Real Liberty

The spirit of liberty is not merely as some people imagine, a jealousy of our own particular rights, but a respect for the rights of others, and an unwillingness that any man, whether high or low should be wronged and trampled under foot.—Doctor Chan-ning.

Anything but Music

A Cincinnati judge has ruled that radio music isn't noise, which leads to the conjecture that there's some he hasn't heard yet.—Macon Telegraph.

Lehman Township

O. H. AURAND, Supt.

The two following articles were written by students in the Freshman and Junior classes of Lehman High School. The poem, "A Snowfall," was inspired by the late spring storm of a few weeks ago.

Thinking People

Thinking people no longer expect tomorrow to be the same as today. They do not expect the school merely to preserve the past, but to help create a better future. We insist that new ideas must come in, and they can only take a place in our thinking as they crowd old ideas out of our minds.

The thinker is not the one who boastfully says, "I know." He is humble, for he has found that things are changing so rapidly in this age he must keep an open mind, and not be too sure of anything.

It is the egotist, the one who is not in the habit of thinking things out, who is the most insistent user of "I know." He is the one most difficult to bring to a new way of thinking. Our thinking gets out of date as do styles of clothes, types of machinery and other things.

We should be as ready to discard old out of date ideas as to discard the ox-cart for the automobile. As we have said, it is the modern public schools that help train our minds.

PAUL RICE—Grade Nine.

A Snowfall

When I awoke I found
The world changed in a night,
And to the trees was bound
A glistening robe of white,
And there upon the ground
A carpet met my sight.
And when I looked around
'Twas shrouded deep in light.
Now there was scarce a sound
Yet I could feel the might
That made this scene profound.
Here everywhere the right
With beauty did abound.
Then on a mountain height
I saw a tiny mound.

Then to this spot I went
A fairyland to see,
But to it God had lent
A special joy for me,
From cares myself to vent
And fill my soul with glee.
Someone the silence rent
He came from o'er the lea,
And asked what it had meant.
"For me it seems to be
A place where souls pent
From sorrows are set free."
And then my head I bent
And this shall be my key
From heaven it was sent.

LOUISE BROWN—Grade 11.

Dallas Borough

HARRY DOHL, Supt.

As we have only 25 more days of school every student is working his very best to pass his grade. The classes are now reviewing the work already covered, in preparation for the final examinations. As we are planning for a three year high next year we are having no graduation exercises. Instead, the grades are having entertainments.

The school received new American flags and Holy Bibles for each room of the new school which are necessary according to school law. By some misunderstanding they were not given at the dedication but came to the school a week later. The pupils, as a body, wish to thank those who gave these.

The play which was given on Friday evening entitled: "Safety First" drew a good crowd so that $40 was cleared.

Who's Who In K. T. H. S. Senior Class

Harry Allen

Harry Honeywell Allen, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allen, of Alderson, was born in Virginia, 1911.

Harry began school at Laketon as a member of the First Grade and completing the grade course, entered high school with the honor of being first in his class.

In high school Harry found an entirely different life awaiting him, but he, a young adventurer, successfully mastered the new studies and soon found time to devote to various school activities and clubs, such as the Thespian Literary Society and Athletic Association. During the term of '28 Harry was manager of the boys' basket ball team, and was a success at managing as well as at studying.

This term ('29) he has been chosen by the class to act in the capacity of president, and in him we have a very capable leader and advisor.

Now, as for personality and character of this week's "Who's Who" Harry has a very pleasing personality, and all who come in contact with the Senior President will agree with us. With the strong forceful character this young student possesses, there can be no doubt of his future success, both in business and in well, other things, and we all know that "Harry has personality, Harry has lots of pep, So with these two things AND a Durant car, He'll surely get there yet!"

Financial Standing

Fairy Tale

Once upon a time a truck went into the ditch as a result of the driver trying to edge over enough so a coming driver would have plenty of room to pass. Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Kiddies of Our Town

Oh happy town of Dallas! I fain would spend my days In this dear old town Of many curious ways. And often do I think When the stars are shining down There never were such lovely kiddies As the kiddies of our town.

They banish dull care away They banish every frown, So charming are the kiddies The little kiddies of our town. Now I do not care for fame Neither for renown All I need in this world Is the love of the kiddies of our town.

There is Bobbie, Alden, Dicky and Buddy And they always find the places that are muddy, But they're all very sweet And for cut youngsters They can't be beat.

And aren't there any girls? You bet! And they surely are the nicest yet There is Anna, Beverly, Jane and Rita too, And when you travel down the street You'll find Nancy Lou.

Of course I must say they sort of pay For their care as they go along For folks when they are grown And are left all alone Just one person in the house With no one to call, or need us at all And everything's as still as a mouse I think we'd give worlds just to live Again with the kiddies we miss And every task our kiddies could ask Was paid for by a hug and a kiss.

For somehow we know as older we grow As sure as the sun shines above Our hearts are a lake of tears and an ache With no kiddies to work for or love.

May love supremely bright But on each head a crown And may happiness ever Cling to the kiddies of our town. —G. F. P.

These are just three reasons why people neglect their teeth: Fear of pain, lack of money and thoughtfulness.
