SETTLEMENT RUMORS AGAIN

Miners' Great Struggle Is Drawing to a Close.

Renewed Activity of Union Officials Follows Mysterious Meeting at Philadelphia--Baer Predicts End.

The movement began in August to end the coal strike, and which had about succeeded in its difficult task when a horde of glory-seeking politicians stepped in and nullified the greater part of the work accomplished, has been resumed, and the indications are that success will be achieved this time, as the middle-mongers who sought to make partisan capital out of the settlement have been warned by both sides to keep hands off.

At the head of this movement is a strong broad man of national reputation. His name is being kept a secret by those who know of his plans. They say that to divulge it at this time might again bring his efforts to naught.

It is confidently stated by persons who know something of this mysterious movement that it is stronger than the operators and stronger than the miners. Its object isn't the advancement of either, but the settlement of the strike upon the broad ground of public rights.

The representative of this movement was at the Hotel Walton, Philadelphia, on Monday. In response to a call from the mysterious man, President Mitchell, Secretary Wilson and District Presidents Nichols, Fahy and Duffy hurried to Philadelphia. That he is a man of great standing and importance is evidenced by the fact that they dropped important work to answer his summons.

Mr. Mitchell was so busy he wouldn't go all the way to Indianapolis, and Mr. Wilson was so busy he could not go all the way to Wilkesbarre to attend to routine matters of the organization, which they had to go over. So they split the journey and met in Pittsburgh. Mr. Mitchell expected, when he left Wilkesbarre, to be back Sunday night.

Then came the summons. It was so important that Mr. Wilson dropped the great mass of work waiting for him in Indianapolis and journeyed all the way to Philadelphia to attend the conference. This fact is accepted as proof that the miners' leaders regarded it as a matter very important to their cause.

Since their return to Wilkesbarre Mr. Mitchell and the three district presidents have refused every request for information concerning the Philadelphia conference. They will not say whom they met, what proposition, if any, was made, whether a settlement is in sight, or what effect the meeting will ultimately have upon the strike.

President Mitchell declares that the person with whom he was in conference did not represent the coal operators. This declaration is not considered important, as Mr. Mitchell would not deny that indirectly this person might be authorized to speak for the coal companies. The impression at strike headquarters is that the mysterious man is one of J. Pierpont Morgan's financial agents. It is also believed that the man who conferred with the miners' chief got his best terms for a settlement of the strike and that those terms are now being discussed by the mine owners.

That the conference gave the union leaders renewed hope of winning the strike is evident. They are all in good spirits and a particularly happy frame of mind. Unless all signs fail, this latest movement will be productive of results which will be entirely satisfactory to the miners.

Rumors of settlement upon the basis that the men shall return to work under a guarantee that they will be met in a wage scale conference at some future time are killed outright by statements from all the strike leaders, from President Mitchell down, to the effect that the men will not return under any promise. They feel confident that they have the operators beaten, and they will not accept any compromise of that sort.

They want the questions involved settled, once and for all, and they say they will stay out until they are settled.

MISCELLANEOUS ADVERTISEMENTS.

IN RE-APPOINTMENT OF GUARDIAN OF THE ESTATE OF BRIDGET MCGEYRICK.
Notice is hereby given that Eileen Boyle has presented a petition to the court of common pleas of Luzerne county, asking the appointment of a guardian of the estate of Bridget McGeyrick, of Freeland. The said petition appearing to be in proper form, the court has directed the same to be filed, and has appointed Monday, October 6, 1902, at 10 o'clock a. m., as the time for hearing, when such decree will be made unless cause shown to the contrary.
John M. Gay,
Attorney for Petitioner.

One of the district presidents who has traveled through the three regions, said yesterday that men everywhere had told him they would never go into the mines again unless the conditions were revised. They will go elsewhere and engage in other occupations, he said, rather than work under the conditions which prevailed in the anthracite regions before the strike began.

BAER PREDICTS THE END.

After the meeting of the presidents of the anthracite coal-carrying roads in New York city yesterday, President George F. Baer, of the Reading, gave this in an interview regarding the strike: "When will the strike end? Last week I declined to make a prediction when it will end, but I will make one now. You can say that the strike will end very soon. I won't say whether it will be next week or the week after, but it will be very soon.

"Any way, it will be positively settled before we have any signs of really cold weather. I do not wish to make any reply to John Mitchell's statement. Every one knows what the issues are, and there is no use going over them.

"I repeat that there will be no settlement or arbitration, but the strike will be settled, as I have stated all along, by the men going back to work."

The meeting of the railroad presidents lasted more than two hours. Every road was represented.

Vice President Loomis, of the Lackawanna Company, said that the end of the strike was near. His conference on Monday with miners formerly in the company's employ had no effect whatever; in fact, it tended to intensify the situation, for the 150 men working at the Cayuga mining coal quit yesterday, leaving that place idle.

FIASCO AT DRIFTON.

The much-heralded resumption at Drifton took place this morning. Not one new man reported for work, although a special train with 142 coal and iron police steamed into the town early this morning. The deputies were placed along all roads leading to the colliery, but did not have the pleasure of escorting a single individual to work. No strikers were in evidence.

At 7 o'clock the breaker machinery started, and up to noon the gunboat had made thirty trips up and down the slope. Seven of these trips found the car loaded, twenty-three times it was empty.

Several employes of the outside department who were asked to assist in the "resumption" refused to do so and quit work.

The bricklayers and stone masons employed on the new boiler-house at No. 1 asked that the armed guards around them be removed. The request was refused and the men then stopped work and came home.

Death of Andrew McNulty.

Andrew McNulty died on Monday at Hanover hospital, Scranton, where he had been receiving treatment for the past few weeks. He was 34 years of age and was a son of the late Thomas McNulty, who, with his family, was a resident of this and neighboring towns for a number of years.

Some years ago Mr. McNulty was a school teacher in Foster township and few young men had a more promising career, being possessed of a bright intellect, a good education and natural ability far above the ordinary.

He is survived by his mother, two brothers and four sisters. The remains were taken yesterday from Scranton to the home of his sister, Mrs. Patrick Ward, Silver Brook. The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, followed by a requiem mass at McAdoo and interment at Hazleton.

Criminal Libel Charged.

Rev. Carl Houser, pastor of St. Peter and Paul's Slavonian Lutheran church, yesterday entered a suit against L. G. Lubrecht, editor of the Hazleton Standard, for criminal libel. Rev. Houser enumerates several allegations, among them that the said L. G. Lubrecht wilfully and maliciously injured his reputation and standing in the community. The outcome of the suit was an article in the columns of the Standard on Monday, in which it was alleged that Rev. Houser was doing missionary work among the members of his congregation to return to work.

The warrant was sworn out before Squire T. A. Buckley and was served by Constable Condy Furey. The defendant waived a hearing and entered bail in the sum of $500 for his appearance at court.

TUBERCULOSIS.

Campaign to be Waged Against Further Spread of Consumption.

From the Philadelphia Press.
To further the work of stamping out tuberculosis in Pennsylvania, the Free Hospital for Poor Consumptives, which has its sanitarium at White Haven, hopes soon to open a clinic in this city, where poor victims of the disease may be treated, and which shall be a center for the distribution of literature bearing upon the prevention of the disease.

The society hopes also, in the near future, to have a hospital building where cases, not dying, but which are too far advanced to be taken to White Haven, may be cared for.

These two projects are a part of the campaign against the spread of consumption, a campaign which the Free Hospital and the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis are preparing to carry into every part of the state.

Dr. Lawrence F. Flick, president of the Free Hospital, said yesterday:

"There are probably 10,000 cases of consumption in Pennsylvania today. Of these two-thirds are too poor to pay for proper treatment. We have ninety beds at White Haven, but we have more than one hundred patients on the waiting list.

"What we are particularly working for now is registration. The Board of Health a year ago made an effort to have tuberculosis placed upon the list of contagious diseases, but failed. The Board of Health can only learn where the disease lurks through the registration of every case. The objects of such registration are: First, to give knowledge and help to the consumptive and his family for their protection and for the protection of the public; second, to protect people against the danger of contaminated houses, into which they may innocently move.

"New York is ahead of us in this matter of registration, for in that city every case must be made known. In Boston, also, all premises that have been occupied by consumptives are disinfected. Such a compulsory arrangement in Philadelphia would be a great step forward in the work of stamping out the disease.

"As far as private efforts go Pennsylvania has accomplished more in this work than any other state. Except for the $50,000 appropriated last year by the legislature for the Free Hospital for Poor Consumptives, we have had no government support, either in the way of funds or legislation.

"It costs between $3,000 and $4,000 a month to care for the patients we have at White Haven. Of this amount the state gives about $1,000 and we are compelled to look to the charity of friends of the institution for the balance."

Remarkable Orders.

By orders of Superintendent L. C. Smith, of Drifton, any wagon driven by Burgess John E. Boyle, of Freeland, must not be weighed at Drifton scales. Mr. Boyle is a driver for Freeland Brewing Company and an active union worker. Fuel from Harleigh culm bank is used at the brewery and weighed at Drifton. Mr. Smith recently learned that the Burgess sometimes drives the fuel-wagon and immediately issued an order that any wagon driven by Mr. Boyle must not be weighed at Cox's Bros. & Co.'s scales.

When the Burgess arrived yesterday at Drifton with a load of culm he was refused the privilege of having it weighed and those in charge notified him of Smith's remarkable orders.

Candidates Plan Work.

A meeting of the Democratic county candidates was held at the county seat yesterday and plans were laid for the coming campaign. There is a strong feeling in the party that the entire ticket will be elected by a large majority next month.

The members of the county committee were also chosen at this meeting. Those who will represent the Fourth district are: R. J. O'Donnell, Esq., Freeland; John J. McNellis, Drifton; Henry Walser, Condy J. O'Donnell, Hazleton, and John J. McGeehan and Silas E. Jones, West Hazleton.

Miners' Mass Meeting.

Preparations have been made for the holding of a mass meeting of the striking mine workers of Freeland and vicinity this evening. The meeting will be held at the corner of Ridge and Luzerne streets, opposite the Grand opera house building, and will be addressed by several speakers, among them W. R. Detrey, of Nuremberg, a member of the executive board of District 7.

The meeting will be called to order at 7 o'clock and every striker in this section of the region is invited to be present.

Happenings of the Past Two Days in and Around Freeland Recorded Without Waste of Words.

By Saturday evening it is expected that the silk mill's bolters will be ready for use and that the plant will have its own power thereafter. Owing to the poor quality of coal used at the electric light works, from which the mill receives its steam, much difficulty is found in keeping the machinery moving. The silk mill will run day and night as soon as its bolters are ready for use.

Richard Drasher and Al Daubert have accepted positions at South Bethlehem and will remain there if the work is satisfactory to them. Both men are good musicians and their jobs were secured by members of South Bethlehem band, which organization they will join.

Sixty boys from the Powderly school, in Carbondale township, Lackawanna county, went on strike because seven children of non-union miners would not be turned out. They then marched with banners and drums to the Mayfield school and induced the boys there to strike.

Believing the prophecy of one of their number that the world will come to an end before the month of October has passed, a band of Second Adventists, who reside in great numbers near the border of Susquehanna and Bradford counties, are now busily engaged preparing for the event.
