THEATRICAL.

Denman Thompson has played his "Old Homestead" in every important city on this continent and has achieved a national reputation not equalled by any actor in the atrical records. More than this, he has personally endeared himself to the general public and the announcement of his appearance in any city is sure to awaken enthusiasm and attract overflowing and delighted audi-ences, regular orthodox church attend-ants as well as the usual threatre pat-ros. ences, regular orthodox church attend-ants as well as the usual threatre pat-rons. This statement is made in view of the announcements made of the com-ing appearance here of "The Two Sis-ters," a companion piece to the "Old Homestead"-writtenby Denman Thomp-son and his jolly literary co-worker, George Ryer. Their names are an assurance of its unusual merit and in the very few places where Denman Thompson has not personally appeared the "The Two Sisters" will be welcomed as a representative of the best work of the beloved comedian. This play is an-nounced for presentation at the Grand opera house on Friday evening and should attract a tremendous audience. $\ddagger \ddagger \ddagger$ "Side Tracked," the attraction sched-uled for tomorrow evening, contains enough entertaining diversity to keep an audience in foontinual hilarity and runs the gamut of sensation, farce, meiodrama and variety. A murder is committed, a theatrical company have a stractive a lover as any other girl could wish. Pretty girls sing and dance themselves into popularity and "Side Tracked" moves along without a duli moment, with the soubrette and tramp in the lead. Sensational climaxes are found in scenes of railroad contrivances. The tramp's first appearance is from the doors of a passing freight car, and later he is seen riding on the cowcatcher of an engine as it dashes across the stage.

The evicted men told him they had never wittingly signed such a lease and had never given authority to any person to confess judgment in ejection. "I believe," continued the witness, "the men had a good defense, so I saw the sheriff and asked him to notify me a day or two before he served the notice, so I could prepare the defense. He promised to do so, but failed, and when I upbraided him he said the writs had been prepared at midnight and brought to him at 6 o'clock in the morning with instructions to serve them immediately." Counsel for the company asked the witness if he was not aware that judg-ment could not be confessed unless an agreement had been signed. "I have heard of forged papers," re-piled-Mr. McCarthy. "Do you know if Markle & Co. even charged the minors in any way for the services of doctors or nurses?"
"The men were never charged on point for any service."
Judge Gray asked: "In visiting minors' families did you ever seek information outside your profession? Do the doctors or nurses act as spies, as been charged?"
"Never. It would be against the rules of my profession to seek private information or to divulge any information that might be confided to me."
