PITTSTON MAN SHOT DEAD

Killed While Responding to a Call for Help.

Railroader on His Way Home From Work Listens to Cries for Assistance and Then Meets Sudden Death.

Anthony McHugh, of Pittston, a freight conductor on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, was on his way home from work about 4 o'clock yesterday morning when he saw two men fighting on Main street, in that city. One of them was crying for help, and McHugh went to his rescue. When he reached the men one of them pulled a revolver and began firing. Two of the bullets struck McHugh, one entering his heart and the other his right leg.

As McHugh fell dead several other men ran up. Among them was James Kearney, a young man. Just as he arrived he was shot in the abdomen and sank to the ground in an unconscious condition. He was removed to the hospital.

McHugh, it is said, after being shot was robbed of his month's pay, amounting to $100. He was a prominent Democratic politician.

The police have not yet obtained a clue of the men who were fighting.

Contest Hearings End.

The farcical hearings in the contest instituted against Representative B. J. Ferry by ex-Sheriff James G. Harvey came to an end Saturday morning at Hazleton. The sub-committee appointed to take testimony in the contest has returned to Harrisburg, and nothing more will be heard of the case until a short while before the legislature adjourns, when a report will be presented in which the election committee will recommend that Harvey be seated. This will give the ex-sheriff an opportunity to draw the salary for the full term, although the contest failed to show that the slightest fraud had been committed or that Mr. Ferry had won by any than legal and honest votes.

Many of Harvey's former friends are surprised that he should become a party to such a nefarious scheme to loot the state treasury, but those who know say that he spent heavily to find out that the Fourth district did not want him at Harrisburg and that his contest was gotten up with the sanction of Quay and Penrose to reimburse him for his outlay.

A Useful Invention.

George Hudock, the East Main street saloonist, has invented an arrangement which is bound to meet with a ready sale when it is placed on the market. It consists of a combination measure and funnel and is designed for the use of saloonists and others who are frequently required to measure liquids and then pour the contents into bottles. The present method is to fill the pint, quart or gallon measure, then place a funnel in the neck of the bottle and to pour the contents of the measure into the bottle through the funnel.

Frequently the funnel is mislaid and when found much of the contents of the measure are often spilled during the pouring process.

Mr. Hudock's device combines the measure and funnel in one piece. As soon as the measure is filled the contents can be transferred at once to a bottle. It not only saves time and labor but prevents the loss of any of the contents, as the liquid can go nowhere else but into the bottle.

The inventor has taken steps to have his arrangement patented, and those who have been allowed to see it and observe its practical working predict that it will be in great demand when its merits become known to those who require such an article.

Out-of-Town Deaths.

Mrs. Ellen Stephenson died at Lansford Thursday night and was buried there this morning. The deceased is survived by her husband and two children. She had many relatives here and among those who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Denis J. Ferry, Jr., Mrs. C. F. Haganey, Misses Annie McMenamin and Maue McDevitt, John J. and Hugh A. McMenamin and Patrick McDevitt.

Mrs. Patrick Dowling died yesterday at her home in Warrior Run, leaving a husband and eight children. She was a daughter of Mrs. James Shovlin, of Adams street, and has a large number of relatives here, many of whom will attend the funeral Wednesday morning.

Committees Appointed.

George McLaughlin, president of the borough council, has appointed these committees to serve for the ensuing term:

Building and grounds—Doggett, Brennan and Carpenter.

Law and order—William Gallagher, Moore and Doggett.

Street—Crawford, P. G. Gallagher and Ward.

Printing—P. G. Gallagher, McClellan and William Gallagher.

Light—Hincer, Carpenter and Crawford.

Sanitary—Ward, Brennan and Moore.

Finance—McClellan, McNelis and P. G. Gallagher.

Band Entertainment.

The members of St. Ann's Parish band have completed their arrangements for their annual entertainment at the Grand opera house tomorrow evening. Among the features of the program are moving pictures, pianola selections, songs, dances, recitations, instrumental music, etc. Miss Cecelia Stettler, the eight-year-old girl whose specialties at Young's pier, Atlantic City, captured the seashore crowds last summer, has been secured and will positively appear.

The admission has been placed at 15 and 25 cents and seats are now on sale at McMenamin's store.

Tomorrow's Celebration.

St. Patrick's Day will be celebrated tomorrow under the auspices of the Catholic societies of St. Ann's parish in the manner noted in Friday's issue. The parade will form at St. Ann's church at 1.30 p. m. and proceed to town, where the principal streets will be traversed. The various societies which have decided to participate expect to turn out with full ranks.

At 9 o'clock in the morning a high mass will be read at St. Ann's church.

Win at Lansford.

The Crescent basket ball team defeated Lansford at the latter place Saturday evening by a score of 11 to 2. The game was interesting, notwithstanding the one-sided score. At times the Lansford players were inclined to inject unnecessary roughness into the play. The two points they made were gained by free throws. Freeland was well represented at the game, a dozen members of the Crescent Club having accompanied the team.

THEATRICAL.

The beautiful rural and rustic comedy drama "One Night in June," will be the attraction at the Grand opera house tonight. This splendid play was written by the well-known versatile character comedian, W. J. Holmes, who truthfully plays the part of Silas Devey, an honest Vermont farmer. This drama cannot be classed with the every-day "rube" shows of the "b-gosh" variety. Its story is different. This play tells a sweet story of old New England life, with the funny saying of its funny folk. The piece has a strong blending of comedy and pathos, with several charming pastoral scenes introduced and is altogether a lesson in life of the plain country people, which instructs while it entertains the play-goer who witnesses it. Many new and splendid specialties are introduced during the action of the piece and there is not one dull moment in it.

Wm. A. Brady's "Way Down East."

Wm. A. Brady's "Way Down East," which will be seen for the second time in Freeland on Thursday evening, comes with a record of five exceptionally successful seasons to its credit, including 532 performances in New York city, 248 in Boston, 190 in Chicago and 160 in Philadelphia. It is perfectly safe to say this is a record achieved by no other play of recent years, and is a tribute attesting the great merit of the piece. Particularly is this true at our present season of life when the spice must be variety. Certain it is the simple truthful story of right and wrong, brightened by honest humor, appeals to all classes of people. There is universal sympathy for the wronged woman, who takes herself and her woes out into the driving snowstorm. There is hearty response to the melodies of the village choir and there is close sympathy—even affections—for the good people who bring the narrow New Hampshire life into view. The company is in keeping with the merits of the play, and a complete production is assured.

"My Friend From Arkansas" was played before a small audience Friday evening. The show deserved better patronage, but as it was a new one in this section it failed to draw as well as expected. On a return date the company would receive a more generous reception.

Keene, the celebrated magician, will astonish the patrons of the Grand opera house with an exhibition of his skill on Saturday evening.

DRIFTON.

Miss Ethel Welsh, of Drifton, is visiting friends at Catawissa.

The foundation for the new residence being erected for Superintendent Pennington is almost completed.

Mrs. Charles Cox and son, Eckley B., Jr., left today for Philadelphia.

Miss Mary Birkbeck, of Scranton, is visiting James Birkbeck.

Workmen are engaged remodeling the old hospital building.

The wind-wheel near St. Ann's church has been removed. The winds of the past winter did much damage to the wheel and the parts have been taken away for repairs.

While at work in the shops last week William Smith, of Hazleton, had a finger cut off by a bar of iron falling upon it.

Legislature's Work.

Of the 375 bills presented in the senate and 745 in the house, only fifty-two have reached Governor Pennypacker. Of these the governor approved thirty-one, vetoed three, eleven were recalled and seven have not yet been acted upon.

None of the numerous bills growing out of the miners' strike, last year, has reached the governor, although the United Mine Workers have a lobby at work for these measures. Three of them have passed the house, and efforts are being made by the mine workers to hurry them through the senate. They are the Garner eight-hour bill, the McWhinney employers' liability bill, and the bill amending the anthracite mine inspection act of 1891 so as to provide for the election by the people of boards of examiners instead of appointment by the courts.

Beautiful wall paper at Wm. Birkbeck's.

Several D. S. & S. Railroad employes, when they received their February pay on Saturday, found that they have been granted increases in their wages. Long run brakemen have been advanced 29 cents for the round trip and conductors get 36 cents of an advance. On the branch the brakemen, conductors and baggage-masters were raised about 12 cents a day. No increase has yet been given the firemen and engineers.

Ellen E., a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry George, of Walnut street, died yesterday morning from an attack of croup after an illness of less than two hours. The child was aged 3 years, 11 months and 12 days. The funeral will take place at 1.30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Services will be held at St. John's Reformed church, after which the interment will be made at Freeland cemetery.
