TEST WATER SUPPLY FOR SCHOOL SITES

The Department of Health is co-operating with the Department of Public Instruction at present in the inspection of water supplies for all new school locations, according to a report submitted to Secretary of Health, Dr. Theodore B. Appel, by John G. Ziegler, chief of the school sanitation division.

More than 100 locations which have been selected by local school boards for the erection of new school structures are being examined for safe and adequate water supplies as well as for their adaptability for the proper and safe disposal of sewage wastes in order that a consequent pollution of the waters of the State will not result.

Hi-Y Meeting

Wednesday, September 17, the Hi-Y boys held their first meeting of the school year. Several boys joined at this meeting and plans were discussed for a membership campaign, which will soon be under way.

Mr. McHose was elected faculty advisor and gave an interesting talk on the aims of the Hi-Y for the benefit of the new members. Several slogans were printed and posted on the bulletin board which interested the students, especially the new members of the club. One will probably be soon selected for the club slogan. The meetings are to be held every Wednesday afternoon and Mr. McHose or Mr. Mitchell will speak on a subject of interest to Hi-Y boys.

Organization of '30 Freshman Class

Twelve o'clock, September 17, found a merry, "fresh" group of freshmen assembled in Mr. McHose's room. Laughing, chattering and joking, they slowly quieted down.

First of all they elected their class officers. The president is Clyde Meyer. Clyde has shown himself an able president because he safely guided the Civic Club through one month of perilous sailing.

Our class secretary is Lawrence Craigie. Lawrence has high ambitions. His high esteem carries him through many difficulties.

The position of class historian is filled by Evelyn York. We have entrusted the care of our meager funds to Hilda Allen, a trustworthy member.

This class is made up of twenty-four jolly pupils.

After much applauding for each officer, the meeting was adjourned, until the next meeting on September 22, 1930.

Community Items

The whole community mourns the death of Mrs. Bernadine Garrity. She leaves four children, the oldest being ten. All four are pupils of Laketon high school. There has been a surprising raise in the death rate of Harvey's Lake. Since spring we have lost eight of our citizens.

Pearl Baer, a graduate of Laketon high, was married last Sunday in the Loyalville Methodist church. She is now Mrs. Irs.

Darrell Crispell triumphantly passed the State oral examination on Monday morning. He returned to school on the same day in his car to show that he could drive.

Joseph Delknic who is taking a post graduate course at Laketon high entertained at Hi-Acres, his home, a Welch quintet.

George Anderson, a driver of one of the many busses conveying students to the Laketon high school, attended the Tunkhannock fair on Friday. Two other people from the Outlet, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson, were there also.

English Assignment

An assignment of last week in which every student of the Junior-Senior English classes was to express his or her feelings at 3:45 on a warm afternoon, as expressed by Virginia Allen, a Junior in Laketon high.

Fifteen Minutes More—Then—

Will this day never end? Why must there be such long tiresome lessons when it's so hot? This dress of mine is all wrinkled and sticks to me just like all the papers stick to my hands. The pencils, mean things, won't stay in my hands.

These flies! If they don't stop bothering, something's going to die!

O, why does the professor call on me just now! What? You want me to write another story? I'm not coming to school anymore.

Will this bore never end. I've never been so bored and disgusted in my whole life.

If that bell doesn't ring pretty soon, I'm going to get up and walk out. I wonder how the water is today. I wish I was up North some place.

Pardon, what was the question? Yes, I guess so.

I wonder how soon it's going to snow. Wouldn't it be nice to go skating now? Will that bell never ring?

Did you say "why do children leave school?" Do I have to give a long answer? There goes the bell. I'm out.

Sixth Grade Notes

The pupils in Miss Hausch's sixth grade are making a map of the United States. We are putting in the regions as we study them. Today we put in the cotton belt.

The first region we studied about was the Florida peninsular. We learned many interesting things. One thing that interested us most was the formation of Florida. One would think that it could not be possible that Florida was once sea bottom, but it was.

As we study each region we outline it on our large maps, paste on products and also keep notes. It is very interesting work.

The pupils of the Intermediate grades of Laketon school are having a health contest. The fourth and fifth grade are against the sixth grade. This is because the sixth grade has so many more pupils than the other two grades.

They are trying to see which grade can be the neatest and cleanest. The grade that does not win must give a party to the other grades; therefore, every pupil is trying his best to make his class win the contest. My opinion is that the fourth and fifth grades will feed us.

Quoit Contest

Noon hours may be dull hours, but not at L. T. H. S. Our four-acre campus is now a field of enthusiasm and competition since our Hi-Y has introduced a quoit pitching contest. Students and teachers alike share in the contest that is being conducted.

Twenty-one teams have entered the contest and by elimination, a winning team will soon be known that may extend a challenge to other quoit teams of Hi-Y clubs.

The pitching distance is thirty feet from hob to hob, the boxes are thirty inches square and contain fine clay, purposely gotten for the quoit contest. The weight of the quoits is four pounds.

Each week's POST will give names of the winning teams and standings to date.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

On the second of September, we came to school expecting to occupy the same room but to our surprise we were too crowded and had to be moved to the Assembly hall.

When the classes started, it seemed queer, for we could not hear the teacher clearly on account of the size of the room.

Juniors Held Wiener Roast

On Thursday evening, September 18, the Junior class of Lake township high school held a wiener roast at the Summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allen of Alderson. It was an ideal place and an ideal evening to have a very pleasant time.

The evening was spent in roasting and eating wieners and marshmallows, drinking soda and playing games.

The roast was chaperoned by Mr. McHose, Mr. Mitchell, Miss Hellefinger and Mr. and Mrs. Allen.

The junior class wishes to extend hearty thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Allen for the kind invitation and the teachers who helped to make the evening so successful.

Our Civic Club

The Civic club of Miss Edwards' room, including seventh and eighth grades and the student council, have opened a campaign which consists of useful characters.

They are as follows: Honesty, Reliability, Neatness, Courtesy and Obedience.

At the end of the month they will give to each pupil a character sketch.

Feeling on a Warm September Day

The atmosphere is warm and the students have a dull, restless and sleepy feeling. The birds are singing sweetly and it is just the sort of weather that one wishes to go bathing. The leaves on the trees rustle gently and seem to say, "come to a little shady nook and bring along an interesting book."

The once lovely flowers in the vases wilt and are no more youthful. It is so pleasant in the shade of the "Old Apple Tree," that one wishes to abandon his studies until cool day in the future.

The perspiration rolls from the foreheads of every student and teacher, down the rosy faces, which was being absorbed by a once dry handkerchief but now moisture has taken its place. No one requires rouge in this warm, close weather. It is so warm that when one touches a book, it slips from their palms to the floor with an alarming crash. Even the walls resemble the lofty Niagara Falls.

Soon comes a well known visitor, the annoying fly, one chase and it is gone, soon another occupies the same spot. In a few moments you will see the teacher get "flit" and the flies quickly scatter to the hallway.

The teacher becomes very angry at the manner in which the uneasy students respond. The mind seems to be wandering or a term often used "in the fog." Several students are called on to recite, but failing to do so, down goes the xeros. Pupils cannot concentrate because it is so muggy.

Now is a study period, that is, supposed to be, but it is more of a lounging period, as several pupils are resting with heads buried deeply in the palms of their hands. Soon the professor loosens his tie and sheds his coat.

This is the uneasy way the afternoon continues until four o'clock when the bell rings, ting-a-ling. Every one rushes to the busses trying to secure a back seat if possible.

PICKING POULTRY

Some poultrymen now use the "slack-scald" method of picking poultry. This is a modification of scald picking. After killing and bleeding the birds, keep them in water at a temperature of about 120 degrees Fahrenheit for from one-fourth to one minute, depending on the class of poultry.

The feathers are then picked instead of being rubbed off as with scalded poultry. After plucking, the carcasses should be dried thoroughly. They are then handled in the same way as dry-picked poultry. This method, when properly done, results in carcasses which look like dry-picked poultry, though the slack-scald method permits more rapid picking and the more complete removal of pinfeathers.

Y. M. C. A. In Grades

The "Gra-Y," a branch of the Y. M. C. A. was organized in the intermediate and grammar grades of Lake township high school. This organization is for the benefit of the members as citizens of the United States. Nearly every boy was interested in the organization.

The boys decided that Elwood Davis would make a very good president; that Larry Yeager as vice president could capably carry on the work in case of Elwood's absence; that Carl Baer, famous because of his writing ability, would fill the position of secretary creditably and Harold Hawley could ably handle the funds.

The meeting was concluded by a humorous selection from the advisor, Joseph Delknic.

Penn'a. Day Celebrated at Laketon

Pennsylvania Day was celebrated on October 3 by the students of Laketon high school. They had many numbers which were enjoyed by all.

An original reading, "How Pennsylvania Was Settled," was written and also read by Goldie Hawley, a fifth grade pupil.

Mrs. Conrad Yeager of Laketon, rendered several lovely selections.

Richard Williams of the third grade read an interesting story which was called "Birds of Pennsylvania." He did exceptionally well for a pupil of his age.

Joseph Delknic gave a very interesting talk about "Pennsylvania During the Civil War."

Several other interesting and educational selections were rendered and were thoroughly enjoyed.

Alumni News

In the modern business and professional worlds, education helps spell success. Of course as Edison says "Genius is 99 per cent perspiration and 1 per cent inspiration." Every vocation calls for some kind of genius and we must do our best to develop our talents. The public school assists us in "finding ourselves" and in cultivating our qualities. We are expecting letters from some of our Alumni telling us how a high school education is aiding them, also relating some of their impressions of and activities of college life.

New Club Organized

The girls of Miss Edwards' and Miss Hausch's rooms planned to organize a Junior Girl Reserve club, which is a branch of the Y. W. C. A. They met in Miss Hausch's room at 1:15 Thursday afternoon.

The following officers were elected: President, Marguerite Traver; vice president, Louise Kern; secretary, Lucille Ruth; treasurer, Lela Cragle.

Miss Hausch talked to the girls concerning the aims and symbol of the club. The members decided to take as their aim: social, spiritual, mental and physical improvement.

The girls, who are very much interested in the club, expect to enjoy themselves immensely while they are making their homes, schools and communities better.
