A Cruel Blender.
Two brothers had the habit of calling on the same South Side girl. One of the brothers, George, was to take part in some private theatricals, and the girl had promised to fix up a shirt and a pair of shoes for his costume. The articles were to be delivered to her on a certain evening.
Frank, the second brother, took it in to his head to call on the girl that same evening. Frank knew nothing of the arrangements George had made with her to help him with his costume. He rang the bell, asked the maid to tell the girl that Mr. Allen had called and sat down in the parlor.
The maid went up stairs and presently returned, trying hard not to smile.
"Miss Jones says she is busy just now and that you are to send up your shirt and shoes," was the message she handed Frank.
"What?" he yelled.
"I'm to take up your shirt and shoes."
"Thanks, but I may need them myself to go home with. I hope Miss Jones will be better in the morning. Never mind; I will close the door myself."—Chicago Chronicle.

Where He Failed.
The young man drew himself up to his full height.
"I have," he cried, "an unsullied character, an ardent heart, a versatile mind and strenuous biceps."
The young girl yawned and seemed interested.
He was quick to push his advantage.
"I am the possessor of a town and country house, a yacht, a stable of thoroughbreds and a box at the opera."
She hesitated, and a slight flush betrayed that she was listening.
"I have got," he continued, with a certain fierceness, "30 servants, 40 pairs of trousers, 50 ancestors, three automobiles, six prize bull pups and an army commission."
Ah, she had found her tongue at last! "And how many golf medals?" she asked.
The young man shuddered.
He felt that he had lost. He had played nervily and high, but she was above his limit.—Judge.

They Like Fat Girls in Tents.
A Tunisian girl has no chance of marriage unless she tips the scale at 200 pounds, and to that end she commences to fatten when she is 15 years old. She takes aperients and eats a great deal of sweet stuff and leads a sedentary life to hasten the process. Up to 15 she is very handsome, but at 20 what an immense, unwieldy mass of fat she becomes! She waddles, or, rather, undulates, along the street. Her costume is very picturesque, especially if she be of the richer class. They are clothed in fine silks of resplendent hues of a bright red, yellow or green and wear a sort of conical shaped headdress, from which depends a loose white drapery. Turkish trousers and dainty slippers, the heel of which barely reaches the middle of the foot, complete the costume.

Quite Willing to Migrate.
A traveler passing through a fever infected locality said to an Irish resident:
"Pat, I'm surprised that you stay in a place where people die so thick and fast."
"Faith," rejoined Pat, "if you'll be after tellin' me av a place where people niver die O'll move there tomorroy an end me days."—Chicago News.

WOMAN AND FASHION

Stylish Millinery.
The newest idea in millinery is to border the extreme edge of the brim with a fringe of flowers. A notable example is a flat blue straw, wide brimmed and bent down back and front in coarse blue straw, with a fringe of the "wee, modest crimson tipped" daisy round the edge, a small wreath of the same round the slight elevation which does duty as crown on these plateaus and a bow of black velvet ribbon with long ends falling at the back. The large three cornered director's shape also prevails, with no trimming save a large rosette in the center of the front and an enormous ostrich plume falling over one side. Gathered chiffon forms the foundation of many of the toques, which are mostly in the three cornered or sailor shape, rather small, and draperies of lace compose others.

STRAW, TRIMMED WITH POPPIES.

The accompanying sketch shows a very smart hat. It is of fine fancy straw partly laced and drawn with black velvet ribbon to agree with the full ruche at the side under the roll brim, from which depend two graduated tassels of ribbon loops, which fall along the hair coil. A glorious wreath of white poppies and rich foliage is arranged along the boat shape crown.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Skirt That Fits the Figure.
London tailors are defending themselves strenuously against building the skirt which fits the figure absolutely without fullness in the back. Still the inverted box plait is regarded as passe, and the alternatives offered are two or even three small box plaits or the tiny stitched tucks which form such an agreeable substitute for gathers.

Tucks are popular on washing skirts, of which so many will be worn this summer, heavy laundry bills being another item in the costly simplicity which those who can afford it are affecting. It is the multiplicity of hand work which makes dressmakers' bills so heavy, tucks, stitings, strappings and the like, the latest extravagance being that of numberless exquisitely worked buttonholes on straps, through which openings narrow ribbons are run. The alternate blocks of the dress material and the satin or velvet in contrast are pretty—undeniably so.

Modish Bathing Clothes.
Though it is perfectly safe to predict that, while bathing dresses will outnumber all others, none the less will many colored ones be worn. Startling bright red and Yale blue, black and orange, scarlet and white are some of the flamingo and parrotlike studies in color that the fair amphibians will patronize, and there is a very marked inclination toward the adoption of vivid Roman stripes and bold Scotch plaids in the more showy gowns, says the New York Sun. Roman stripes are prominent in the majority of the flannel and Turkish towel bath wraps, without which no well equipped bather pretends to consider her sea-going toilet complete.

For a Young Girl.
This dinner dress for a young girl is of ivory white mousseline de soie, ornamented with lines in strass spangles. The flounces on the skirt and the corsage and sleeves are of bruges lace. The yoke is edged with black velvet ribbon.—Paris Herald.

Elaborate Petticoats.
Petticoats are far more elaborate than overskirts. Those in white cambric show a mass of tucks and vandycked insertions, while the silk ones of soft and exquisite quality have endless ruchings and tuckings edged with fancy ribbons and inserted with lace. The little French cachet corsets just reach to the waist. They are altogether most fascinating little short waisted bodices and are more practical than those with long ends which tie in front.

Well Babies Are Good Babies

MOST LITTLE BABIES DIE, either from bowel troubles or from diseases which they contract because they are in a weak and feeble condition from bowel troubles.
Mothers who are seeking the ideal and proper medicine to give their little ones for constipation, diarrhoea, colic and simple fevers will find LAXAKOLA the great family remedy.
It is the best and most effective laxative for children. BEST because it is safe and made entirely of harmless ingredients. BEST because it is non-irritating and never gripes or causes pain or irritation. BEST because it is sure and never fails. BEST because "Children like it and ask for it."
It is a dangerous thing to give little babies violent remedies that rack and rend their little bodies. DON'T DO IT—give them LAXAKOLA.
A few drops can be given with safety to very young babies, and will often relieve colic by expelling the wind and gas that cause it, and it also will check simple fevers, break up colds and clear the coated tongue.
Great relief is experienced when administered to young children suffering from diarrhoea, accompanied with white or green evacuations, from the fact that LAXAKOLA neutralizes the acidity of the bowels and carries out the cause of fermentation, aids digestion, relieves restlessness, assists nature and induces sleep.
It is a gentle and safe remedy to use during all conditions of health of the tender sex whenever their peculiar and delicate constitutions require a mild and efficient laxative and tonic, and is especially indicated in nursing mothers. It improves the complexion, brightens the eyes, sharpens the appetite, cleans the circulation, removes muddy and blotched conditions of the skin and cures sick headache to a certain extent. In women suffering from chronic constipation, headache, indigestion, dizziness, flatulencies, etc., and, etc., or send for free sample to THE LAXAKOLA CO., 132 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 156 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

Canada Thistles.
Canada thistles should be mown in July. They are then in blossom. Cut stems a few inches from the ground; cut only those in blossom. Those that do not bloom this year cut next year, for they will then be in bloom. When the Canada thistle has seeded, it has finished its mission; it then dies. Cut with whatever suits. A strong, light scythe is best. The thistle rarely has sufficient vitality to recuperate and throw up new stalks. This is the case if in sod ground, as that tends to crowd it out.

Don't be satisfied with temporary relief from indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure permanently and completely removes this complaint. It relieves permanently because it allows the tired stomach perfect rest. Dieting won't rest the stomach. Nature receives supplies from the food we eat. The sensible way to help the stomach is to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which digests what you eat and can't help but do you good. Grover's City drug store.

Barley and Oats.
At the North Dakota experiment station they made a trial for nine months of the comparative value of feeding oats and barley to three horses and two mules. In every case of animals working in pairs at the same work the one given barley made less gain or lost more flesh, according to the work they were doing. When changed about, the result was the same. The one that gained flesh on oats lost it on barley. Besides this, if the barley feed was continued long the animal that had it would refuse to eat the barley sometimes for several meals. The rough fodder was the same good timothy hay in all cases. They therefore decided that barley was not as valuable food for horses as oats when fed in equal weights.

Size and Quality in the Horse.
The American farmer cannot afford to raise a common horse or a small horse, because they are the easiest to raise, the hardest to shift and because he can sell them cheap and still make money. But as a business proposition for him the small horse is behind the larger one too. He can do more and make a 15-hand horse, good shape and sound, for less than the grain it costs a farmer to raise one of the kind. A farmer who does not expect to raise a bigger horse than that will nine times out of ten make money by keeping the service fee in his pocket and putting his feed into something else.—National Stockman.
