

Carload of Radios For Earl H. Monk

Earl H. Monk, of Monk Hardware Company, Shavertown, Pa., has been quite busy the past week unloading a carload of Bremer-Tully and Earl radios. Earl has just recently purchased a light delivery truck with which he now give exceptionally prompt service on orders for radios, stoves, ranges, hardware and anything that one may want in the large stock at his storerooms at Shavertown. A phone call, Dallas 138, will bring prompt and efficient service.

SEEN AND HEARD
By Will Wimble

Nothing has been done so far as to the community Christmas tree that has been erected on Main street the past few years during the Christmas season. It is said that if the Improvement Association does not take action soon that a prominent local man will see to it that it will be erected again this year.

While the Improvement Association is sitting idly and doing nothing, a number of local people are ready to raise a rumpus if more lights are not put up in some of the sections of the town.

Lewis Cottle, of Holcombs, says that the Bremer-Tully radio sets handled by Earl Monk is the best set that he has ever listened to. "Lou" should know. He is an expert in that particular line.

Earl Monk has purchased a new Ford truck which he intends to use in his radio business. You know Earl has taken over the agency for the Earl radio also.

That a number of men went to see Senator Andrew J. Sordoni the Saturday that the late George Malkemes was killed for appointment to the office of Justice of the Peace. Men how could you?

Senator Sordoni and one of his prize riding horses was seen during the week riding around some of the streets of the town.

There are many soreheads around town now that Mrs. Malkemes has accepted the position of Justice of the Peace that was offered to her by Senator Sordoni and Harold Wagner.

And it is reported that a certain man is very peeved about the story that was circulated about him as being an applicant for the position, and if he finds the party that started the story it would be just too bad. When talking to him he said: "O D I look like a man that would take the bread and butter away from a child." He was a close personal friend of the late Justice, too.

We wonder how the local boys feel now since they played in the football game at Dallas last week, and were not members of the local school team? It was not discovered until the third quarter of the game and after it was found out who they were it was just too bad for them.

The Athletic Association of the Kingston township high school placed their orders for basket ball uniforms for the local high school team, which has a franchise in the Rural League that was recently organized. The boys have the backing of the school board in case of a deficit. Congratulations, school directors.

Earl Monk has removed the office furniture from the office in the rear of his building which was used as an office by the late Squire Malkemes to the home of Mrs. G. L. Malkemes, where Mrs. Malkemes will conduct the office which she has accepted, and is awaiting word from Governor Fisher. Early intends to use this room as a demonstration room for his radio sets. Herm VanCampen will leave on Monday for Pike county for a fifteen day hunting expedition. It is hoped that Herm will bring back a deer, for

The large thermometer that Earl Monk has erected on the front of his building showed a reading of 10 degrees above zero last Saturday morning.

There were only six parents attending the Boy Scout ceremonial Monday evening. Wilfred Keats is scoutmaster and deserves much credit for the splendid work that he has done with the boys and how ably he has kept the boys together. It was rather discouraging to see only a few parents present.

ST. THERESE'S HOLD CARD PARTY AT PARISH HOUSE

A large crowd was present at the card party held at St. Therese's parish house, the home of Rev. J. J. O'Leary. A number of guests from the more remote suburban sections and several from other parishes enjoyed a pleasant evening and added the satisfactory sum realized. Several card parties have been held this week, this one, however, is the first to be given at the parish house.

-Trucksville-
