"GOD ALMIGHTY STILL FURNISHES THE RAINFALL AT THE RATE PREVAILING 30 YEARS AGO." . . .

True, Brother.

And 30 years ago the rain barrel stood by the kitchen steps between the sad-eyed Begonias and the Little-Johnny-Jump-Ups — and the gentle rain from heaven splashed therein.

But it had to be charcoaled and kept covered, because the freighted breeze, tumbling by, deposited dead leaves, sun-dried offal and other atmospheric phenomena in the rain barrel.

So that when Pop drank therefrom, he contracted a severe pain in his midriff, as did Uncle Charley and Cousin Elmer, to say nothing of the Hired Girl.

Like the Old Oaken Bucket, the rain barrel was "full of romance—and germs."

If you insist upon free water you may go up to our reservoirs where we collect and store it, fill your bucket, carry it home, and run the risk anyone invites who drinks untreated water.

However, if you want it purified and piped into your kitchens, bathrooms, offices and factories, we gladly supply it to all who are willing to pay the current average rate of one cent for eight bucketfuls.

The value of anything is its worth to you.
