BIG PARADE ON MITCHELL DAY

Workman Will Celebrate Strike Anniversary.

Anthracite Miners' Union and Other Labor Organizations to Parade at Hazleton Tomorrow.

Tomorrow is the first anniversary o tomorrow is the lists anniversary of the date upon which the anthracite miners' strike of 1900 was won, and the day will be known throughout the an-thracite region as "Mitchell Day," in honor of President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, to whom the victory was principally due.

In each of the sections of the region the day will be celebrated with parades of the miners and other organized workmen. Speakers of prominence will de-liver addresses and practically all work will be suspended in the northeastern end of the state.

The workmen of this district will

The workmen of this district will parade at Hazleton. The order includes all organized men in the lower end of this county and parts of Carbon and Schuylkill counties. District President Phomas P. Duffy will be grand marshal. The first division of the parade will be composed of the Mine Workers of Freeland and vicinity, with John J. Brogan, of Local Union 1499, as marshal. They will form in the following shall. They will form in the following

Cow Causes Several Suits.

An old cow owned by Mrs. W. F. Evans, of Plymouth, has caused the estrangement of a number of families, kept a justice of the peace busy for months past, and made a half dozen lawyers richer. The cow first caused trouble by entering the peach orchard of Mrs. Eliza Hakes and deouring a number of peach trees. Hakes, it is alleged, beat the cow with a fence rail. For this she was arrested and considerable litigation followed. Then Mrs. Hakes sued for the value of the peach trees destroyed. On Saturanother summons was issued for Mrs. Hakes, charging her with cruelty to animals. The secretary for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals took a hand in this case. The defendant was credit in the manner they honored the oung man whose life was sacrificed while in the service of his country.

Headed by St. Ann's band, the funeral cortege proceeded from the home of the soldier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Walsh. The following societies pre-ceded the remains, each member wear-ing a small American flag draped with crape on the lapel of his coat: St. Ann's Cadet Society; Division 6, A. O. H.; Division 19, A. O. H.; Young Men's Corps, and St. Patrick's Beneficial

Maj. C. B. Coxe Post, No. 147, G. A.

R., acted as an escort to the body.

In addition to the societies, hundreds of friends of the family participated in the funeral, forming a line which made it one of the largest processions of its kind that ever wended its way to St.

Ann's cemetery.
Upon the arrival of the cortege at the burylog ground the scaled metalic cas-ket, weighing over 700 pounds, was placed at the edge of the grave. Rev. F. J. Mack, of St. Ann's church, then read the burial service of the Catholic Church, and, after prayers for the happy repose of his soul had been said, St. Ann's band played a funeral

The casket was slowly lowered into the ground, and a few minutes later nothing but a mound of earth remained to show what Freeland has received from the war in the Philippines.

Foiled by Drunken Man.

Israel Scoy, a farmer of Dallas, was probably saved from being robbed by David Sleigh. Scov had received a co munication from New York, signed Wilson, stating that if he would come to Wilkesbarre and wait near the railroad station with $500 he could buy a quanti ty of gold dust worth $2,000. to the city, and while waiting for Wil-son a man under the influence of liquor asked him for a chew of tobacco.

He refused, whereupon Sleigh hit him. The police arrested Sleigh, and the farmer was taken as a witness. In the meantime the swindler appeared, and, not finding Scoy, departed.

The police told Scoy of his narrow escape in losing $500 to the green goods man, and he withdrew the charge of assanit against Sleigh and gave him a dollar to buy some tobacco

The successful comedy-drama, "Ten-essee's Pardner," will appear here on Wednesday evening. "Tennessee's Par dner" has been a recognized and estab-lished success, artistically and financial-ly, for the past three seasons. Before the first act of this play is well under way, the interest is fully aroused and steadily increases as the play progresses. The story is full of human interest and has a healthy action. The general idea is suggested by Bret Harte's famous story and the characters have been se-lected from the array of typical crea-tions that have emanated from the brain of that great American author. The story is told in a clear, forcible manner, the directness and strong contrast of characters being especially noteworthy. It is far better than the average play built on similar lines, for it is not only strong dramatically but it is especi only strong dramatically but it is especi-ally interesting from a literary point of view. The company is a powerful one including the principal members of the original cast. The quartette will be heard in new vocal character selec-tions, and the play will be staged with new scenic effects and the most careful attention to detail.

: : : There was a gathering of minstre vers that packed the opera house to the door last night, that assembled to pay court to Barlow and Wilson's Minstr as they appeared on their annual engagement. The performance consisted gagement. The performance consisted entirely of modern minstrel attractions. The people found them leaders by several lengths. The performance abounds in a continual stage of hilarity, the hit of the evening being made "the Great Barlow and Wilson." water. The company is far superior to the usual standard attraction.—Cincin-
