Brooder

By Prof. Paul G. Riley

It has been the experience of people that a temperature of 85 degrees is warm enough for baby chicks. The usual recommendation, where either coal or oil stoves are used in the brooder houses, is to start with a temperature of 95 degrees, with a thermometer hanging at the edge of the hover about two inches off the floor.

The degree in the coal or oil stoves are used in the said he can wrap spaghetti around a said he can wrap spaghetti around a fork as well as any Italian.
