MODERN SCHOOL TO BE FINISHED BY EARLY FALL

The board having heretofore delayed some of the work on the building to avoid carrying too much temporary indebtedness. The present plans of the board call for the retirement of the bonds when due and the paying of the temporary indebtedness within the legal time limits without any increase in the tax millage above the present 25 mills.

Tuition Pupils

After a lapse of two years the school last year had some outside tuition pupils which increased the revenue of the district to some extent. The school facilities available provide ample accommodations for additional pupils and more pupils from other districts are expected from year to year. The board has made every effort to operate the school on an economical basis consistent with a good school and as the enrollment increases the per capita cost for high school pupils is expected to decrease considerably as not much increase in expenses is expected after next term.

DECLARES DRY ERA BENEFITS STUDENTS

Washington, D. C.—That there is less drinking among high school students since prohibition than formerly is shown clearly in a report made by the National Education association at the request of the President's commission on law observance and law enforcement.

"It will be some time before all these reports are in," said Secretary J. W. Crabtree of the National Education association, "but enough reports have come in to show that conditions in the high schools are much better than in 1920, with respect both to drinking and to general behavior. This is doubly significant in view of the fact that high school enrollment has grown since 1920 from two million to more than five million students—an achievement unparalleled in any country or in all history. Many of the three million additional students who have sought a high school education within the decade have come from poorer homes where in former times drinking was a heavy burden on the family income.

"Unquestionably the Eighteenth amendment has benefited the schools beyond measure."

There are now almost 26,000,000 students in all public schools in the United States, the enrollment and daily average attendance increasing rapidly, according to the office of education, Department of the Interior. More than 50 per cent of the students of high school age are actually attending these schools; 15 years before the Eighteenth amendment was ratified it was 10 per cent. Last year almost 45 per cent of the 475,000 high school graduates entered college, or some other institution of higher learning.

Coincident with these official reports of bettered conditions is the announcement of the result of a year's survey of opinion on prohibition and drinking among seniors in high schools in various cities by the Presbyterian board of Christian education. An overwhelming majority of replies indicated non-drinkers and gave endorsement to prohibition.

Shavertown

SEEN AND HEARD

We Never Knew 'Till Now

—That there are two women in Shavertown who do not know the difference between fruit and vegetables. For one day last week when a huckster was making his rounds of the town, Mrs. Seigal asked him what cantalopes were, and Mrs. Pritchard asked him what plums were. Now we hope that these ladies are satisfied that they finally got their names in this column.

—That the laundry mark on your shirt is registered at police headquarters to identify your corpse.

—That most of the men who perished in the Ohio prison fire were in jail because of the prohibition law.

—That you probably never knew why you like sugar or candy—if you like it, it's because it turns into alcohol in you, you dope.

—That the so-called "Dog Days" are between July 3 and August 11.

—That the ballots published in The Dallas Post are of value to the workers that have entered the campaign, and that they solicit these ballots and ask you not to forget to vote for your favorite.

—That there is a "speakeasy" in the Valley which displays this placard over the door. "Anyone asking us to cash a check will be pronounced intoxicated and thrown out on his ear."

That Amos and Andy, radio stars, have blonde eyebrows and eyelashes. That frogs sing with their mouths shut.

That camel's hair brushes are not made of camel hair but from the tails of Siberian squirrels.

That the biggest selling beverage in Dallas is not liquor but buttermilk.

That rye was recently quoted on the Chicago Board of Trade at 48 cents a bushel, while sawdust was quoted at 78 cents.

That cake will keep for a considerable time if you place a piece of bread in the tin box with it.

That if you rub a little mustard on your hands after peeling onions you will instantly remove the onion whiff.

And that a harder find than a woman who is true, is the towel when the soap is in your eyes.
