FREELAND, PA., JULY 25, 1902.

One of Quay's objections to Elkin as a candidate for governor was that Penrose would be in danger of defeat for the senate should Elkin head the ticket. The fact is that Mr. Penrose's case never looked worse than it does at the outset of Pennypacker's campaign. Quay failed of election at the session of '99 and would have failed at the last except for the most unblushing bribery. Quay had all the united support of the stalwart element, something that Penrose is not at all likely to receive. With the Democrats, Independent Republicans and some of the regulars against him, it looks as if Penrose might as well declare himself out of the race. It would be hard to find a candidate who would not represent the state with more credit, so there need be no worry over the matter.

When Judge Pennypacker declares that Pennsylvania has no evils worthy of mention he gives the lie direct to the North American, Ledger, Press and the many other independent papers of the state, as well as to many stalwart papers outside of the state that declare Pennsylvania to be the worst ring-ridden commonwealth of the union. The Philadelphia Press has for years been waging a bitter war against the evils of Quayism, but now it turns about face and says that because Pennypacker is an honest man it will support him. The Press well knows that Pennypacker is Quay's man and that, if elected, he will absolutely follow Quay's orders. Why shouldn't he, when he declares that Quay is one of the greatest men of the age? The course of the Press may be consistent enough for Philadelphia politics, but it is sadly inconsistent with the dictates of honesty and courage.

"God pity the man who sells his vote in this fight," exclaimed State Treasurer Harris the day before the late Republican convention. According to the Philadelphia Inquirer, Mr. Elkin, Senator Focht and many others forty-one of the delegates would be entitled to the divine pity invoked by Mr. Harris. Mr. Harris expressed the opinion at the same time that a purchased nomination would create such a sentiment through the state that it would be utterly impossible to elect the candidate who secured the dishonest nomination. Mr. Harris ought to be authority on the matter of bribery, for being a prominent member of the last house he is supposed to be more or less familiar with the number of men who sold themselves on the various measures, how much they were paid, etc. He didn't, however, then seem to think it so serious a matter, but rather considered it a good thing for the party. Where would Speaker Marshall have been or Boss Quay had it not been for the men who sold themselves the last session. What reason has Mr. Harris for thinking the people will resent all this devilment at the polls? Is he doing all he can to avenge the bribery of the forty-one votes which defeated his candidate for the governorship?

The most effective Democratic argument in favor of Pattison's election is Pennypacker's fulsome praise of Senator Quay.—WilliamSPORT Sun.

The nomination of ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison for governor by the Democratic State Convention is probably the strongest that could have been made by the minority party, and is certainly a unique honor in the political history of the state. As a man and an official, Mr. Pattison has enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the people whom he has served in a public capacity, and he will, therefore, bring to his canvass a strength which no other candidate in his party ranks could expect.—Lancaster New Era (Rep.).

A preamble of self-gratulation denying any credit to the Almighty for whatever of prosperity is supposed to exist, followed by a mass of words as meaningless as the chattering of daws, constitutes the platform adopted by the Republican convention. A sop is tossed to veteran soldiers and sailors, the same sop which has been thrown at them for years as though the Republican party paid the pensions, and at the same time admission is made of the abuses and atrocities in the Philippines which the national administration tried so hard to conceal.—New Haven Democrat.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Household Cleanliness.
All housekeepers worthy the name aspire to cleanliness without stopping to think that it is of three sorts—traditional, aesthetic and sanitary. It may be remarked in passing that the last of these three is the only one that bears any intimate relation to godliness.

Traditional cleanliness was the strong point of the old fashioned model housekeeper. She directed her energies to ceaseless scrubbing and scourings, but was the sworn enemy of air and sunshine. She rejoiced in such abominations as feather beds, cotton stuffed coverlets, allover carpets and similar homes for enterprising disease germs, and she cared little about the location of the well provided it was handy for her persistent but misdirected cleansing operations.

Aesthetic cleanliness, as still practiced in nine houses out of ten, is even more heedless of the laws of health. It was in deference to its demands that plumbers invented wood cased water pipes and furniture dealers the folding bed and washing cabinet. All it demands is that whatever it fancies unsightly shall be covered up or put out of the way.

Now, sanitary cleanliness—it might also be called real cleanliness in distinction from the other sorts—is a very different matter. It rests on the two great sciences of physiology and bacteriology, and it cannot be successfully secured without at least a rudimentary knowledge of the principles on which it is founded. The old fashioned housekeeper hated dust because it looked untidy and provoked the adverse criticism of her sex. Her granddaughter hates it because it excites pulmonary diseases or is likely to contain stray germs inimical to health. The practical difference lies in the fact that the scientific housekeeper will make war not only against the dust in sight, but against the dust which she merely suspects of existing. She has seen through the microscope the secrets of air and water, and her standard for the purity of the household surroundings is raised by her knowledge of the invisible dangers to health and comfort.

High Chair For Baby.
One of the earliest requirements of a child is a high chair with a shelf in front to prevent a fall and serve as a tray when mealtime arrives. As a very convenient substitute for the common high chair Alfred H. Hunting of Iron Mountain, Mich., has designed the arrangement shown in the drawing. As will be seen, this device is intended for use in connection with an ordinary dining chair and does not interfere in any way with the use of the latter by grown persons, while the seat can be folded in small compass when not needed for the child. The frame consists of two vertical posts of sufficient length to extend from the upper to the lower crosspiece of the chair back, with a seat pivoted between the posts and supported at the outer ends by two chains. In addition there is a tray having extension braces at the sides for insertion in brackets on the uprights, supported by two vertical posts pivoted to the front of the seat. By detaching the braces from the brackets and allowing the tray to tilt forward and down the seat is exposed to make it an easy matter to place the child in position or lift it out. The device is suspended on the chair by means of two hooks, which screw into the posts, and their adjustment raises the seat to the required height. To fold the seat the tray is allowed to tilt down and the seat is lifted against the posts, when the tray is folded back on the underside of the seat, making a perfectly flat package and leaving the chair for common use.

Visible Ice.

Modern kitchens offer the very best proof that neatness and cleanliness are catered to in a thoroughly satisfactory manner nowadays. The housekeeper of the present day has no faith in things unseen. Both manufacturers and inventors find it to their interest to be governed by this new dispensation in domestic matters. Their latest achievement has done away with the old time metal water cooler by supplying the same receptacle in glass and in two sizes. The larger one is a ten gallon cylinder in the center of which is a tin cylinder for holding ice, so that the water, once filtered, cannot be contaminated by any impurities in the ice. A smaller five gallon cylinder of glass contains a glass case for the ice, which is far more attractive to the eye, but is much more liable to breakage than the metal one when carelessly handled. Both of these water coolers cost $10 each.

REVIEWS

NOTES OF NOTABLES.

Marshal C. E. Clay of Elma, Wash., owns a silver cup presented to his grandfather by Thomas Jefferson Aug. 15, 1779.

General W. F. Draper, who was United States ambassador to Italy from 1897 to 1899, has just returned from a long tour of Egypt and the east.

Joseph Springer has been selected as vice consul in Cuba by General E. S. Bragg, the consul general. Springer has resided in Havana for twenty years.

Louis A. Gudebrod of New York made the design that has been accepted for the memorial arch to be erected in Richmond, Va., to the memory of Jefferson Davis.

The late General Charles H. T. Collis made the bequest in his will that his two regimental flags be deposited in the tomb of his old comrade, General Ulysses S. Grant.

Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad" has been barred from Russia for its heresy. The chapter objected to is his description of weeping over Adam's supposititious grave.

P. H. Harrison of Manchester, N. H., is compiling a history of battleflags of this country, especially of those carried in what he incidentally calls "the brothers' quarrel" in 1861-65.

Alfred Beit, the successor of Cecil Rhodes in the development of South Africa, starts out with a record of having given more to charity in the last ten years than the Rothschilds.

Professor Lewis Swift, who has just passed his eighty-second year, has discovered fifteen comets and 1,342 new nebulae, a record which is only surpassed by that of Sir William Herschel.

Halsuttu Mioco, a full blood Indian, has been elected chief of the Seminole tribe in the Indian Territory, defeating John F. Brown, a half breed. The election may hasten the dissolution of the Seminole tribal government.

At the age of ninety years "Uncle Jack" Haydon, as he was familiarly called, died at Fredericksburg, Va. He was during the civil war a guide to Generals Lee and Jackson in the battles around Fredericksburg.

The name of Lieutenant Charles Carroll Wood, a great-grandson of President Zachary Taylor, appears as the first on the roll of honored dead on Canada's memorial statue to her soldiers who fell in the Boer war and which will be erected in Halifax.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Lole Fuller is to dance in America next season.

Al Hayman has put his yacht Sapphire in commission for the summer.

Mrs. James Lewis is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Drew at Easthampton, on Long Island.

New features, among which is a song by Eddie Foy, have been introduced in "The Wild Rose."

W. H. Crane will open his next season with "David Harum" at the Criterion theater, New York.

Julia Marlowe, E. S. Willard, Ferdinand Gotschalk and Adelaide Herrmann have gone to Europe.

Bertha Creighton will star next season under the management of P. S. Mattox in "A Colonial Girl."

Lillian Coleman, who was one of the stars in "The Burgomaster," has joined the "Prince of Posen" in Boston.

Mrs. Langtry will make a tour of the United States next October with "Mademoiselle Mars" and "The Degenerates."

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

If trees are planted late, it is essential to give plenty of water.

The peach tree produces fruit on wood of the previous season's growth.

Suckers or sprouts coming up between the rows of raspberries and blackberries should be treated as weeds.

Three or four strong canes to one hill of raspberries are better than a dozen spindling and weakly ones. Thin out in good season.

Do not let pear trees grow too tall. Prune them back in June or July, as it will often induce fruitfulness in trees that are tardy bearers.

While in most cases it is a good plan to let the hogs be pastured in the orchard, this should only be done after the trees come into bearing.

Quince roots are small and near the surface and therefore should be protected against the extreme heat and cold by mulching. The trees also need pruning like any other fruit tree.

FACTS FROM FRANCE.

Parisian theater managers have resolved for the future not to admit dramatic critics to dress rehearsals.

The French city of Nantes, with a population of 200,000, has five shops for the sale of mule and horse meat.

A French physician proposes the enactment of a law forbidding women under thirty to wear a corset of any kind under penalty of fine or imprisonment.

Paris is to have a statue of Gavarni, the caricaturist. He was as much the historian of Louis Philippe's reign as John Leech was of the first part of Queen Victoria's.

For a target during big gun practice recently the French northern fleet used the old transport Surcouf. The range was over three and a half miles, and the vessel sank in less than ten minutes after the first gun was fired.

AUTOMOBILE SONG.

Ah, this is the life that I choose!
To thunder along in the rut
Mid the drip of the dirty black screws
And the stench of the grease soaked nut.

Mid the cries of the victims I cut,
Kill, mangle, disfigure and bruise;
Mid the jar and the rapturous glut
And the drip and the smell and the ooze!

Ha, ha! 'Tis the life I enjoy.
One more! Hear his agony wail!
Bump! That was only a boy.
Scrunch! Father, mother or child?
Oh, see how my victims are plied.
Such pleasure my senses will cloy!
Just hear how I'm cursed and reviled.
On, onward, my death dealing toy!

The thing here blew up with a bound
And a fearful, phenomenal joggle,
And these were the articles found—
Suspenders and half a green goggle.
—Life.

A Showdown.

"Now, see here, Miss Angelina, I've went wid you for two weeks dressed like a guy, had ter lick fourteen fellers an' spent 11 cents. Now I want ter know your exax' feelin's toward me. Talk quick."—New York Journal.

A Reckless Plunger.

In the great gambling hall there was breathless silence.
A poker game between two of the billionaires was in progress.
About their tables were packed and jammed hundreds of curious excited people watching their play with astonishment.
"I'll bet you a porterhouse steak," says one.
Murmurs of awe rise from the watchers.
Clear and stern comes the answer:
"I'll see that porterhouse steak and raise you two rib roasts, a pig's knuckle and a can of oxtail soup."
Here the onlookers gasped.
One of them indeed muttered:
"It is such things as this that make anarchists."—Baltimore American.

Nice Prospect For Him.

"Are you ready to live on my income?" he asked softly.
She looked up into his face trustingly.
"Certainly, dearest," she answered.
"If what?"
"If you can get another one for yourself."
"Another?"
"Yes; another income."—Chicago Post.

A Gentle Hint.

Staylate—Do you suffer with insomnia?
Edith—Yes; awfully.
Staylate—I understand that a walk in the open air at night is a certain remedy.
Edith—All right. You do the walking, and I'll go to bed and see what the effect is.—Baltimore World.

Delicate, Yet Emphatic.

"What I object to," said the young woman who wants to vote, "is taxation without representation."
"If it's all the same to you," said the young man who is too bashful to propose directly, "I should be only too happy to represent your sentiments at the polls at every election."—Washington Star.

He Took It.

Gertrude—You say you've only been there two weeks and have an interest in the business?
Vansant—Yes. I was two hours late this morning, and the boss told me I'd better take some interest in the business in the future.—Detroit Free Press.

A Day Late.

Employer—You are not satisfactory, Johnny, and I give you notice that I will discharge you at the end of the week.
Office Boy—Aw, why didn't you say dat before de ball game yesterday?—Ohio State Journal.

Precious.

Guest—See here, waiter, I've been waiting nearly an hour for that steak.
Waiter—Sorry, sir, but the cook forgot the combination to the safe, and we had to send for an expert to open it.—New York Journal.

A Clever Idea.

Jones—That's the neatest and most polite office boy I ever saw. How do you manage it?
Smith—Pay the typewriter a dollar a week extra for making love to him.—Puck.

In Doubt.

Mrs. Kyndharte—Where is your home, poor man?
Tuffold Knot—I ain't sure, mum. De switch engine was in its vicinity w'en I lef' dis morning.—Commoner.

Her Surmise.

Nell—Who were the people the Bible speaks of as "having eyes they see not and having ears they hear not?"
Bell—Clapnetons, I suppose.—Philadelphia Record.
