SEEN AND HEARD

By Will Wimble

Well, here we are again, folks, back at our job again after being laid up with the grip. Haven't been able to get around and see or hear very much, but we'll do the best we can.

Do you know that there is a man in our town that is very proud of himself for the reason that he has ridden the trolley cars but once since living here for the past four years. Maybe you have seen him walking down the pike, trying to get a ride down with some one. And he is not ashamed to tell it, either.

After going to a considerable expense of putting in a fill and laying a red ash walk all along the new "Beautiful Sordoni Trail" so that people could walk along the highway without being hit or run down by motorists, the Sordoni Construction Company has erected telephone poles right in the center of the walk. Would it not have been better to place these poles on the bank and then stretch cables between the poles. It would help keep machines out of Toby's Creek.

Saw a man around town the other evening dressed in a uniform such as is worn by policemen and thinking it might be one of the policemen of the town (haven't heard any more of the police question) we walked up to him and were about to ask him a question when to our surprise we discovered it was George Hunt in his Williams Cake Company uniform.

Where does "Red" keep himself anymore? We don't see him down around the Cozy Corner very often. Come on, "Red," let's see more of you.

The Sunday Independent correspondent has come to life after his column was missing from that publication for the past four months.

The girl from Main street who has had trouble with her parents would be better off if she kept away from the wild parties.

Herm VanCampen shot a deer while hunting in Pike county. But a sly old fox had eaten part of it away when Herm arrived, 'tis said.

A Sunday correspondent should get around and see how things are getting along in town. In Sunday's announcements he had Mr. Henry as submitting to an operation and it was Mrs. Henry and that Squire Knarr moved his office up next to "Mickey's." Since when has Mickey moved up near the Dallas borough line. Come on, brother, let's get things straight.

"Mickey" Haslinsky is one of the finest gentlemen that the writer has met in some time and we hope to drop in more often to see him.

Do you know that Pete Selick is the best harmonica player in town and that when things are rather slow at Malkemes', Pete entertains Frank Wilfred Keats is a good scoutmaster, and Elwood "Pinky" Swingle is a worthy assistant, and Sheldon Evans of Evans' Pharmacy is single. Some of the town's young women wondered about this, and Earl Keithline got another deer this season. John Miles is a good basketball player, and is anxious to get a team going in town. Fred Eck spends a lot of time up on Hill Crest View. We don't know who it is, but we heard he goes up that way to play pinochle. Beth Williams stalled her car on the Market street bridge during the past week and held up traffic for a few minutes and Dorothy Eck is now employed by the Bell Telephone Company in its new building. "Red" Schwartz isn't playing basketball this year with the Times-Leader team, he claims he is getting old. John DeWitt made his appearance down at the corners during the past week after being confined to his bed for six weeks. Asa Pemberton has a real cute mustache like a football team, eleven on each side. Ed Preston has had his house roofed with asbestos shingles and Leon Wise has put a ten foot addition to his garage for his and John Whipple's bing trucks. C. W. Hoffman has been busy the past week cleaning up his bakery and in looking it over we think it would make an ideal place for a community house. Mrs. K. Malkemes took her oath of office last aSturday before Judge Jones.

Ike Leek was seen down Benton way last Sunday. What's the attraction down that way, Ike? You used to be seen up Fernbrook way often.

The boys of the town seem to hang down at the Cozy Corner storeroom lately. You know Charley Ayers has had a new clerk there for a few weeks in the person of Miss Mildred Anderson.

We heard that "Red" Schwartz's name was mentioned for every office at the Brotherhood meeting Monday evening but "Red" was voted down each time.

There were no stuffed ballot boxes at the Brotherhood election Monday evening.

Santa Claus dropped into Earl Monk's storeroom during the week and placed himself in Earl's large show window. If you have forgotten anyone drop into Earl's the next day or so. He will be able to take care of you and he has a fine stock on hand.

We stepped into Evans' Pramacy the other evening and had quite a chat with Bill and Sheldon. The boys say things are going along nicely and now that their stock has arrived they will be more than pleased to serve you. Prescriptions are filled promptly and accurately.

We heard that John Gay and Harry Headley were down Benton way last week hunting for deer. Whether they got any or not we do not know, but 'tis said John goes down that way frequently, but perhaps it's for a different kind of a "deer."

Well, folks, this will be all for this week. We expect to have a few surprises for you next week, so don't forget to get your copy of the Post and tell your friends that if they don't read the Post they are missing all the news. To keep posted with all the doings of the town you must read the Post and in the meantime we wish all our readers a very Merry Christmas.
