puts them in a coop.

The owner of the lost flock, finding they do not return to him, hunts about where his birds are. By paying 50 or 60 cents apiece for the trapped pigeons, he can get them out of the "pigeon-pound." Recently a little East Sider boasted that he had just earned $6 by giving up 10 pigeons he had caught in this way. Although the scheme is generally known, few injured owners seek legal redress; they prefer rather to "get it back" on some other fancier.—New York Post.

Not What He Needed.
A Walnut Hill resident made up his mind a few days ago to begin taking ice from the local ice trust. Having various brands of bottled goods in his refrigerator, he thought it best to have the ice man leave the ice on the back porch. Accordingly he came down town one morning, and dropping into a hardware store, purchased a pair of ice tongs.

"I'm going to carry my own ice into the house and put it into my refrigerator," he said in explanation of his purchase.

Two or three days later he again entered the store, bringing the ice tongs with him. Walking up to the clerk who had sold him the tongs, the man said:

"Say, I made a mistake when I bought these things. I don't need a pair of ice tongs; what I need is a sponge."—Omaha World-Herald.

France and Our Apples.
France is about to follow in the wake of England in taking to the American apple. Happily, however, that does not mean that we shall suffer any diminution in the quantity we annually get, which has risen to 2,000,000 barrels in a season. The American yield has been as much as 210,000,000 barrels in a season. Indeed, it is probable that the whole of Europe could be supplied without any great difficulty, seeing that every winter from 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 barrels of apples are carried in cold storage in the United States.—London Chronicle.

So far as a "finished" education is concerned, the girls seem to be getting the better of the boys. In 1899 the public high schools of the United States graduated 20,344 boys and 36,124 girls. The explanation is offered that the boys are taken from school earlier than the girls and are put to work.
