CRUSHED BY FALL OF ROCK

Young Man Killed Today at San'cy Run.

Shortly After Beginning His Work This Morning Charles Broderick Met Instant Death in Kemmerer's Mine.

Charles Broderick, aged 21 years, was instantly killed this morning in Sandy Run slope by a fall of rock. The young man was employed at the bottom of the main slope as a hitcher, and had been at work only a short while when a mass of top rock fell upon him without warning and crushed out his life.

The fall came so suddenly that he was unable to escape.

The young man, who but recently attained his majority, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Broderick, of Sandy Run, and was popular among his associates and the people of his town. He was a brother to Martin Broderick, of Freeland, and Matt Broderick, the well known ball player.

The deceased was a member of Local Union No. 1653, U. M. W. of A., of Sandy Run, and Division 19, A. O. H., of Freeland.

Funeral on Wednesday morning, with requiem mass at St. Ann's church at 9 o'clock. Interment at St. Ann's cemetery.

Murdered in His Home.

James Larkins, 57 years old, who led the life of a hermit on the shores of Harvey's Lake, the popular summer resort, was found dead in his cabin yesterday. He had been murdered during the night. His throat was cut almost from ear to ear, and there were several stab wounds on the body.

Samuel Keller spent the night with Larkins, and as they had a bottle of whiskey between them the supposition is that they quarreled over the liquor and then started to fight, using their huge pocket knives for weapons.

The howling of a dog attracted attention to Larkins' cottage yesterday. A neighbor went in and found the owner dead on the floor. Near-by was Keller, who was in a stupor. His clothes were covered with blood, and he had a stab wound on the neck, but it was only a slight one. Keller was at once placed under arrest and lodged in the county jail to await a hearing.

The prisoner says he does not know how his friend met his death. He thought he heard him cry for help at an early hour yesterday morning. Keller is 60 years of age and well-known.

Coray Urged to Stand.

E. A. Coray, who represented the Second district in the last legislature, has not yet signified his intention of being a candidate for re-election, although his friends want him to enter the race. Mr. Coray himself says: "I felt that I would not be called upon to be a candidate again. There are many good men in the district who would make their mark in the house."

Mr. Coray's reluctance to be a candidate is due to the fact that his health is not good, and he thinks that if he should take a long rest it would be better for him. But the indications are that Mr. Coray's friends will insist upon his being a candidate. They will be satisfied with no one else, and he may thus be forced into the fight.

Last week a paper which supports the Quay faction published an article to the effect that Mr. Coray overthrew his party in the last election; that he is now a Democrat, and if he goes back to the legislature it must be as a Democrat. The Wilkesbarre Record, which supported the Democratic-Union ticket last fall, says in answer to the attacks upon Mr. Coray: "Let the machine bosses in this county who have control of the party organization follow the advice of their party organ and rule E. A. Coray out."

out of the party, if they dare. If they attempt that game they will be taught a lesson they will not soon forget."

The Democrats in the Second district will make no nomination against him should he become a candidate.

Eight-Hour-Day Tomorrow.

The members of the United Mine Workers in the anthracite and bituminous regions will observe a new holiday tomorrow. April 1 is known as Eight-Hour-Day, and no member of the miners' union will work tomorrow, excepting those whose positions are such that their services are necessary to keep the colliery in condition.

For a few years past the day has been observed in portions of the bituminous fields, but this year it is expected that it will be celebrated in every state where the United Mine Workers has a member.

The members of the union on the South Side will parade tomorrow, and outside of this there will be no formal observance of the day in the Lehigh region.

Unique Politician Dead.

David A. Potts, of Wilkesbarre, one of the most unique politicians in the state, was found dead in bed Saturday morning, having expired during the night of heart disease. Potts was born in England 55 years ago. He came to this county when a boy and has worked in the mines all his life.

Thirty-four years ago he ran for office on the Labor ticket and every year since he has been a candidate for some office in the county, both municipal and state elections, but was never elected. At the end of every campaign, when he was defeated, he would apply for an appointment, but never secured a political position in the thirty-four years he was seeking one.

Trouble at Derringer.

Coxe Bros. & Co.'s miners at Derringer notified the company's officials on Thursday that they would not work next day, it being Good Friday, and a majority of the employees wished to appropriately observe the holiday. On Saturday the breaker whistle blew the signal for work, and when the men arrived at the slopes they were notified that they were suspended until Tuesday. All were sent home with instructions to report tomorrow.

As tomorrow is "Eight-Hour-Day," and the miners have decided not to work anywhere, it is likely the collieries will be shut down again. If the men are suspended on Wednesday trouble is predicted.

Spotted With Telescopes.

All last week the hills surrounding the Woodward and the Petebone breakers of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Company, near Wilkesbarre, have bristled with telescopes. Committees of the union mine workers employed at these two collieries, but at present locked out, have been stationed at advantageous points and their glasses have enabled them to identify men at work in and about the engine, fan and pump houses, at the head of the shafts.

They now know all the non-union men who have taken their places and have a list of them for future reference.

Young Lad's Long Ride.

With no other directions than a tag attached to his buttonhole, which read: "To John Smith, Mahanoy City, Schuylkill county, Pa., North America," six year old John Dillman traveled 3,000 miles overland and by water from Austro-Hungary to Mahanoy City in search of his parents.

The lad arrived safely Saturday afternoon over the Lehigh Valley Railroad, apparently none the worse for his long pilgrimage, which consumed two months. He was reunited with his parents, who reside at new Back Mountain.

Easter in Freeland.

Notwithstanding the fact that Easter Sunday came early this year, the weather yesterday was remarkably fair and pleasant in the forenoon and the greater portion of the afternoon. Toward evening dark clouds gathered and cold showers marred the pleasures of the promenaders.

The services at the churches of town were attended by unusually large numbers. Special music or sermons were given in several and helped to draw the non-church goers to the edifices.

Well-Rendered Program.

At the Grand opera house last evening the program prepared by the Good Wills Athletic Association was well rendered. The entertainment opened with a selection by St. Ann's band, followed by an address by Charles Dever, who gave a brief history of the club and its objects. The program published in Friday's Tribune was then carried out, and considerable applause was given to each participant.

St. Ann's band tendered the Sisters of Mercy at St. Ann's convent a serenade yesterday afternoon. This is a custom which the band inaugurated a few years ago and is highly appreciated each Easter by the Sisters.

The union buttons for the second quarter of this year were distributed yesterday to all members of the United Mine Workers who have their dues paid up. These buttons will do away with "card-day" at the collieries.

The funeral of the late Thomas Cumerford, of Hazle Brook, will take place tomorrow morning, leaving that town at 9.30 o'clock on the Lehigh Valley Railroad for Hazleton, where the interment will be made.

At Krell's hall tonight the annual Easter Monday evening ball of St. Ann's band will be held. The members have made much preparations for the event and invite the general public to attend.

During a street row in Shenandoah yesterday, John Litwinavage, aged 27 years, was struck on the head with a stone, which fractured his skull, causing his death last night. Seven men were arrested and locked up, charged with being implicated in the crime.

Will Remove Tomorrow.

Undertaker P. F. McNulty will remove his residence and undertaking establishment tomorrow from his present location on South Centre street to the Campbell block, two doors above Luzerne street, where he has leased the storeroom and dwelling now occupied by John Bellezza. In his new quarters Mr. McNulty will be better prepared than ever to accommodate his patrons.

THEATRICAL.

Eight years of consecutive success in the principal theatres of the United States, supplemented by an equal amount of popular favor in Great Britain, Australia, Germany and France, is the record attained by that masterful melodrama, "The Span of Life," and no other play, except those of Shakespeare, has ever been so widely played or so universally popular. Strong heart interest, exciting climaxes, thrilling situations, natural dialogue, genuine humor, fine stage settings and competent acting, are the features that have made this play the best of modern times. It will be presented at the Grand opera house tomorrow evening by the strongest company ever seen in a melodrama and with an entirely new equipment of scenery and effects. A great feature of the production will be the marvellous Donazettas, the most skillful and daring acrobats of the country, who will form themselves into a bridge 30 feet above the stage, and three people will pass across their interlocked bodies.

An exchange speaks of "My Friend From India" as follows: "My Friend From India," as produced last night at the opera house by the Frankie Stock Company, did not suffer humiliation at its relegation to popular prices. There was as much fun in the lines as ever and as much satisfaction expressed at the portrayal as was evident when the piece was first introduced through a more expensive medium. The specialties were original and entertaining. Taken as a whole the company has set a new standard for popular priced shows."

This company is announced to appear here this evening.

DRIFTON.

Seoak thieves gained an entrance to the residence of John Gallagher at No. 1 on Saturday night. Their presence was discovered before any damage was done and they were scared off.

The gunboat at No. 2 breaker jumped the track on Saturday afternoon and played havoc with the props on the slope. A large force of men was at work yesterday repairing the damage.

Herman Dean, of New York city, greeted former acquaintances here yesterday. It is rumored that Mr. Dean is to wed a Hazleton young lady in the near future.

Harold Wentz, who is home from college, is spending his vacation with his grandfather, Dr. Geo. S. Wentz.

John Gallagher, of Warrior Run, is spending a few days with relatives here.

Mrs. Millie Ferdinand, of New York, is visiting her parents.
