

GOVERNOR OF OREGON

Uses Pe-ru-na in His Family For Colds and Grip.

CAPITOL BUILDING, SALEM, OREGON.

A Letter From the Executive Office of Oregon.

Pe-ru-na is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Letters of congratulation and commendation testifying to the merits of Pe-ru-na as a cathartic remedy are pouring in from every State in the Union. Dr. Hartman is receiving hundreds of such letters daily. All classes write these letters, from the highest to the lowest.

The outdoor laborer, the indoor artisan, the clerk, the editor, the statesman, the preacher—all agree that Pe-ru-na is the cathartic remedy of the age. The stage and rostrum, recognizing catharsis as their greatest enemy, are especially enthusiastic in their praise and testimony.

Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from catharsis. Catharsis is well-nigh universal; almost omnipresent. Pe-ru-na is the only absolute safeguard known. A cold is the beginning of catharsis. To prevent colic, to cure colic, is to cheat catharsis out of its victims. Pe-ru-na not only cures catharsis, but prevents. Every household should be supplied with this great remedy for coughs, colds and so forth.

The Governor of Oregon is an ardent admirer of Pe-ru-na. He keeps it continually in the house. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman he says:

STATE OF OREGON,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SALEM, May 9, 1908.

The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:
Dear Sirs—I have had occasion to use your Pe-ru-na medicine in my family for colds, and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for other ailments.

Yours very truly,
W. M. Lord.

It will be noticed that the Governor says he has not had occasion to use Pe-ru-na for other ailments. The reason for this is most other ailments begin with a cold. Using Pe-ru-na to promptly cure colds, he protects his family against other ailments. This is exactly what every other family in the United States should do. Keep Pe-ru-na in the house. Use it for coughs, colds, grippe and other climatic affections of winter, and there will be no other ailments in the house. Such families should provide themselves with a copy of Dr. Hartman's free book, entitled "Winter Catharsis." Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

THE WORLD'S COFFEE SUPPLY.

Three-Fourths of All That is Used Comes From Brazil.

Coffee was originally indigenous to Abyssinia, from whence it was introduced in Ceylon and Java, but since its introduction into the West Indies and South America its original habitat has almost been forgotten. Its cultivation in its native home has been completely neglected. Brazil is now the most important coffee producing country of the world, producing, according to the "Government Crop Reporter," almost three-fourths of the annual crop. Brazil's position with reference to the coffee market is much like that which this country occupies as regards corn. Similarly, while Chicago is the chief corn mart of the world, Santos, in the State of San Paulo, Brazil, is the chief coffee mart. From this point about one-third of the world's coffee commerce originates.

How to Prove a Diamond's Worth.

In detecting a false gem from a genuine, the X-ray can be relied on with absolute certainty. Diamonds, as is well known, are pure carbon; and carbon, which is opaque to the ordinary light, is transparent to the Roentgen light, while glass, which is transparent to ordinary light, is opaque to the Roentgen ray. On an X-ray photograph of a real diamond nothing will show but the shadow of the gold setting.

LAND'S END SARINES.

How Cornwall Fishermen Net Pilchards for British Markets.

The old debate as to whether pilchards are not identical with sardines has now been decided in the affirmative. According to Mr. Adflo, this word sardine must be taken to mean indefinitely a small fish preserved in oil, and not an individual species. This small fish may be a pilchard or it may be a sprat. That is to say, naturalists do not recognize a fish called the sardine; the word merely signifies a method of preparation. The point may be disputed, but cannot be controverted. Visitors to Cornwall sometimes deny it on the ground that the pilchards shown to them are larger than the average sardine, but they should remember that the fish are usually packed minus head and tail, which means a considerable diminution in size. For centuries this transformation of pilchards into sardines has been going on. We read in Morison's "Itinerary," a book familiar to Shakespeare's day, that the inhabitants of Cornwall make great gain by the fishing of pilchards, which they salt and dry in the smoke, and export a huge multitude of them yearly into Spain and Italy. This practice of smoking them gave the fish the name of fumadoes, corrupted locally into "fair mads."

'Tis the silver fair maids that cause such a strife
'Twixt the master-seiner and his drunken wife.

The fish are not preserved in this manner now, but are piled and pressed in layers of salt. Being thoroughly salted and relieved of superfluous fluids they are taken from the fish cellars and dispatched in barrels to the local or foreign "sardiners." The difference in size between these Cornish "sardines" and those caught on the coasts of France is really a result of difference in netting, not in the species of the fish. The Cornish fishers use a net with a comparatively large mesh, this letting the smaller and more delicate fish escape, but the French, with a closer mesh, pay special attention to the smaller fish. The men of St. Ives and Newlyn are very conservative, as will be remembered by their agitation on the Sunday question; but the adoption of a closer mesh would be a move in the right direction.

Eight young Chinese lady students, aged from 14 to 21, belonging to some of the most wealthy and distinguished families in the province of Kiangsu, left there recently for Japan, to go through a course of education extending over three or four years. This is entirely unprecedented in the history of Chinese education.

Bad Coughs

"I had a bad cough for six weeks and could find no relief until I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Only one-fourth of the bottle cured me."
L. Hawn, Newington, Ont.

Neglected colds always lead to something serious. They run into chronic bronchitis, pneumonia, asthma, or consumption. Don't wait, but take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral just as soon as your cough begins. A few doses will cure you.

Three sizes: 25c., 50c., $1. All druggists.

Consult your doctor. If he says take it, then do as he says. If he tells you not to take it, then don't take it. He knows. Leave it with him. We are willing.

BAMBOO FOR THE WORLD.

An Almost Unlimited Supply in the Philippines—Its Many Uses.

If, in the course of human events, it ever happens that the Philippine Islands should become a sovereign State, part of or independent of the United States, it needs no great stretch of imagination to prophesy that its emblem will be the stately and useful bamboo tree, which is so beloved of all the Filipinos.

To the visitor first viewing the islands from the deck of an incoming ship, the towering, bare trunks of the bamboo, canopied with its turfed top of light, feathery plumes, that respond with languorous, graceful waves to even the softest breeze, make the most noticeable feature of the landscape.

Not only is it met with in the wild state everywhere, but the natives surround their houses, usually built entirely of the bamboo, with cultivated groves of the trees, its bareness of trunk up to almost its extreme height, exceeding sixty feet in some cases, and its broad, spreading top making it the most desirable shade tree on the islands. But, while its use for shade purposes is fully appreciated, the bamboo is put to many more practical uses.

Whole villages, varying as to structure from the smallest hut up to the large and architecturally ambitious church edifices, are built of the split trunks of these giant trees. The wood is tough, pliable and elastic, and houses built of it by native experts have been known to withstand the storms and heat of several generations. And it is wonderful with what rapidity a house may be thrown together when the bamboo is used.

One temporary dweller in the centre of the island of Luzon, having to entertain some visitors, had an extensive work attached to his bungalow by two Filipino carpenters in three days—roofed, floored, and ready for occupancy.

The bamboo is also used in the construction of suspension bridges, and on the islands are many such bridges, some several hundred feet in length, over which a light train might safely be run. Piping is also made from the trunks by a following process, and furniture, rafts, scaffolding, carts, baskets, vessels to contain liquids, weapons, cordage, huts, mats, palings, carrying poles, and many other useful things are manufactured from the tree.

It is also supposed to contain medicinal qualities, as from it a white substance is taken which the natives use to allay the inflammation of the eyes caused by the intensity of the sun's rays, the more superstitious believing also that a stone which is occasionally found imbedded in the larger trunks contains the power to cure all the ills that the body is cursed with.

Those Poor Rich Boys.

While settlements and all those who are eager to advance the condition of the poor spend unlimited time in furthering schemes to give east side boys a chance to play, no one thinks of the poor, unfortunate boys who live in the better class flats on the west side. Yet their case needs looking into even more than the boys of the slums, for the latter, at least, have the freedom of the streets. The flat boys have no public playgrounds. They cannot play before their own doors, because the janitors won't have them there; they cannot play across the street, because the janitor there chases them, and so it is with every spot on the streets. Even the centre of the road is restricted, for they could play ball there if the law did not forbid. As a natural result, therefore, "Satan finds mischief" for them to do, which usually gets them under the eyes of the policeman, and, indeed, often leads to serious trouble, and another boy gone wrong. As one of these unfortunate boys sagely remarks, "If the city would give us a place to play ball and other games it wouldn't need to pay so many policemen to chase us all the time."—New York Herald.

One Youngster's Stock of Names.

The person with perhaps the longest name of any person, big or little, in the Western hemisphere, is blacking boots on Paducah's streets. This youngster with the wealth of title will answer to the name of Arthur or Hugh, but if one proposes to give him all that is due, one must address the young gentleman as Arthur Hugh Thomas DeWitt Talmage Hardin Ireland Marion Edward Linnie Branch Sam Jones Pigue Reuben Walker Childs.

Young Arthur Hugh, etc., Childs is the sixteen-year-old son of the Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Childs. Often by way of a joke young Childs says to a prospective patron:

"I'll tell you what I'll do, mister. I'll tell you my name, and if you can repeat it, I'll black your shoes free. If you fail, you pay."

If the man agrees, the boy rattles off the whole seventeen as fast as his tongue can form the words. He has never yet failed to get the money.—Paducah News-Democrat.

Australia's Blackberry Pest.

Blackberries thrive more luxuriantly in Australia than in Europe or America, their growth being so rapid that in many places they are regarded as an agricultural pest. Like the first rabbits, the original blackberry vines have grown and multiplied until they bid fair to cover the face of the country. The bushes are not cultivated—they can look after themselves, as many Australian agriculturists are painfully aware—but the jam made from their fruit is sufficiently tempting to make one forget their unwelcome presence on the farm.—The Garden.

In cases where bronchitis has become chronic from want of proper treatment in the earlier stages, there is nothing so good as Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Breast Tea, in conjunction with which is strongly advised the use of St. Jacobs Oil as an outward application along the front of the throat, from close up under the chin to well down to the top of the chest; the one remedy assists the other, and as intended, they work in complete unison. The wonderful penetrating power of St. Jacobs Oil enables it to reach the adhesion of foreign matter which lines the bronchial tubes and which makes breathing more and more difficult. As these adhesions become inflamed and enlarged, St. Jacobs Oil causes such adhesions to break away, making expectation easier and more free. Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Breast Tea, drunk slowly and very hot, soothes and heals the parts, is comforting and quieting, stops the cough and relieves the breathing. This manner of treatment (and there is no other two remedies that will work together so successfully) reaches the difficulty from the outside and the inside at the same time. St. Jacobs Oil reaches the roots of the adhesion, and assists Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Breast Tea in clearing them; then both remedies act in unison in healing and curing. The above remarks apply with equal force in cases of asthma, croup, whooping cough, enlarged tonsils and all bronchial affections. Every family should have St. Jacobs Oil and Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Breast Tea always in the house in order that they may be promptly used in the first stages. Often the maladies develop with wonderful rapidity, and complications take place with equal suddenness.

The Press an Americanizer.

The progress of Americanization of the thousands of immigrants to this country advances naturally because of association, but another factor is hinted at in the report of the census bureau on the newspapers printed here in languages other than English. In the United States there were published in 1900, 17,194 papers in English, as against 13,848 in 1890, an increase of about 24 per cent. During the same period the number printed in other tongues declined from 1,053 to 1,026, although the number of immigrants increased 1,210,538 during the decade. The inference drawn from these comparisons is that more of the foreign population are reading the publications printed in English, and in this way learning faster the language and customs of the country, and that they are depending less upon the languages with which they are familiar. As to the nationalities that are making the greatest progress in this direction it would appear, from the decline in their papers, that the Dutch are in the lead, notwithstanding that they are inclined to settle in colonies, where the tendency naturally would be to continue the customs and language of the mother country. Next to these are the French, most of whom are from Canada, and are fast becoming Americanized, even in many cases to the adoption of American names. The Germans also are quick to learn the language of the country, and there are 114 fewer papers printed in German than there were 10 years ago.

Care in Packing Good Fruit.

In a recent report by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson regarding the results from shipments of fruit to England, he states that the returns from two lots of pears were 60 per cent. more for the lot that was packed after each specimen was wrapped in oiled paper. It may be said that this result was largely due to the fact that our English friends were not familiar with fruit put up in this manner and bought it because of the novel way of packing. Possibly there is something in this, but on the other hand it has been demonstrated time and again that there is a market for good fruit put up in attractive form. It would not do to pack inferior fruit in this manner, for it would kill the market, but the very care taken to pack the fruit attractively indicates to the buyer that it is likely to be superior to that packed in the ordinary manner, hence he is willing to pay the additional price asked for it. If one has some especially good specimens it will cost but a few dollars for paper and baskets to try the plan extensively and prove its value.

The Good Woman's Wish.

Archbishop-elect John M. Farley enjoys a good story as well as the next, and when passing a social hour sometimes recounts his experiences. At a dinner given to the Very Rev. Dean Liags in Yonkers several weeks ago the Bishop related the following to the delectation of the assembled guests: "It was shortly after I had been made vicar general or monsignor—I do not remember which—when an aged Irish woman encountered me on the street. She was a good old soul and had been a member of our parish church for years. Grasping me by the hand, she remarked: 'Oh, father, and sure the Lord bless you; I hear they gave you a rise.' I replied that her information was correct. 'Well,' she responded, 'an' I'm pleased for that; it's yourself that deserves the rise.' I thanked the good woman sincerely, and was about to leave her, when, still holding my hand, she remarked: 'And all I hope is that the next rise they give you will be to heaven.'"

Web-Spining by Red Ants.

A remarkable exhibition of the web-spinning powers of the red ant (Oecophila smaragdina) has been reported by Mr. E. G. Green, of the botanical gardens at Peradeniya, Ceylon. A breach having been made in a structure of leaves on which they were at work, the ants, together, and about an hour afterward they were seen to be passing back and forth across the gap two white grubs from whose mouths issued continuous threads of silk that the ants were using to repair the damage. The larvae had evidently been brought from a nest some distance away.

Mrs. Tupman, a prominent lady of Richmond, Va., a great sufferer with woman's troubles, tells of her cure by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For some years I suffered with backache, severe bearing-down pains, leucorrhoea, and falling of the womb. I tried many remedies, but nothing gave any positive relief.

"I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in June, 1901. When I had taken the first half bottle, I felt a vast improvement, and have now taken ten bottles with the result that I feel like a new woman. When I commenced taking the Vegetable Compound I felt all worn out and was fast approaching complete nervous collapse. I weighed only 98 pounds. Now I weigh 104 pounds and am improving every day. I gladly testify to the benefits received."
Mrs. R. C. TUPMAN, 423 West 30th St., Richmond, Va.

When a medicine has been successful in more than a million cases, is it justice to yourself to say, without trying it, "I do not believe it would help me?"

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak and sick and discouraged, exhausted with each day's work. You have some derangement of the feminine organism, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as surely as it has others.

Mrs. W. H. Pelham, Jr., 108 E. Baker St., Richmond, Va., says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I must say that I do not believe there is any female medicine to compare with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I return to you my heartfelt thanks for what your medicine has done for me. Before taking the Vegetable Compound I was so badly off that I thought I could not live much longer. The little work I had to do was a burden to me. I suffered with irregular menstruation and leucorrhoea, which caused an irritation of the parts. I looked like one who had consumption, but I do not look like that now, and I owe it all to your wonderful medicine.

"I took only six bottles, but it has made me feel like a new person. I thank God that there is such a female helper as you."

Be it, therefore, believed by all women who are ill that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine they should take. It has stood the test of time, and it has hundreds of thousands of cures to its credit. Women should consider it unwise to use any other medicine.

Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerfully and without cost all letters addressed to her by sick women. Perhaps she has just the knowledge that will help your case—try her to-day—it costs nothing.
