ROUND THE REGION.

Miss Regina Olsen, of Wilkesbarre, has gone to the Smith Infirmary, in New York city, to nurse Alfred Jacobson, a young sailor, who is said to have shot himself for love of the girl. They were engaged to be married, but the girl would not name the wedding day, owing to the illness of her mother. Miss Olsen says she will nurse Jacobson back to health, and that they will then be married.

The superior court has affirmed the judgment of the Luzerne court in the case of Constable Richard T. Edwards vs. George R. McLean, county controller. Had the contention of Constable Edwards' attorneys been sustained Luzerne would have been compelled to pay the constables of the county about $10,000 in fees for services rendered in connection with elections.

Do You Enjoy What You Eat?

If you don't your food does not do you any good. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the remedy that every one should take when there is any thing wrong with the stomach. There is no way to maintain the health and strength of mind and body except the nourishment. There is no way to nourish except through the stomach. The stomach must be kept healthy, pure and sweet or the strength will let down and disease will set up. No appetite, losses of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, sour risings, rifting, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles are quickly cured by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Sold by Grover's City City drug store.

SOME QUEER NOTIONS.

SOME QUEER NOTIONS.

Odd Beliefs About Animals That
Were Held by Our Ancestors.

Our respected ancestors had some queer notions in regard to natural history. Old Sir Thomas Browne, in his
"Inquiries Into Vulgar and Common Errors," discusses many of these, "That a brock or badger hath the legs on one side shorter than on the other," he says, "though an opinion perhaps not very ancient, is yet very general." This belief was received not only by theorists, but by most of those who had daily opportunity to behold and hunt them; yet Sir Thomas could not accept this belief, because it seemed "no easy affront into reason and generally repugnant unto the course of nature." Wherever he looked he saw that the limbs of animals on the opposite sides of their bodies were of the same length and number and that none of them had an odd leg. One would think that the question might have been put beyond cavil by simply measuring the limbs of the animal, but perhaps they never thought of that.

The worthy knight, however, could accept the basilisk, though it does not seem that he ever saw one and did not question its power to kill by "inflicting its eye," as old Dr. Parr would have expressed it, upon its enemy. And why not? "For if plagues or pestilential atoms have been conveyed in the air from different regions, if men at a distance have infected each other, if the shadows of some trees be noxious, if torpedoes deliver their opium at a distance and stupefy beyond themselves, we cannot reasonably deny," he says, "that there may proceed from subtler seeds more agile emanations, which contemn those laws and invade at distance unexpected." But there was a limit to the creduilty of Sir Thomas, and as for the generation of the basilisk, that "it proceedeth from a cock's egg hatched under a toad or a serpent," he thought it a concelt as monstrous as the brood itself.—Forest and Stream.

PITH AND POINT.

It may be hard to be good—it is not hard to be kind. Genius has always received more ap-plause than money.

Genius has always received more applause than money.

Presumption lies at the bottom of much that we call success.

It requires no strength of mind to be mean—it does to be generous.

True greatness lies not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall.

may happen to all—Schoolmaster.

The Strain of Rowing.
A medical paper discusses the "health of the oarsmen" and comes to no very definite conclusion as to the effect of training and racing on the after life of the varsity oar. Some years ago the late Professor Morgan, in his little work, "University Oars," gave the results of an investigation regarding 255 who were then living out of 294 who had taken part in the boat races. And his returns seemed to show that oarsmen were rather benefited than injured by the discipline and struggle. It must be remembered that the pre-liminary sifting of the torpids, the eights and the trials weeds out the weaklings at Oxford who could not stand the strain. And every rowing man knows that the trained man who tumbles back in the boat after a hard fought race is as fit as ever within a minute.—London Chronicle.

His Forencons Regan Early.
When Philip D. Armour engaged a new secretary, he did not tell him at what hour in the morning to report.
The young man appeared at 9, but found Mr. Armour at work. Nothing was said about the secretary being late.
The next day he presented himself at half past 8, only to find Mr. Armour ahead of him.
So on the day following he came at 8 o'clock, with the same result.
Determined to be on hand before his boss, he came at 7:30 the next day, only to be greeted by Mr. Armour with the question:
"Young man, will you tell me what you do with your forenoons?"

EVENING ON THE PORCH.

When work is over for the day And twilight gathers round And Lucy takes the garden hose And wets the dusty ground, When through the dusk, Where scents of musk Are borne upon the breeze, A voice says: "Law! Do You Enjoy What You Eat?

You can eat whatever and whenever you like if you take Kodol. By the use of this remedy disordered digestion and diseased stomachs are so completely restored to health, and the full performance of their functions naturally, that such foods as would tie one into a double-bow-knot are eaten without even a "rumbling" and with a positive pleasure and enjoyment. And what is more—these foods are assimilated and transformed into the kind of nutriment that is appropriated by the blood and tissues. Kodol is the only digestant or combination of digestants that will digest all classes of food. In addition to this fact, it contains, in assimilative form, the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties.
Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all disorders arising theerform.
