FREELAND, SEPTEMBER 6, 1901.

THE TROTTING CIRCUIT.

Joe Patchen has the first 2:10 pacer this year in Dan Patch, 2:07 1/2.

Game old Flying Jib, 2:04, roared 50 miles recently in four and a half hours and finished fresh.

M. H. Hanna's object in trying to secure Elena was to start her in the Challenge cup race this fall.

Agave, by Axtell, 2:12, took a mark of 2:18 1/4 at Titusville, Pa. She looks like a sure 2:15 trotter at least.

An odd fact in connection with the $16,000 Metallus is that not one of his ancestors had a standard record.

McDowell won a great six heat race with Martha Marshall, by Grand Marshall, pacing, in 2:07 1/2, 2:09 1/4 and 2:12 3/4.

A 4-year-old full sister to Cresceus, 2:02 1/4, is one of the valuable green horses now at Penn Valley farm, Morrisville, Pa.

Jay McGregor, a 3-year-old colt by Jay Hawker, dam Notre Dame, by Robert McGregor, recently worked a mile at Lexington in 2:17 1/4.

Lafe Shafer of Terrace farm, Titusville, Pa., recently worked the $10,000 3-year-old Zephyr a mile in 2:17, the last half in 1:07 1/2 and quarter in 0:32 3/4.

George Forbes is now the owner of Dr. Preston, and no doubt "Pittsburg Phil's" brother will train him. Forbes' last purchase, His Royal Highness, was a costly failure.

STAGE GLINTS.

Another play has been written around the career of Mrs. Langtry.

An English version of Paderewski's opera, "Mauro," is being prepared.

"Shenandoah" is still a big drawing card and a popular one with stock companies.

"In Old Kentucky" will carry 40 pickaninies and a stable of six horses next season.

"Ben-Hur" will be presented in Australia, England, the United States and perhaps France next season.

J. H. Gilmour is of the opinion that the American dramatist of the future will be the one who writes short one act plays.

Martin Harvey and Forbes Robertson, the London actor-managers, have abandoned their contemplated American tours.

Mme. Modjeska, who is now in Poland, expects to produce a new play in this country written by Sienkiewicz, the author of "Quo Vadis."

Willard Spenser, the composer and author of the new comedy opera "Miss Bob White," says that he wrote a goodly portion of the "book" in a barn.

When told the other day that the public preferred "Cyrano" to "L'Algon," Mme. Bernhardt said: "Then the public is wrong. 'L'Algon' is infinitely grander."

SOME MEN—

Like to be spoken of as possessing political influence.

Show a weakness for trailing in the wake of social swells.

Show a weakness for exhibiting a big roll of bank notes.

Think themselves considerably smarter than every other man.

Boast of a fondness for children which never is in open evidence.

Want to be considered competent critics of music and the drama.

Carry letters in their coat pocket which should have been burned.

Regard it as a sign of importance to refer to prominent men by their surnames.

Base their opinions of a clergyman's sermon on his voice rather than on his argument.

Think it an evidence of great historic knowledge to talk of Waterloo, Wagram and the burning of Moscow.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Pan-American Exposition. Low fares via the Lehigh Valley Railroad to the Pan-American Exposition. Five-day tickets, good only in day coaches, will be sold on Tuesdays and Saturdays, May 1 to October 31, from Freeland at the rate of $7 for the round trip.

Ten-day tickets will be sold from Freeland every day, May 1 to October 31, good on any train, except the Black Diamond express, at the rate of $10 for the round trip.

$1.50 a year is all the TRIBUNE costs.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

A Revolution on His Hands. It is Venezuela that now leads the South American republics in attracting public attention. We don't feel right if there isn't a South American revolution on top all the time. President Castro seems to attach considerable importance to the latest uprising in Venezuela, as he has issued a call for 10,000 volunteers to put down the revolution. President Castro is not looked upon as our friend in the asphalt controversy, and in Washington the wish is openly expressed that the revolution may be successful. The negotiations between our government and President Castro have about reached what in diplomatic circles is called the "acute" stage.

A Story About the Duke.

The Duke of Cornwall is devotedly loved in loyal Bermuda, where as a growing boy he once passed a happy winter, relates The Youth's Companion. One of his favorite comrades there was a little girl whose great-grandfather had fought side by side with Wolfe upon the Plains of Abraham.

She used to push her little rocking chair close beside that of the prince and laboriously time her small rockers with those of his larger chair.

"We rock together, Prince George," she used to chatter, "always together," thrusting difference of rank into that limbo reserved for sophisticated adults.

Another favorite of the prince was a young American girl who discovered him in the admiral's hallway one day tugging at his gloves.

"I hate to wear them," he admitted as he looked at her bare hands, "only I promised grandmother that I would."

A letter from Queen Victoria gave the royal boy much pleasure, but on being asked if he would sell it for $2 he eagerly accepted the offer, whereupon he answered the letter with commendable promptness, urging his "dear grandmother please to write again."

The death of his older brother some years later and the recent death of the queen materially changed the career of the youth to whom the American girl said "you, and he said you to me." On his return from the tour of the British colonies he will receive the honored title of Prince of Wales, with his pregnant motto, "Ich dien" ("I serve").

John Drew and Bernhardt.

John Drew, the actor, speaks French with an excellent accent, of which he is pardonably proud, and hence he was immensely pleased when Mme. Bernhardt said to him recently:

"You must really come to Paris and appear in a Parisian theater; yes, in my theater and play with me."

Mr. Drew was naturally flattered to have his French so greatly appreciated. He felt several inches taller as he answered:

"Really, Mme. Bernhardt, this is most gratifying. What sort of a part would you like to have me play?"

"Oh," said Mme. Bernhardt, with her sweetest smile, "naturally the part of an Englishman."

Honored by Emperor William.

There has been considerable talk of late in Europe, especially on the continent, over the exceptional courtesy extended by the kaiser to Mrs. Howard Gould. With her husband and a party of friends this lady has been sailing in German waters this summer. When the emperor learned that Mrs. Gould's yacht would direct its wanderings toward the Baltic sea this year, he issued orders to all civil and military authorities to treat Mrs. Gould and friends as guests of honor.

The kaiser met Mrs. Gould some years ago when she was still Miss Katherine Clemons and was traveling with Buffalo Bill's Wild West show and was very much impressed by her beauty and agreeable manners, and he has taken the present opportunity of showing his regard for her.

Few visitors to the Hot Springs of Arkansas understand that the baths are owned by the government. Uncle Sam gets $30 per tub for the use of the medicated water, a total income from the 534 tubs of $16,020 per year.

S'SH SLEEP AT LAST LAXAKOLA DOES IT

NO ONE BUT A MOTHER can appreciate the benefit that sound refreshing sleep gives to an ailing, teething, feverish, colicky, fretty infant. Almost distracted by its constant crying, and worn out with weeping, anxious care and watching, she tries everything possible to obtain even relief for the little sufferer.

With what comfort and delight she sees her little one drop off into a deep peaceful health-giving slumber, after its little clogged bowels are cleared of their poisonous burden by a single dose of Laxakola, the great tonic laxative and mother's remedy.

Laxakola is a pure, gentle and painless liquid laxative, and contains valuable tonic properties which not only act upon the bowels, but tone up the entire system and purify the blood. A few drops can be given with safety to very young babies, which will often relieve colic by expelling the wind and gas that cause it.

Laxakola, the great tonic laxative, is not only the most efficient of family remedies, but the most economical, because it combines two medicines, viz., laxative and tonic, and at one price. No other remedy gives so much for the money. At druggists, etc., and send for free sample to THE LAXAKOLA CO., 132 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 375 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

He Was Accommodated.

A conjurer was performing before a rough and ready audience in one of the prohibition states of America, according to an English paper. "I am now about to undertake a feat," said he, "in which I shall need the use of a pint flask of whisky." There was a dead silence. "Will some gentleman in the audience favor me with a pint of whisky?" There was no response, and the conjurer began to look blank. "Surely," he continued, "in a southeastern prohibition town I ought not to have to ask a second time for such a thing. I give my word I will return it intact. Is there no?"

"Stranger," said a tall, gaunt man as he rose slowly from a front seat, "wouldn't a quart flask do as well?" "Why, certainly! I merely—"

But before he could finish the generous, open handed audience had risen like one man and were on their way to the platform in a body.

His Unlucky Day.

Even the least superstitious are often struck by the misfortunes which attend some persons on certain dates. A large firm in the city has in its employ a living instance of the fact. On June 12 an employee lost his left arm by coming in contact with machinery. The accident disabled him for his then employment, and he was given that of a messenger. On another June 12 he was run over in the Strand while on an errand—result, a broken leg. The next accident was a fall on the stairs in the firm's buildings, again June 12; the right arm broken this time. The fourth mishap on another anniversary broke three ribs. The firm took the case into consideration and issued an order that in future the employee was to take a holiday on that date, an order with which he has now complied for several years.—London Chronicle.

Why She Wanted to Know.

"Is this Hazel street?" asked a young woman in one of the back seats of an East Tenth street car who was carrying a diminutive poodle dog under her arm.

"No, madam," said the conductor. "I will tell you when we come to it." Later on she repeated the question, and the conductor answered with some show of impatience. Finally when Hazel street was reached, he rang, and the car came to a stop. "This is Hazel street," said the conductor.

"Oh, I don't want to get off at that street. I only wanted to know where it was. I go to the end of the line." Then as the car started again she looked down at the pug and said in tones of extreme affection, "There, dearie, there's where your muddy lives."—Indianapolis News.

Noblesse Oblige.

"What are you staring at, Nellie?" "Oh, please, ma'am, with your hair like that and your diamonds you do look so like Lady Plantagenet Gingham that I was own maid to! Are you any relation, ma'am?" "No—at least no near relation. But you can have that pink silk shirt waist of mine, Nellie!"—Life.

Colonies as Kingdoms.

Queen Elizabeth was commonly spoken of as queen of Virginia. Virginia and Carolina were kingdoms under the Stuarts. Massachusetts was recognized as a "sister kingdom" by Cromwell's parliament.—London Express.

Probably every child cherishes it against his parents that they once gave him a calf, and kept the money when they sold it.—Acheson Globe.

Hunting the Kangaroo.

When brought to bay, the kangaroo jumps like a flash for the hunter's chest and tries to crush it in with his fore feet. To prevent this each man wears across his breast a two or three inch thick matting. Armed with a spear, with a club attachment at the other end, they ride upon swift horses into a herd.

With the agility and equisop of circus riders they stand erect upon their horses and use their spears and clubs.

The kangaroo is able to jump clear over a horse. As the game is bagged it is skinned, and the skin is stretched on the ground and pegged down to prevent shrinkage. The flesh furnishes meat for the camp.

Each man places his private mark upon his booty, and when they have 100 pieces they return back to civilization. There are 20 varieties of kangaroos, among them the blue, red wallaby, black, gray and festerer, the latter furnishing the best leather, as it lives mainly in wooded sections.

HAVE YOU SEEN HIM?

He wears an automobile coat. With flaps and tucks and belt. And automobile trousers, too. Of heavy goods like felt. A cap, with visor fierce and long. Gives him a soldier's air. And goggles some two inches wide. Protect from dust and glare.

Again he wears a golfing suit—The knickers cut just so—With golfing cap and golfing shoes And golfing ties, you know; He carries funny looking clubs. Where'er he wears this suit. And often chuckles broadest Scotch. With "Hoot, mon, hoot!"

And then he wears his "working clothes" Of common fabric, they do; He speaks of them as does the man Who labors by the day. But, though he has his auto suit, No lever does he jerk, Nor does he drive the golfing ball, Nor does he ever work. —Baltimore American.

The Ladies—And then?

Climmie—Me mother called me in.—New York Journal.

A Gifted Citizen.

"Yes, stranger, over yonder is th' very spot where Buckskin Pete passed in his last checks. A great man, stranger. There wasn't nothing around these diggings that Pete couldn't have for th' asking." "He must have had a remarkable pull." "That's it. You've hit it. He had th' quickest pull of any feller that ever come over th' ridge. Darned if he didn't seem to pull an shoot at th' very same time. Poor old Pete!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
