CORPSE HAS ARRIVED HERE

Remains of Thomas Walsh Reach Freeland.

Young Soldier Who Died in the Philippines Will Be Buried With Honors on Sunday Afternoon.

At 4:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon the remains of Thomas Walsh arrived at the Lehigh Valley station from San Francisco. They were immediately taken charge of by Undertaker Breslin and removed to the home of the young soldier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Walsh, in the Third ward.

The arrival of the body occurred a day sooner than expected, but this will not interfere with the arrangements for the interment.

The corpse will remain at the Walsh residence until 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, which is the hour selected for the funeral.

The interment will be made at St. Ann's cemetery.

Representatives of the Catholic societies of St. Ann's parish met this week and arranged to give the young man a funeral befitting the circumstances surrounding his death.

It was decided that the members should attend in a body, and among the societies which will be in line are St. Patrick's Beneficial Society, No. 103, I. C. B. U.; Young Men's C. T. A. B. Corps, and Divisions 6 and 19, A. O. H.

Any other societies or organizations desiring to participate in the funeral procession will be welcomed, and upon making known their intention positions will be provided for them.

Boy Meets Strange Death.

The collapse of a culm caused by the settling of an old worked out lift, engulfed a ten-ton locomotive, three loaded mine cars and seventeen-year-old James O'Connor, at St. Nicholas colliery, Mahanoy City, yesterday. Engineer Charles Sauerbrey had a miraculous escape from sharing the fate of young O'Connor, whose body has not yet been recovered.

The "lokie" and cars had just reached the spot, when, without a moment's warning, the bank gave way, plunging them, cars foremost, into a yawning abyss. Young O'Connor, who occupied a position between the first car and the "lokie," was swallowed up and instantly killed. Sauerbrey swung himself through a small door and, by a mighty leap, cleared the hole, rolling to the foot of the embankment. When a force of several hundred men arrived on the scene only a small portion of the engine was visible.

Output Beats the Record.

The production of anthracite coal this year will be the largest in the history of the trade. Approximately the output will be about 10,000,000 tons more than in 1900. The production last year was 45,197,484 tons; in 1899, 47,696,000 tons, and in 1898, 41,889,800 tons. For nine months of this year the shipment of coal has amounted to 40,309,786 tons, as against 34,292,710 tons for the same period last year, an increase of 6,107,076 tons. These figures only relate to the actual shipment of coal, and do not include that used at the mines and by the coal companies.

The production this month will show a big increase over October, 1900. Last year the output in October was 34,785 tons. This small output was due to the strike which prevailed throughout the region. The production of coal this month, it is believed, will be at least 4,500,000 tons, and for November and December it is thought the output will equal that for last year, which will bring the total production for the year up in round figures to 55,000,000 tons.

This production has been fully taken and the anthracite coal companies have little or no stock of coal on hand. The Reading Company, with its storage yard at Port Richmond, which usually has hundreds of thousands of tons stored there, now has only a few thousand tons. This condition prevails throughout the country and most of the yards are comparatively bare.

The demand for anthracite has been greater this year than ever before, and the reason given for the great quantities used is the general prosperity of the country. The trade is in a far better condition than ever before and prices are being maintained. During this year there have been two months in which the output was over 5,000,000 tons. It appears when the coal companies mine more than 5,000,000 tons a month that they reach their maximum, as they are unable to handle this quantity for more than two months consecutively.

There is a great shortage of coal cars and the Pennsylvania mines yesterday were compelled to close, as no cars could be secured. The Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central have practically placed an embargo on other lines, and will not permit their coal cars to go off their line of tracks.

Institute Closes Today.

The annual institute of Luzerne county school teachers closes at Wilkes-Barre today. The 800 teachers who have attended the several sessions during the week were given many opportunities to increase their store of knowledge. A number of noted lecturers and instructors addressed the teachers and gave them much to ponder upon in regard to their work in the schools.

The directors of the county met on Wednesday and were addressed on subjects relating to their work by several men famous in that line. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, E. J. Moore, Esq., Warrior Run; secretary, William Doran, Avoca; delegates to state convention, Dr. Trimmer, White Haven; Dr. Rogers, Kingston; Dr. Weida, Luzerne; J. H. Ward, Avoca, and Daniel R. George, Ladin.

Death of Young Woman.

Miss Katie Cull died at her home on West Chestnut street, Birtvanton, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Two weeks ago she was stricken with pneumonia and for several days was in a serious condition. On Tuesday she gave signs of improvement and her friends and relatives entertained strong hopes of her recovery. On Wednesday night a change occurred and she sank rapidly, expiring at the hour named.

Miss Cull was aged 19 years and was one of the most popular young ladies of town. She is survived by her mother and four sisters, also by many other relatives in this and nearby towns.

The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. A requiem mass will be read at St. Ann's church, after which the interment will be made at St. Ann's cemetery.

Scranton Case Settled.

Judge Simonton yesterday heard the injunction proceedings brought by the International Text Book, formerly the Colliery Engineer Company, of Scranton, to restrain Frank C. Elmes from transacting business in Pennsylvania under the name of International Correspondence School or Colliery Engineer Company. The plaintiff agreed to withdraw the proceedings and pay the cost, providing the defendant ceases doing business under the name of International Correspondence School. The defendant agreed to this and further proceedings were brought to a close.

THEATRICAL.

"Tennessee's Partner" was built from suggestions found in Bret Harte's popular romance of the same name. On the contemporary stage, just as "Alabama" stands as the drama of the South, "Shore Acres" as that of New England, so "Tennessee's Partner" stands for the West—the West which Bret Harte found in California and which Eugene Field located on Red Hoss mountain. The majority of the company are established favorites, whose interpretation of their various roles for the third successive season, ensures a perfect production. The quartette will be heard in new vocal selections and the play will be staged in an admirable frame of scenic embellishment.

At the Grand opera house on Monday evening, those funny men, Russell and Ryan, supported by a large company, comprising the elite of the vaudeville and musical world, will present for the first time in Freeland the new and most novel up-to-date farce comedy success, "My Friend Clancy," introducing the full strength of the company in a series of funny situations, new and novel specialties, popular songs and dances of the day. This company has been, and still is playing, to the capacity of the theatres in Pennsylvania and New York.

The great Barlow and Wilson's Minstrels appeared at the Grand opera house last night. It is the strongest aggregation this company has ever carried and the first part setting is the finest ever seen on the local stage. That minstrelsy is still popular with fun lovers was evident; and it is worthy of mention that while farces and melo-dramas come and fall by the wayside clean cut minstrelsy will go on just the same; and while it has amused the many in the past, it will continue to amuse a great many more, before the last bones have rattled into dust, and the last tambo has been shattered. The monologue work of Barlow and Wilson was exceedingly clever, while the quartette met with round after round of applause.—Burlington Hawkeye.

While out gunning on the mountain near Mahanoy City last evening, William Elliott, a twenty-year-old son of Patrick Elliott, accidentally shot himself in the stomach and was instantly killed. The boy lay on the mountain some time before being found. It is presumed he was trying to close a breach-loading gun by stamping it on the earth, when it was discharged.

The finance committee of Wilkes-Barre city council approves of the increase in the city debt of $60,000 and the ordinance will probably be passed quickly. Thirty thousand dollars is to be used for sewer work, $12,000 for paving streets and $15,000 for a new fire engine house.
