Stolen Car is Recovered

George Shaver, the local barber, had his car, a Ford roadster, stolen from in front of his place of business last Saturday night after closing up for the night. Before going to his home, George went across the street to his mother's home where he remained for a very short while and when he went back to get his car it was missing. In the car was an assortment of barbers' supplies, such as razors, combs and scissors that George usually takes home with him on Saturday night.

On Friday night, while attending a dance at the American Legion Home at Kingston, an extra tire, tools and a large blanket was stolen from the car while it was parked on Market street. Both robberies were reported to the police who are working on the case.

The machine was recovered Sunday morning in a lumber shed of the Shavertown Lumber Company and was driven 112 miles. Police are under the impression that it was the work of local young men, who were playing a joke on Mr. Shaver.

Robbery Attempted

An attempt was made some time Saturday night to gain entrance to the local A. & P. store room on Main street. When the manager, Sam DeWitt, went to the store room on Monday he found one lock was open, perhaps with a skeleton key and the other lock tampered with.

Streets in Bad Shape

Many of the streets of the town are in bad shape, due to the warm weather of the past week, many automobiles were stuck in the mud and pedestrians who walk along the road are usually spattered with mud.

Welfare Drive Successful

According to Rev. Harry Henry, chairman of the Welfare Federation drive, the citizens of Kingston and Dallas townships responded in a splendid manner, which is a fine indication of the generosity in regards to this worthy cause. The local citizens over-subscribed the quota set for this district by a few hundred dollars. If all the pledges that were made by local people to places of employment in the valley the local district would have exceeded its quota by 300 per cent. The chairman is very grateful to his workers who gave their time to this work. The quota was $2,325.

Entertains Club Owners

Miss Gertrude Lohman of Pioneer avenue entertained a newly organized club composed of lady members of the congregation of St. Therese's Church at her home recently. Those present were: Mrs. Conrad Yeager, Mrs. Youngblood, Mrs. John Bauer, Mrs. Herbert Lohman, Mrs. Albert Antantits and the Misses Cella Durkin, Marian Williams, Hilda Staub, Florence Rave, Gertrude Lohman, Helen Lohman and Josephine Miller. After the business session cards were enjoyed by those present, the following being winner: Mrs. John Bauer, Marian Williams and Helen Lohman.

Lloyd Cease and "Bud" VanCampen Injured

Lloyd Cease, aged 22, of Franklin street, suffered head injuries and "Bud" VanCampen received injuries to his foot which was so badly mangled that it was necessary to amputate it when the motor truck Cease was driving belonging to William Geyer, local merchant, was struck by a Dallas street car, manned by George Carter, last Friday afternoon.

when Cease was making deliveries and sitting in such a position that his paws would rest on the door of the truck. When the car struck the truck the dog's foot was badly crushed and it was necessary to take it to Dr. Emory Lutes at Wilkes-Barre, where the member was amputated. At this writing the dog was getting along nicely. The accident happened at the Trucksville station crossing.

To Present Opera

The high school operetta entitled, "Where East is West," will be presented at the M. E. Church on March 3 and 4 by a select cast. The play was written by Miss Ellalee Shoemaker, a member of the Senior class and is expected to prove very successful. Mrs. Helen Taylor is coaching the production.

SEEN AND HEARD

By Will Wimble

Charles Ayers, the congenial newsboys, was kept busy last Sunday morning getting "Scrantonians" for local lovers of "scandal." With a two-column heading in the Wilkes-Barre section of that paper was a story concerning a supposed-to-be Shavertown woman suing her father-in-law for support and not telling her the whereabouts of her husband. After reading the story we became interested in finding out who the parties referred to in the story were and after traveling around through the mud we finally came across somebody who knew something of the case. He informed us that the principals were not from this place at all, but that the woman was from Beaumont and her father-in-law from the Lake. Why the papers picked on Shavertown is not known but we hope that next time they will get the towns right, for it is a known fact that this old town of ours is noted for the peace abiding people who live here.

A very serious joke was played on George Shaver last when some unknown persons stole his Ford car from in front of his place of business while he was visiting with his mother across the street. We heard that George was walking the streets of the town until 4 a. m. looking for his car. It was found later by Chief Wrisler in a shed owned by a local lumber company.

Herm VanCampen was a very sick man last Friday when Mrs. Tracy informed him that his dog was dead in the gutter in front of her home. Herm left as soon as he possibly could and found the dog (not dead) on the lawn of Ernest Johnson. Herm hurriedly took him to Dr. Lutes, where the doctor amputated a foot. They say it is a pity to see "Bud" hopping around on three feet early in the morning, when he leaves Herm's place for William Still's, where he usually gets his breakfast.

A lively argument on the prohibition question was in progress at the barber shop recently and every one had his side of the story to tell or bring up for discussion. The discussion was soon broken up, however, when things started to get hot. We heard that if things hadn't got hot the celebrators would be discussing it yet with serious results. Ask Ross Williams. He knows.

Now that the firemen's card party and dance is over and a neat sum has been realized, we hope that the organization will again put on another affair of the kind, for it sure did show that the people of this and surrounding communities were with the firemen. The drive for new members is still on. There are only two more weeks to go, as it will be necessary to have all returns in by March 9 so that the winners can be decided. If you have not signed up, don't fail to fill out an application blank when you are approached. If you do not care to become an active member in the company, you can sign up as an honorary member. The dues are $1 initiation fee and $2 annual dues. If you do not care to become a member, a donation of any amount will be appreciated.

We hope Benny Hightower will be able to get around one of these days and get those penny peanut machines of his in working order for you know Ben, we sure do like to eat peanuts with our beer. We shouldn't say that, we should say beverage.

The high school basketball team won another victory and we hear that it was from Beaumont high school. Too bad the locals don't play Beaumont every Friday, for if they did, they would be a way up on top.

Spring is here, folks. Doc Laycock was seen driving his Packard car around town last Saturday and that is the reason we say spring is here, for Doc doesn't like winter. Another reason: Earl Monk and the Shoe maker were seen playing catch one day last week, getting their arms in shape for the coming season. Marble players are seen all over the town, too, but the way the youngsters play the game nowadays is a whole lot different from the way we played when we were a kid, and that is a long time ago.
