Paris' Tree-Lined Streets.

In Paris wide tree-lined avenues have been made in every district. Nothing of the kind exists either in London or New York. Foreigners, who only know the luxurious quarters, imagine that the boulevards and avenues of the western part of the city are the only ones that have trees, says the Architectural Record. They would be surprised to see that in the east and south—working-class district—there are similar broad roadways, the same roomy sidewalks, the same lines of trees—and that the Place de la Republique and the Place de la Rastille have no need to be jealous in this respect of their more aristocratic sisters, the Place du Trocadero and the Place de l'Etoile. For the most part, the tree employed—especially in the center of Paris—is the alianthus. There are, however, also many plane-trees, and, in the wider avenues, chestnut trees. In 1890, the trees lining the public thoroughfares numbered 84,936, besides those growing in the public squares, gardens and parks. But the art of making a city beautiful must be practiced down to its minutest detail, and therefore do not let us be afraid to go down on the street and see how it is ornamented, lighted and rendered through Paris will teach us push and thorough and thorough and should be a present and commodious; in a word, how it is furnished. Letters Written in Wrath.

Letters Written in Wrath.

Because everybody does no know or remember the story of Abraham Lincoln and Secretary Stanton, we tell it once more. It is good for use. Stanton had been exasperated by the conduct of one of the generals in the field. He complained of him to President Lincoln, and said he was going to give it to him hot. "That's right," said Lincoln. "Write him a letter and tell him just what you think of him. Make a clean breast of it." With heat, Secretary Stanton wrote his letter, and showed it to the President. Then he folded it to be inclosed and directed. President Lincoln said. "What are you going to do with that letter, Stanton." "Why, I am going to send it to him, of course," "Oh, no," said Lincoln. "Put it in the waste basket. You never ought to send a letter of that kind. You've got the thing off your mind now. Let it drop." In ninettimes in a hundred the place for a letter written in wrath is the waste basket.

On the Verge of Bright's Disease.—
A Quick Care That Lated.

CASE NO. 30,011.—C. E. Boles, dealer in grain and feed, 505 South Water street, Akron, O., made the following statement in 1896; he said: "Ever since the Civil War I have had attacks of kidney and bladder trouble, decidedly worse during the last two or three years. Although I consulted physicians, some of whom told me I was verging on Bright's disease, and I was continually using standard remedies, the excruciating aching just across the kidneys, which radiated to the shoulder blades, still existed. As might be expected when my kidneys were in a disturbed condition, there was a distressing and inconvenient difficulty with the action of the kidney secretions. A box of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Lamparter & Co.'s drug store, brought such a decided change within a week that I continued the treatment. The last attack, and it was particularly aggravated, disappeared."

Three Years After.

Mr. Boles says in 1859: "In the

Three Years After.

Mr. Boles says in 1859: "In the spring of 1856 I made a public statement of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy cured me of a terrible aching in the kidneys, in the small of my back, in the muscles of the shoulder blades, and in the limbs. During the years that have gone by I can conscientiously say there have been no recurrences of my old trouble. My confidence in Doan's Kidney Fills is stronger than ever, not only from my personal experience, but from the experience of many others in Akron which have come to my notice."

Preachers Learn Trades.

A prominent Philadelphia clergyman strongly urges all young men who intend to enter the ministry to learn some trade either before or after their ordination. He has examined the statistics of the various Protestant denomination, and has been appalled by the number of ministers who are without a charge. He thinks a trade would be a good thing to fail back on in such cases, besides standing the preacher in good stead in many ways while still in the pulpit.

Tired Mother's Touching Story of Anxiety and Suffering.

Cuticura Brings Blessed Cure to Skin Tortured Baby and Peace and Rest to Its Worn Out Mother.

It is no wonder that Mrs. Helena Rath was taken sick. Single-handed, she did all the housework and washed, cooked and mended for her husband, Hans, and their six children. After a plucky fight to keep on her feet, Mrs. Rath had to yield, and early in 1902 she took to her bed. What followed she told to a visitor, who called at her tidy home, No. 821 Tenth Ave., New York City.

The agonizing, itching, and burning of the skin as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair, and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humour remedies of the civilized world.
