On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

In many of the smaller towns and on the farm there is a demand for a small home such as shown in the illustration. On larger farms this would make a very excellent tenant house, while for the use of those who live in town, it is an excellent design for the small lot or for the family of not more than five people.

The house is 24 feet by 24 feet. Its foundation walls are straight, which means economical construction cost. The plain walls of the square house are broken by unusual roof design. As a matter of fact the wide dormer above at the front and at the back adds to the roominess of the house and takes from it the plainness that is often found in smaller homes of this type. The overhang of the roof and the attractive entrance porch with colonial seats on either side and the

Keep Kitchen Bright-Colored, Latest Edict

Make your kitchen charming if you would keep up with the times.

The modern housewife is in rank rebellion against the dull, the drab, the uninteresting "Give me color," she says. "In my life, in my dress, even in my kitchen!" And she is only echoing the general need for it, the rapidly growing use of it.

And why not a colorful kitchen? Because a task is humdrum, must if be made worse by a dreary environment? The progressive woman says not.

"The kitchen is my workshop," she explains, "so it is going to be a tidy, cheerful place, equipped with just as many conveniences as my husband has to help him in his work."

"Would he bother with out-of-date ineffective tools or stick to the methods of his great grandfather? He would not! And if he did, he would never be asked to relate the history of his life in a 'success' magazine!"

It pays the feminine go-getter to be just as fussy. She ought to insist upon having a cheerful, well-lighted kitchen, made sanitary and attractive with good, washable paint in pleasing colors. Even the plebeian garb can and waste basket may have their homeliness concealed behind bright-hued paint.

The stool with steps on one side, so that it can be used also as a ladder, offers another surface for colorful paint. There is a great deal in the psychology of color. Just put a canary into a red and yellow kitchen and hear it sing!

Tastes differ, of course. Some may prefer a blue and orange color scheme. Tangerine and Nile green may appeal to others. And there are natures happier in a springlike setting of lilac and daffodil yellow.

There is nothing so hampering to efficiency as the cluttered kitchen. Let the kitchen cabinet and broom closet conceal unornamental utensils and create an effect of tidiness.

Paint their exteriors to match the woodwork, but brighten their interiors with some gay, contrasting color.

trellis over which vines or flowers can be trained are features which will appeal to the prospective home builder.

The entrance door leads to a stair hall and at the left is the living room extending most the width of the building. This room is 16 feet by 11 feet 6 inches wide. It is connected with the dining room, 11 feet 9 inches by 11 feet, by a double casement opening which makes the two rooms practically one. The kitchen is of good size, being 7 feet 6 inches by 10 feet 9 inches. Upstairs there are two large bedrooms, the one at the front of the house being 19 feet 6 inches by 11 feet 6 inches. The one at the rear is 13 feet 3 inches long by 11 feet deep. Both rooms have ample closet space in connection with them. At the head of the stairs off the hall is the bathroom.

This house is set on a concrete foundation and has a basement of the same size as the house itself. It is of frame construction, the outside walls being covered with ship-lap siding.

This home building design will appeal to those who want a small attractive home, but who do not have a large amount of money to invest in one.

Brick, Stone Standards Used in Ancient Egypt

Centuries ago, during the heyday of kingship in Egypt, building was done with both brick and stone.

Biblical narratives of brickmaking in the early Egyptian days tells of how, as an added punitive resort, Pharaoh compelled the Israelites to make bricks without straw, which was about as near an impossibility as his devilish malignity could conjure up. But it seems that, even so, the bricks were made. They were not of the durable type, however, and none of them remain to tell the story of the one-time construction fashion of the period.

Other Egyptian kings, with greater imaginations and a plentitude of willing or impressed subjects, built enduring monuments in the way of pyramids that still dot the sand-strewn country here and there and bespeak an exceptional engineering ability. Today these pyramids continue to attract the interest of the world at large as well as the speculation of the world's construction wizards who haven't yet come to an agreement on how the task was accomplished. How they elevated stones of such tremendous size is still conceded to be a mystery.

Today, in the Egyptian desert, the natives use a sort of adobe composition, made of mixed mud and sand, in raising their primitive homes. The mixture is applied soft and the sun does the rest. It does not make for symmetrical walls or attractiveness, but the native doesn't mind that. All he wants, generally, is shelter from sandstorms. He isn't troubled with rainy seasons or frigid temperatures.

Roof Leak Stopped in Time Saves Money

A leak once started will often baffle the best of repair men. It keeps getting worse. By and by a large area has to be stripped and reshingled to prevent the leakage that in itself may not cover one square foot. Stopping one leak counts for little, as new ones start operations without warning. Cheap shingles are expensive.

Earth's Interior

It is not generally believed that the interior of the earth will ever become entirely cool. Geological facts point to the conclusion that the earth's interior is not molten. The interior is solid but so hot that it would be melted under normal conditions. It is, however, kept from melting by the enormous load of the crust. The condition in which the heated rock exists in the interior is one of the fundamental problems of geology still awaiting solution.

The French Societe Americaine de France was formed in 1857 by several French students who had become interested in the pre-Columbian civilization of South America and Mexico. There was an international meeting in 1875. In 1915-16 the nineteenth international congress of Americanists was held in Washington in conjunction with the anthropology section of the second Pan-American scientific congress.

Heights of Loving

Gardening, thinks an observer in the Woman's Home Companion, if persisted in leads the devotee eventually away from the hectic regions of getting onto the serene levels of giving and sometimes on up to the heights of loving.
